Billions in Building Is Hoped For.

Senate votes for 530 million dollar loans to business. Senator Black's amendment bars politics in applications for cash. House still to act on the measure. (Story on page 25.)

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—The housing program of the New Deal—aimed at rousing the sleeping building industry, at financing thousands of citizens in the repairing of old homes and the building of new ones, and at providing government insurance to back real estate mortgages—was sent to congress today by President Roosevelt.

Promoters of the new plan talk of billions of dollars being spent for building and rebuilding, but none of them was able to make any definite estimate as to how many billions are hoped for.

As a sample, however, of the scope intended to be covered by the housing program, the bill introduced to implement the plan puts a limit of 1 billion dollars on the amount of repair mortgages to be placed on homes. There is no limit on the amount of mortgages for new homes.

Creates Two New Bodies.

Two new corporations will be created under the bill, and will be added to the "alphabet soup" of the New Deal agencies.

One will be called the Home Credit Insurance corporation [HCIC], and the other the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation [FSLIC]. The HCIC will be financed with 200 million dollars advanced by the federal treasury and will guarantee financial institutions against loss on all mortgages negotiated for repairing old homes and building new ones.

The FSLIC will have 100 million dollars capitalization paid for in bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, and will insure in full amount the securities issued by approved building and loan and savings and loan institutions, homestead associations and coöperative banks, federal savings and loan associations which are members of a federal home loan bank.

Sends Message with It.

In a presidential message accompanying the bill Mr. Roosevelt pointed out the need for stimulating employment in the building trades and materials industries, and for making credit available to persons desiring to build or repair homes.

Supplementing the message, a statement prepared by Frank C. Walker, executive director of the National Emergency council, asserted that annual construction expenditures had dropped from 11 to 3 billion dollars, and that residential construction had declined from 3 billion to 300 millions. Mr. Walker asserted that 3½ million persons are normally employed directly in the construction industry, and that most of these today are in the army of the jobless.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], majority leader, called the housing bill "one of the biggest measures ever to come up here." The bill will be considered by the banking and currency committees of both houses, and may be reported out by the end of this week. President Roosevelt asked definitly that the measure be passed before adjournment of the present congress.

Members to Be Appointed.

Designated as the "National Housing act" the bill in its first section creates the HCIC, provides for its capital and authorizes the President to appoint the members of the corporation.

The corporation is authorized, upon terms to be determined by the board of directors, to insure "such banks, trust companies, personal finance companies, mortgage companies, building and loan associations, instalment lending companies, and other financial institutions as may apply for credit insurance and be approved as eligible by the board of directors, against losses which may result to any such financial institutions in consequence of loans and advances of credit, and purchases of obligations representing loans and advances of credit by such institutions made and entered into at any time prior to Jan. 1, 1936, unless an earlier date is set by order of the President, for the purpose of enabling home owners and others to make alterations, repairs and improvements."

Limited to Billion.

The bill limits the liability of the corporation to 20 per cent of the total amount of repair loans made by it, a percentage which the sponsors of the

TWO U. S. FLYERS OUT AT SEA ON DASH TO ROME

Plane Sighted Over Newfoundland.

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, May 14.—An airplane, believed to be that of Capt. George R. Pond and Cesare Sabelli, trans-Atlantic flyers, was sighted over Bell Island in Conception bay at 8 p. m. Atlantic time (5:32 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time) today. The plane was traveling high in an easterly direction. The weather was clear.

New York, May 14.—(AP)—Bound on a nonstop flight to Rome, Cesare Sabelli and Capt. George R. Pond roared aloft from Floyd Bennett field early today, sped up the Atlantic coast and tonight, apparently, were piercing low hanging fog over the Grand bank to reach fair weather over the open ocean.

The hazardous objective on this inaugural flight of the 1934 transoceanic season never before has been attained. Six lives have been lost in the trying.

But Sabelli, who made one of these attempts in 1928 with Roger Williams, and Capt. Pond, a former navy pilot, were confident.

A Perfect Takeoff.

As they lifted their 300 horsepower orange and maroon monoplane, Leonardo da Vinci, from the Brooklyn airport in a perfect takeoff at 6:25 a. m. [Chicago daylight saving time] Pond cried out to a handful of friends bidding them farewell:

"We'll make it all right. Everything is in our favor."

Their monoplane—named after the great Italian artist-engineer who centuries ago tried to conquer the air with machines—carried 680 gallons of gasoline, sufficient for forty-five hours.

The distance to Rome is 4,500 miles. The flyers expected to make it in thirty-nine or forty hours.

In Italy the air ministry prepared two airports for the flyers: One, the civilian airport at Littorio; the other, the military base at Ciampino.

Due in Rome Today.

If successful the airmen were calculated to reach their destination around 9 p. m. [Chicago time] tomorrow.

Theirs is the great circle route over the north Atlantic—the skyway emblazoned by Byrd, Acosta, Lindbergh, Earhart, Chamberlin, and the Mollisons.

They were fully aware of the foggy weather between New York and the open ocean. But after waiting for twenty-four hours at the airport, Sabelli—who is an Italian born, naturalized American—and Pond decided to take full advantage of the tail winds and bright skies prevailing far out at sea.

Only once up the New England coast were they reported. Life saving lookouts at Fletcher's Neck, near Biddeford on the Maine coast, heard the roar of motors at midmorning.

Plane Over Nova Scotia, Report.

At 3:40 p. m. [Chicago time] a large monoplane, believed to be that of the ocean flyers, was sighted high over Louisburg, Nova Scotia. Color and markings of the plane could not be distinguished. The plane disappeared in a haze.

The Leonardo da Vinci carries no sending wireless equipment, but has a receiving set. The flyers planned to listen in hourly for weather trends.

A dozen times in the last year, Pond—who started the ship to shore plane service from ocean liners several years ago with a trip from the Leviathan far below New York bay—and Sabelli have prepared for their takeoff. But each time adverse weather held them aground.

Today it seemed as if their jinx was left behind as the plane took off in the rising sun.

Flight Jinx to Flyers.

The flight has been unsuccessful to all previous attempters.

Three lives were lost when the Old Glory foundered at sea in 1927. Two years ago the American Nurse was lost with three lives—one of them that of a nurse, Edna Newcomber. Three other flights ended in forced landings. On the sixth, in the Pathfinder, Roger Williams and Lon Yancey landed in Spain. They flew on to Rome.

It was with Williams that Sabelli made his debut in 1928 to trans-Atlantic attempts. Their ship, the Roma, landed at sea 60 miles from New York. It was said Sabelli had invested all his available funds, about $37,000, in that attempt.

Pond is 40 years old. Sabelli is 37.

MOTHER ATTACKS NRA CODE OVER TRADE IN HOME

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—The United States District court will be asked tomorrow to modify the NRA regulations to permit a mother who has lost two jobs through it to make artificial flowers at home in order to support her two children and her aged mother.

Feeling that the NRA was not intended to work a hardship on a person in her circumstances, Mrs. Katherine Budd of Brooklyn has applied for an injunction restraining the code authorities from interfering with her vocation.

Mrs. Budd, whose children are 10 and 7 years old, has been an expert maker of artificial flowers. For some time she has augmented her income by working at that trade at home during her spare time. Several months ago she had a job as telephone operator at $12 a week, but her employers discharged her. They delegated her duties to some one else in the organization.

Mrs. Budd was not worried. She welcomed the opportunity to stay home and care for her dependents, certain that she would be able to support them by working there at her trade. She got a job with Jacob D. Jong of West 36th street to make flowers for him at her home. Recently he informed her that under the code for the industry home work was not permitted.

CUBA POSTPONES EXECUTION OF 35 AIDS OF MACHADO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 14.—President Carlos Mendieta tonight signed a decree postponing the execution of 35 men. These men were connected with the administration of former President Gerardo Machado, and are accused of complicity in wholesale murders and "mysterious disappearances" of oppositionists before Machado lost the presidency Aug. 12, 1933.

The executions were suspended until a constitutional assembly drafts and sanctions a new constitution and presidential elections are held. Mendieta is thus carrying out his decision to let another president sign the execution order, or grant clemency. He recently announced there would be no executions under his régime.

The deaths were decreed by provisional courts of sanctions established in each of the six provinces, and afterwards ratified by the national court of sanctions here. The courts will continue trying the remaining 32 former officials held responsible for similar crimes in Machado's régime.

Terry Takes a Drive and Picks Up 17 Police

Michael Terry, 43 years old, a stationary engineer at the Vanderpool school in Beverly Hills, made a hasty automobile trip through the southern part of Cook county yesterday, pursued in the last stages of his journey by 17 policemen. After a 20 mile chase he was captured in Blue Island and locked up in the Dixmoor jail. Six charges were preferred against him.

The chase began after Terry, who lives at 7845 South Marshfield avenue, is reported by police to have driven his sedan through a stop light at 95th and Halsted streets and crashed into a truck driven by Joseph Puzell, 257 West 103d street. Terry backed up and then drove his car into the truck again, blowing out one of his tires. Then, according to police, with the car listing dangerously, Terry proceeded south on Halsted street on his three tires at 60 miles an hour.

Rests at Race Track.

A physician, whose name was withheld, picked up Puzell in his automobile and gave chase. Terry drove to the Washington Park race track at 132d and Halsted streets in Homewood, and, believing he had outdistanced his pursuers, stopped for a breather. Puzell, meantime, stopped in the county highway police station at Homewood where he enlisted the aid of Deputy Sheriff Frank Freistatter, who drove to the track with him.

Freistatter, seeing Terry was intoxicated, moved cautiously forward to arrest him. Terry saw him and backed up his car, chasing the deputy around the track parking inclosure for ten minutes. Then Terry attempted a steeplechase jump over the fence to the track, and when his car stalled Freistatter seized him.

As Freistatter was summoning help on the telephone Terry slipped from his grasp. He ran to his car, started it, and was away again.

Cavalcade of Pursuers.

Back to Halsted street drove the elusive Terry, then west through Homewood, north on Western avenue and past the highway police station. He was seen from the station and a radio message was sent to police along the route to apprehend him.

Through Hazelcrest and Markham and then north through Posen and Dixmoor Terry drove the swaying car. At this point in the journey two policemen from Homewood, one from Hazelcrest, two each from Posen and Dixmoor, three deputy sheriffs, and two motorcycle policemen composed Terry's pursuing cavalcade, and were far behind.

As Terry drove into Blue Island five more policemen joined in the chase and fired shots at the back tires of his car. At Vermont street and Western avenue in Blue Island the wheel on which the tire had blown, crumpled, and Terry's travels were over.

But not his determination. He jumped from the car, swinging his fists. The policemen surrounded him and overpowered him. They found a dozen bottles of beer in the rear of the car. Terry was taken to the Dixmoor jail building, which also houses the village hall and a saloon. He made further efforts to escape, but was finally forced into a cell.

Puzell signed a complaint charging Terry with leaving the scene of an accident. Deputy Sheriff Freistatter charged him with assault with an automobile. The Dixmoor police charged him with reckless driving, driving while intoxicated, disorderly conduct, and speeding.

Terry was held in bonds totaling $2,000 on the six charges. No one attempted to question him last night. The Dixmoor police feared that if his cell door were opened he would escape again.

ALDERMEN PROTEST 45 YEAR AGE LIMIT ON JOBS AS UNJUST

The city council yesterday condemned the practice of setting up 45 years as an arbitrary age limit for employés in industry. Stating that many large employers of labor are unwilling to hire new men or take back old employés beyond this age, the resolution asked the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Illinois Manufacturers' association to make efforts to discourage the practice.

Ald. A. G. Lindell [9th], sponsor of the resolution, said that adherence to the age limit "is certain to result sooner or later in further restrictive legislation upon industry."

Such a practice, said the resolution, is "unjust, unfair, and detrimental to the social and economic well being of our citizens and of our city."

FINDS NINE OHIO LIQUOR STORES ARE NOT PAYING

Columbus, O., May 14.—(AP)—Ohio's liquor department, topping the million dollar mark in sales, today placed nine of its 109 stores on probation as its purchasing agent confessed to overoptimism in the pre-monopoly survey of probable business.

Matt Hinkel, technical adviser to the liquor department, told a special senate investigating committee, "it appears as if we are not going to sell half as much liquor as I had estimated."

State stores at Mount Gilead, London, New Lexington, Wapakoneta, Ottawa, Paulding, Waverly, Logan, and Napoleon will be continued in operation for 60 days "to give the communities in which the store are situated an opportunity to retain them."

Escaped Asylum Patient Joyrides in Locomotive

Clinton, Ind., May 14.—(AP)—Hiram Blackburn, an escaped inmate of the Kankakee, Ill., Hospital for the Insane, was in the city jail here today. Blackburn, a former railroad fireman of Oak Lawn, Ill., boarded a locomotive in the Jackson yards here and roared away over the C. & E. I. tracks. His ride ended when the locomotive struck a derail.

LITTLE JUNE ROBLES SAFE; GETTLE BACK HOME; SEIZE 6

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., May 14.—[Special.]—William F. Gettle, Beverly Hills oil millionaire, who had been held captive by kidnapers since last Wednesday midnight, was freed tonight by sheriff's deputies and police in a spectacular raid on a house in La Crescenta, in the foothills of North Glendale. Six suspects are under arrest. The sixth, who escaped during the raid, later was arrested in a Los Angeles drug store. None of the $75,000 ransom was paid.

Gettle was found on a bed, his hands bound and a tape mask over his face, but he had suffered only minor injuries. Following brief questioning he was reunited with his wife at his country estate at Arcadia, from which he had been kidnaped as guests were about to depart after a party.

All Seems Like Nightmare.

"It all seemed like a nightmare," Gettle said as officers freed him of his bonds. "My greatest worry while I lay bound hand and foot on that bed was for the anxiety my absence would cause my wife and family."

Three of the suspects were seized this afternoon in a Los Angeles apartment. One was captured when Gettle was found. It was a stroke of luck that brought freedom to Gettle. Police had been watching an apartment house for bank robbers. In their absence the police had placed recording devices in the room. After checking the recording devices and watching the house for several days and nights the officers were about to give up when the instruments recorded this conversation last Saturday between a man and a woman in the room:

"There is no need to be scared any longer. Things are in pretty good shape. The newspapers look favorable. I understand no one can tap a pay telephone line."

Find Address on Card.

That was the tipoff. Detective Lieutenant H. P. Gearhard headed a raid of the apartment this morning and arrested Jimmy Kirk and two women, Loretta Woody and Joan Burke. When searched at police headquarters officers found a business card on which was penciled the name of Gettle and the address of the kidnap house in La Crescenta. Later police and deputy sheriffs raided the house where Gettle was found. There Roy Williams, who said he was a ranch hand and automobile mechanic, was arrested.

Williams said he had been employed by the kidnapers as a guard and denied participating in the actual kidnaping. Larry Kerrigan, described by Gettle as the brains of the gang, dove through a window when the kidnapers' lair was raided and escaped. When captured in a drug store it was discovered that Kerrigan, alias Leron Feltus, was an ex-convict. Later the police took into custody "Red" Hoyle Seigler.

Assigned to Watch Gettle.

Officers said that Williams admitted that he had consented to aid two men known to him only as "Johnny" and "Tommy" in kidnaping Gettle and Child Chained by Feet; Covered with Cactus.

(Pictures on 2d, 3d, and back pages.)

Tucson, Ariz., May 14.—[Special.]—Little June Robles, 6 year old schoolgirl who was kidnaped for $15,000 ransom April 25, was found alive this afternoon, chained by an ankle inside a cage-like dugout, covered with cactus, about 10 miles from her home.

"I want my mama," were her first words. Her voice was weak. She was emaciated from lack of wholesome food and covered with desert dust and grime. She did not have strength enough to walk. Her rescuers carried her away.

Tucson Aroused.

The finding of the girl caused mixed feelings in Tucson, joy because she was safe and indignation over the brutal manner in which her captors had abandoned her.

The happiness was complete at the Robles home as the relatives, headed by June's parents, Fernando and Mrs. Helen Robles, and her grandfather, Bernabe Robles, wealthy Pima county rancher, gathered about her.

Later, when June had recovered a little strength, she appeared on the front porch and threw kisses to a crowd of several hundred who waited outside and cheered.

Clew from Chicago.

Strangely, a letter from Chicago resulted in the finding of the girl. This letter, sent by special delivery on May 10, was addressed to Gov. B. B. Moeur at Phoenix, and reached him shortly before noon today. He kept it strictly secret and sent it to County Attorney Clarence Houston here.

The message, printed in pen and ink and obviously by the same person who had previously sent two printed kidnap letters to the Robles family, contained instructions as to where June could be found. These instructions directed the searchers to drive out Broadway to Wilmont, then turn south on Rincon way, proceed a mile east, and then walk 150 or 200 steps north.

Feared Her Dead.

County Attorney Houston and his assistant, Carlos Robles, an uncle of June, started out alone to follow the directions.

Both felt misgivings, particularly Robles, who feared that perhaps his niece was dead. The two officials, riding in a large car, experienced some difficulty in reaching the designated area, and it was nearly 3 o'clock before their journey and search were ended.

The two were driving slowly along a sand swept and little used county road when Houston discovered a misshapen mound dotting the desert landscape a quarter of a mile away. They drove as near to it as possible.

Has Uncle Wait.

Houston, certain that this was where June would be found, persuaded Robles, the uncle, to remain behind in the car. Houston, like Robles, expected to find a dead girl.

The prosecutor hurried over to the mound. As he approached he could see it was made up of cactus and brush and wood. In a few moments he reached the place and quickly began tearing away the rude covering, evidently intended to ward off the terrific sun and heat, from the prisoner below. Finally he forced an opening.

He looked down. Looking up was little June. Her eyes blinked and she appeared a little startled. Houston began speaking softly.

"I Want My Mama."

"Hello, June, do you know me?" he asked. "Are you afraid of me?"

Tears flowed from the girl's eyes, then satisfied Houston was a friend and not a kidnaper, she replied:

"No, I'm not afraid of you. I want my mama."

Houston questioned June a bit further and asked her again if she knew him. She replied she did not. Houston then mentioned the name "Lechi," a nickname for her uncle, Carlos, who was sitting nervously in the car several hundred feet away. June's eyes lightened and she nodded excitedly that she knew "Lechi."

Robles Weeps at Sight.

The county attorney called to Robles then, and he ran up. He wept as he saw his niece in the gravelike hole. Then with Houston he began clearing away the covering brush. This revealed a hole about six feet long, three feet wide and about four feet deep. Its sides were walled with board, tin, burlap and other materials. It appeared to be an effective underground cell, and it was apparent that June had been kept in it throughout the 19 days of captivity. On the bottom of the pit were a jug of water, a loaf of fairly fresh bread, and a few oranges and some vegetables.

Both men were about ready to try to lift her out—neither could descend into the hole—when they discovered that she was chained by an ankle to the side. Searching about they found—as indicated in the letter from Chicago—a tin can and inside the can a key, to open the lock. Houston handed the key to June and she, following his instructions, succeeded in opening the lock and freeing herself. Then the men reached down and pulled her out.

Carry Her to Auto.

Robles carried June to the automobile and within a short time he and Houston returned her t her mother's arms. Mrs. Robles nearly swooned with joy. Since April 25 she had been prostrated with grief.

Doctors, after a cursory examination, announced that June, although suffering from lack of food and from exposure to desert heat and dirt, would recover. She was none the worse mentally for her harrowing experience, and she indicated this when she demanded almost at the outset: "How is my report card?" She was referring to the April report from the school she attends.

During the afternoon the girl rested and was given a bath. Later she was carried out to the porch so she could be seen by the crowd. She was still too weak to walk, however.

Late tonight the happy crowds still surged around the Robles home until it was necessary to rope off the streets and post a police guard.

Insist No Ransom Paid.

It was announced at the home that not one cent of the $15,000 ransom demanded had been paid. A few days ago Bernabe Robles, the wealthy grandfather, had managed to raise $10,000, which he publicly announced he was willing to pay to the kidnapers for the safe return of June.

The sheriff's office and other law agencies believed tonight that the kidnapers, although close to collecting a major part of the ransom, lost heart toward the end, arranged to send a letter from Chicago, and then abandoned the girl in the dugout.

In the belief that part of the kidnap gang may still be here, the authorities picked up their investigation which they had temporarily abandoned a few days ago at the request of the Robles family.

This request was made for fear June might be killed if police pressed the hunt. About the only clew to the abductors was given by June herself, who said one of the men "wore gloves," and that two of them called each other "Bill" and "Will."

that he had been assigned to watch the Gettle estate. He advised the two, he said, that the night of the party appeared to be a good time for the kidnaping. He said he had no part in the actual kidnaping.

For some time after his release Gettle was too overcome to speak, but en route to the sheriff's office he told officers that the suspect who escaped was the leader or "brains" of his abductors. This was Kerrigan, later captured.

As the police car carrying Gettle and the prisoner drew up to the hall of justice, policemen had to fight their way open through a crowd of 1,000 persons. Gettle alighted unaided from the car and made his way through the path opened for him by the police. He wore smoked glasses which the kidnapers had insisted on as a disguise.

The kidnaped man looked tired and haggard. Right behind him, in the grip of two large deputies marched Roy Williams.

The rescued millionaire and the prisoner were taken to the office of the homicide bureau to have Gettle view the other prisoners. Then Gettle was taken home.

Officers Surround House.

Two carloads of officers, headed by Deputy Sheriff Harry Brewster, made the raid on the La Crescenta house.

Arriving there the officers spread out and surrounded the dwelling. Brewster and an aid seized Williams. The second man dived through a window and ran into the foothills.

Gettle was bound hand and foot on a bed in a darkened bedroom. He was weak and stiff from inactivity, which with his fall off the wall of his country estate at the time of his capture, caused him to limp and shake tonight. A surgeon examined him at the hall of justice and later accompanied him home.

Nearly a hundred police cars were summoned by radio and took up the search for the fugitive.

Kirk Called Contact Man.

Kirk, according to the officers, was the contact man for the kidnapers and had conducted the telephone negotiations with Attorney E. E. Noon. It was revealed that all of the telephone conversations had been conducted from telephones in Beverly Hills and Hollywood, many of them within a few blocks of the Gettle home.

"I had no idea at all that there was so much concern about me," Gettle said. "I was badly worried all the time, of course, about my family and my wife's health. But I didn't expect my disappearance to attract any more than passing attention from the public.

"It all seems like a nightmare.

Loses Track of Time.

"When I think it over I hardly remember when the thing began. I guess I have missed track of the time. Of course you are bound to worry when you are lying bound, hand and foot, all day and all night for several days and nights. What worried me was my family.

"Those fellows treated me pretty well, I guess, at that. My wrist was hurt, where I fell off the wall when they took me, and my eyes hurt all the time. But they didn't let me go hungry. They fed me twice a day. Jim [meaning Kerrigan] was the cook."

Williams, Gettle said, was the man who changed the bandages over his eyes, doing so several times a day when he complained about his eyes. Gettle said he had several good chances to see Williams, who, according to the real estate man, was the member of the gang who rented the kidnap house.

Shakes Hands with Rescuers.

The first thing asked by the kidnap victim after his bonds were cut by the officers was a drink. The deputies fetched him a glass of water.

"How do you feel?" they asked. "Well, I feel pretty weak, but okay; they didn't treat me badly."

Before he was removed to his home, where he was greeted by his wife and children, Gettle insisted on shaking hands personally with each member of the posse of seven men who had effected his release. He was profuse in his thanks. "I didn't think people would be so interested in me," he said. "I don't know how the officers traced me to that house. It was fine work."

Before he left the hall of justice Gettle was taken down an elevator from the county jail located on the top floors of the thirteen story building, where his identification of the prisoners was made, to a place where a Plymouth two door coach was stored among other automobiles. Gettle pointed the gray coach out. "That's the car," he said, meaning the automobile in which his captors had sped him away from his Arcadia country home when they captured and bound him at midnight last Wednesday night.

District Attorney Buron Fitts announced tonight that action against the suspected kidnapers would be started tomorrow.

NEIGHBORS WELCOME GETTLE HOME AFTER HE ESCAPES KIDNAPERS

Los Angeles, Cal., May 14.—[Special.]—Many of his neighbors were on hand tonight to welcome William F. Gettle, millionaire oil man, after he had been rescued from the kidnapers and returned to his home in Beverly Hills.

Among those present were John Barrymore, Leslie Howard, Joan Crawford, Winnie Lightner, Chief of Police Charles Blair of Beverly Hills, and others.

The pleasant task of informing the bed-ridden wife went to Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, whose deputies led the way to her husband's release.

Fearful lest the shock be too great for Mrs. Gettle's frail body to stand, Biscailuz approached her bed in the Beverly Hills mansion and said:

"Mrs. Gettle, we understand your husband will be back tonight—that he will be safely returned we feel sure."

She trembled violently as her lips spoke:

"Thank God."

Sensing that there was no danger of a collapse, the sheriff of Los Angeles county blurted out boldly:

"Your husband has been returned safe."

Tears welled into Mrs. Gettle's eyes, and as she sobbed with joy she repeated prayerfully:

"Thank God. Thank God."

Kingsford-Smith on Way to U. S. to Get Racing Plane

HONOLULU, May 14.—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, famous Australian flyer, accompanied by his wife, Lady Mary, arrived here today on the Monterey from Melbourne en route to Los Angeles. He expects to buy a plane in the United States to fly in the London to Melbourne race next fall.

Owner of Evanston Food Shop Robbed of $600

Niles Center police last night were searching for two bandits who early yesterday stole $600 from Walter Shure, 4847 Greenleaf street, Niles Center, owner of Wally's food shop at 528 Main street, Evanston. He was stopped at the garage in the rear of his home. The bandits took his money and his car, but abandoned the car six blocks away.

June Carried Off by a Tall Emaciated Man in Old Auto

Tucson, Ariz., May 14.—(AP)—June Robles, 6, vanished while on her way home from school Wednesday afternoon, April 25. Her little cousin, Barney Kingia, 6, who was walking behind her, said a small black automobile drew up to the curb beside the little girl and she entered it.

This phase of the case also was witnessed by Mrs. Harold D. Smith, who did not realize the significance of it until the alarm was spread.

Mrs. Smith said she saw an old sedan moving slowly along the street and its driver, a tall, emaciated man wearing dark glasses, motioning at June to get into the machine. She said she drove past the old car so slowly that the driver looked up and peered intently at her, whereupon she speeded up at the insistence of her little son by her side. The license plates on the old car were so badly bent, Mrs. Smith said, that she could not read the numbers.

Boy Delivers Note.

Two hours after the little girl vanished, a small boy, Rosalio Estrada, delivered to the girl's father, Fernando Robles, a roughly printed note demanding $15,000 and warning against bringing police into the case. Young Estrada said a man had given him 25 cents to deliver the note and had instructed him to bring an answer to a nearby parking lot.

When young Estrada went to the parking lot later the man had vanished. Ray Orcutt, operator of the lot, said a heavily tanned man in gray had stood about the place nervously for a while and then disappeared.

The cry of kidnaping brought swiftly into action the most formidable man hunt ever thrown together in Arizona, which grew to statehood in an era of six gun rule, cattle rustling and frontier outlawry.

Old West Arms Again.

Cowboys, sheriffs, police, American Legionnaires and private citizens—many of them men who figuratively grew up with guns in their hands—mobilized to run down the kidnapers. In a few hours more than 1,000 men were in the hunt, ready to shoot it out in the style of their ancestors facing outlaws of old.

Six guns became fashionable again in Tucson. Men went through the streets with cartridge belts about their waists and with revolvers hanging loose and ready in holsters. Machine guns, rifles, and clubs made up other armament and the city for a while took on something of its pioneer atmosphere.

Tucson was combed almost inch by inch, but in vain. The man hunters spread to mountain and desert near by.

On the early morning following the kidnaping the anxiety ridden Robles family signified a desire to have the intense searching stopped, fearing that such determined activity might jeopardize the safety of the little girl. Still later it was learned the family had decided to attempt negotiations with the abductors through an unnamed intermediary. The man hunting machine paused.

Goes Into Old Mexico.

Sunday, April 29, Bernabe Robles, elderly grandfather of the child and a pioneer cattle raiser, made a secret trip across the border into Sonora, Mexico, supposedly in connection with the kidnaping.

On a second trip the next day the reputedly wealthy man said he sought advice from a seer near Santa Ana, Sonora, but details of what advice the elder Robles received, if any, were not disclosed.

On his return from the second trip the night of May 1 the family announced that at its request authorities had been withdrawn from the case to allow unhampered negotiations with June's abductors. This announcement was followed by one that the $15,000 ransom was "ready" for payment as soon as the kidnapers indicated they were ready to deal and could guarantee, by means of answers to certain questions put to June, that they were actually her abductors.

Doubt Success of Plan.

Five days after the family's public appeal to the abductors to come forth and negotiate without fear of official intervention, authorities began to express doubt that the vigil would bear fruit. However, they made it known they would continue to stay out of the case "a while longer."

Another climax came when Mrs. Bernabe Robles, the child's grandmother, said in an interview that the original ransom note threatened death to both the girl and her father, Fernando Robles, if the ransom were not paid.

May 7 heavily armed American officers suddenly sped across the border southward from Nogales, presumably on a hunt for the abductors somewhere in that vicinity, but returned empty handed. At the same time, however, two Arizona highway patrolmen headed quietly for Cananea, some distance from Nogales, obtained the aid of Mexican police and searched the copper mining town on a tip that the abductors had left the child there.

Tells Secret Plans.

The next day it developed that a man had been taken into custody in Tucson several days previously and had implicated himself, along with a Mexican couple and an American man, as the abductors. He furnished officers with the alleged secret plans of the kidnapers and on that basis a widespread hunt was carried on in the vicinity of Cananea for them but without avail.

Finally the family made known that a second note had been received and the father, Fernando Robles, disclosed he had been able to raise only $10,000 as ransom. Again officers agreed to withdraw from the case as the family requested another "truce" and made plans to broadcast another appeal to the abductors. The father made known that the donors of the ransom had specified that payment be made only when June was returned safely.

On that basis the case stood for several days. The father continued his efforts to meet and deal with the snatchers. Hope was waning once again when the news came that the girl was alive.

STORY OF KIDNAPING OF W. F. GETTLE AT PARTY AT HIS HOME

Los Angeles, Cal., May 14.—[Special.]—William Gettle was kidnaped at the close of a party given to celebrate the completion of a new swimming pool at his estate. The women guests had gone into the house and Gettle and James Wolf, a friend, were accosted by two masked men who thrust pistols against them and marched them to a 7 foot wall inclosing the estate on three sides.

Wolf was tied to a tree and gagged and Gettle forced to climb a stepladder to the top of the wall. At the top he fell and Wolf said later that he heard him moan. The kidnapers followed Gettle over the wall, hustled him into a car and drove away. It was half an hour before Wolf could free himself and give the alarm.

An intensive hunt was begun for the kidnapers. Attorney Noon made several contacts with persons he believed to be the kidnapers by telephone. At the request of the family officers ceased their hunt for suspects pending the outcome of negotiations until the first arrests today.

Mexican Troops Rush to Town Seized by Bandits

PINOTEPA, Oaxaca, Mexico, May 14.—(AP)—Federal troops were being rushed to Santo Domingo today where 20 bandits, headed by Alfonso Cruz, have terrorized the populace since last Friday. Sweeping into the town, the bandits looted stores and ransacked every residence. The mayor of the town fled before the bandits reached the city hall, but it was feared here that the secretary of the city hall was murdered.

UNCLE OF CHILD TELLS STORY OF STRANGE RESCUE

Takes Her to Her Mother, Overjoyed.

BY CARLOS G. ROBLES.

[Uncle of 8 year old June Robles, kidnaped 19 days ago. The uncle, with County Attorney Clarence Houston, found her yesterday.]

Tucson, Ariz., May 15.—(AP)—We had expected to find her dead if we found her at all. The letter said we would locate her under a pile of cactus, 150 paces from the roadway. That led us all to believe she would be dead.

We had tramped over the cactus and desert until 4 o'clock, when Houston and I decided to take different directions and zig-zag through the cactus and mesquite. We were far apart when I heard Houston yell "Carlos! Carlos!" For a time I could not find him, the underbrush was so thick, and then I saw his white shirt. I ran. From a distance I saw him run over and pick up a bundle apparently off the ground. I was sure June was dead.

When I saw she was alive I could not believe my eyes or restrain myself.

Tries at Once to Walk.

She did not recognize Houston, but she did know me. When I picked her up she said "I want to walk," but her legs were so weak they would not hold her, and she fell several times, until Houston and I managed to hold her up so she could have the satisfaction of walking. As we started to leave the pit, June held back. "I want my report card," she said. "I want to show it to mama. I got two 'ones' and must show it to mother."

Apparently she had received her school report card on the day she was kidnaped.

The child was in a dazed condition and volunteered no information as we drove toward Tucson. We did not question her but tried to make it appear that nothing had happened. It was hard. She said she wanted to see Barney [Barney Kengla, a little cousin who was near when she was kidnaped]. She was principally concerned to be taken to her mother. It was easy to see that the child's mind was not functioning normally.

Covered with Prickly Heat.

Her body was entirely covered with prickly heat, from being enclosed in the pit. Both of her ankles had been chained and one of them was terribly bruised and the flesh raw where the shackles had gripped so closely. Only the fact that she was always a robust child permitted her to go through 19 days and nights of imprisonment.

She did tell us on our way back to Tucson that when put in the pit she had a mattress and a pillow, but that later some one came and took them away. "They brought me sacks, all dirty," June told us. "I took two and made a mattress, but the one for the pillow was hard and smelled, and I had two for covers, but it was cold at night."

Put Child in Mother's Arms.

When we reached Tucson, Houston and I drove to the back door of my father's house [Fernando Robles]. June's mother was upstairs, but before we could get the child to her some one dashed up to explain that June was back. Mrs. Robles would not believe it. They put the child in her arms. She could say nothing and for a time could not even cry, but broke at last into joyful sobs.

I called June's father, Fernando, to come over from his shop, saying I wished to see him. He, too, was overcome with joy, and the house was filled with happiness and tears.

June asked for her bunnies when we put her down on a bed. She had on exactly the same clothes, now terribly dirty, as on the day she was kidnaped. She did not want to be undressed and asked for her paper dolls. She sat there playing with her bunnies and cutting out paper dolls, rather listlessly, though.

Want Her Kept Quiet.

We did not question her about her 19 days in the grave and will not until she recovers from the daze she is in. She gave no description of the men. Her physicians state that she must be kept perfectly quiet for days and carefully guarded from excitement.

She must have endured much while shut in there. In the box or grave she was in she could not sit up and only had room enough to turn over. That was almost impossible because of the chains about her ankle. [The chains were fastened to an iron stake driven deep into the ground.] The days must have been insufferable because of the few holes in the tin roof. Some protection from the blazing sun was given by the cactus piled over it. Houston could not get the top of the pit open himself and had to ask June to help him raise the lid.

Robles Child Weak from 19 Days' Exposure in Dugout

Kidnapers of Robles child placed her in gravelike dugout near Tucson. "I want my mama," June Robles, pretty daughter of wealthy Arizona family said after she was discovered by officials. Authorities believe she was chained in the dugout the entire 19 days she was missing.

KIDNAPER FLEES TRAP; FEAR FOR 2 RICH YOUTHS

Carteret, N. J., May 14.—[Special.]—A fantastic bungle by department of justice agents and police may cost the lives of two wealthy young men in the hands of kidnapers, it was feared today.

The victims, Edward Schwartz and Sigmund Schwartz, son and nephew, respectively, of Isadore Schwartz, retired banker of this city, disappeared on the night of April 3.

Two weeks ago the elder Schwartz received a letter demanding $40,000 ransom, with a proviso that he make no attempt to communicate with law enforcing agencies.

Schwartz was persuaded, however, to notify authorities.

They surrounded a lonely stretch of woods along the Pennsylvania railroad right of way, between Stelton and Menlo Park stations.

Schwartz, as he had been instructed to do in the kidnap ransom letter, stood on the back platform on a train. Instead of a package of $40,000 in currency he held a package containing two $20 bills and pieces of newspaper.

He flung the package off the train when he saw a robed and hooded figure wave at him.

At the next station he was informed that the kidnaper had slipped past the police cordon.

KIDNAPER DENIES HATE PROMPTS STORY OF BOETTCHER PLOTTING

Pierre, S. D., May 14.—(AP)—A confessed kidnaper who admitted he stole from his pal, but insisted he turned government witness because relatives urged him to tell the truth, finished a session on the stand today in the trial of Mrs. Fern Sankey and Mrs. Alcorn Kohler as plotters in Charles Boettcher II., abduction.

Gordon Alcorn, life prisoner at Leavenworth, maintained under cross-examination his story that the widow and the sister-in-law of his former chief, Verne Sankey, took part in the Boettcher abduction conspiracy. He refused to admit revenge or promise of lenience were his motives.

Seeking to show enmity for Mrs. Sankey induced Alcorn to implicate her, defense Attorney Holton Davenport drew from the convict the admission he "had trouble" with Sankey in Chicago after they collected $60,000 ransom for Boettcher's return.

Dr. A. J. Hruby and Wife Robbed of Cash and Ring

Dr. Allen J. Hruby and his wife were robbed of $150 in cash and a $500 diamond ring last night by three bandits as the Hrubys were driving their car to the garage in the rear of their home at 1130 North Lorel avenue. The gunmen held handkerchiefs in front of their faces. The money was taken from the doctor and the ring from Mrs. Hruby.

N. Y. CITY SAVES HALF MILLION ON INTEREST RATE

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Controler Joseph D. McGoldrick announced tonight that he had obtained from the banking syndicate handling city loans a reduction in the interest rate from 4 to 3 per cent on the city's borrowings in anticipation of taxes. The city will have to borrow $76,000,000 for the remainder of the first half of this year and about $180,000,000 for the second half, for periods ranging from two to six months. The saving to the city will be about $500,000 for the rest of the year, it was estimated.

Lightning Strikes Tree on White House Grounds

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—Lightning struck a huge maple tree at the Pennsylvania avenue entrance of the White House grounds today, ripping a slice of bark off about 30 feet in length and a foot wide. The bolt sent a resounding crash through the White House. The storm broke in late afternoon when several guests were entering the grounds to attend a lawn party. No one was injured.

State Seeks $26,529,579 Overdue Tax from County

The state government's share of delinquent taxes in Illinois for the years 1929-'30-'31-'32 amounted to $29,573,270, of which $26,529,579 is due from Cook county, State Treasurer Martin announced yesterday at Springfield. Cook county still owes the state $2,686,944 in 1929 taxes, $5,975,840 for 1930, $6,511,811 for 1931 and $11,354,884 for 1932, he said.

M'LAUGHLIN HELD FOR REMOVAL IN KIDNAPING CASE

Defense Plans Plea Today for Habeas Writ.

Declaring kidnaping for ransom to be most abhorrent, United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday held John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, former Illinois legislator, his son and two other men for removal to St. Paul on conspiracy charges in connection with the kidnaping last January of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker who paid $200,000 for his release. Those held with Mc Laughlin are John McLaughlin Jr., Philip Delaney and William Vidler, an ex-convict.

"Great caution has to be exercised in this case because of the gravity of the charge and its importance to the defendants," said Commissioner Walker. "The charge is conspiracy in an offense most abhorred by the whole world—kidnaping for ransom."

Plan Plea for Habeas Writ.

On the pleas of William Parrillo and Alfred E. Roth, defense lawyers, the commissioner agreed to withhold formal entry of the removal order until today. The delay will give Attorneys Parrillo and Roth an opportunity to carry out their announced plan of filing a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of their clients in the federal district court this forenoon.

The removal hearing yesterday was brief, most of the evidence having been heard at previous sessions. On those occasions the government alleged that Vidler had been arrested carrying $2,256 of the ransom money paid for Bremer's release, and that he had confessed receiving this money from McLaughlin. Young McLaughlin was said to have had $85 of the ransom cash.

Others Under Indictment.

In addition to these contentions the government presented a certified copy of an indictment naming the two McLaughlins, Vidler, Delaney, and seven other men. This indictment was returned in St. Paul on May 4. The seven others named are Alvin Karpis and Arthur [Doc] Baker, Oklahoma ex-convicts and reputed members of the Dillinger gang; Frank Wright, Ray [Slim] Gray, one "Izzy," alias Jones, and two others, designated only as John Doe and Richard Roe.

Commissioner Walker held that this indictment, which he said was cleverly drawn, and the testimony of several witnesses the government had produced were sufficient to establish a prima facie case against the McLaughlins, Delaney, and Vidler.

CHICAGO POLICE CHECK CLEWS IN ROBLES CASE

The finding of 8 year old June Robles, kidnap victim, at Tucson, Ariz., through a letter mailed out of Chicago on May 10 started police action in helping to run down the kidnapers.

This development gave importance to the only other "Robles clew" to come up here. That was a mysterious telephone call received at 7:10 o'clock in the morning on May 9, one day before the letter was mailed.

The telephone call was received by Desk Sergeant Spoonholtz of the Oak Park police. The speaker, a man, told him the following:

"If you are interested in finding the Robles girl, wire her parents at Tucson to come on to Chicago with $25,000 and give it to Benjamin Franklin at the Congress hotel."

Sergt. Spoonholtz traced the call to Dearborn 5675, which is in the Union station. Then he notified the Chicago detective bureau, and Sergt. John Fogarty and a squad went to the hotel searching for a "Benjamin Franklin."

Fogarty learned that a man had registered as B. L. Franklin and wife from St. Louis on April 28 and had checked out on April 30. Hotel attachés knew little of them. One bellboy recalled carrying food to a man of that name in his room.

Police said it may well be that the telephone call was legitimate or it may equally well be that some one was seeking to embarrass some one of the name of Franklin.

ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL.

Elias Olson, 46 years old, 9357 Marquette avenue, was found dead in his bed, shot in his right temple last night. Beside him lay a revolver.

LIST OF 11 RECENT KIDNAPINGS THAT HAVE BEEN SOLVED

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Among recent kidnapings that have been solved in addition to the two yesterday are the following:

Feb. 12, 1933—Charles Boettcher II., Denver; returned March 1, 1933, Verne Sankey, charged with crime, killed himself, two other participants convicted and two now on trial.

May 2, 1933—Peggy McMath of Harwichport, Mass., $40,000 paid; returned May 5, abductors convicted.

May 26, 1933—James Hackett, Blue Island Ill., free after ransom payment; two convicted, third awaiting trial.

May 27, 1933—Mary McElroy, Kansas City, $30,000 paid; returned May 28, abductors convicted, one drawing death sentence.

July 1, 1933—John Factor, Chicago, $50,000 paid; four members of Touhy gang convicted.

July 16, 1933—August Luer, Alton Ill.; returned July 16, kidnapers convicted; one escaped prison and still at large.

July 22, 1933—Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City, $200,000 paid; returned Aug. 1, kidnapers convicted.

Nov. 9, 1933—Brooke Hart, San Jose, Cal., slain, abductors lynched.

BRITAIN PASSES BILL EXTENDING DOLE BENEFITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14.—After 27 days of discussion, the British government's new unemployment insurance bill providing for far reaching extensions of the dole passed third reading in the house of commons tonight, 421 to 67.

Sir Henry Betterton, minister of labor, who has sponsored the measure through parliament, told the house the bill will restore unemployment cuts imposed in 1931 and extend from 26 to a possible 52 weeks the period in which an unemployed man might draw a dole without inquiry as to his means of support. He estimated that 650,000 persons will benefit from those provisions yearly at a cost to the insurance fund of $37,500,000.

The bill for the first time makes it a duty of local authorities to provide courses of instruction for workless boys and girls, he pointed out. Furthermore the government, he said, has devised methods to maintain the solvency of the insurance fund and has provided machinery by which the insurance of agricultural workers and others at present outside the scheme may be considered by a statutory committee.

Unidentified Woman Found Dead in South Side Alley

An unidentified woman, between 40 and 45 years of age, was found dead last night in an alley in the rear of 8138 Kenwood avenue. For a while police believed that she had been murdered, but a medical examination early today by Coroner's Physician George F. O'Brien failed to show any exterior signs of violence. Dr. O'Brien said the woman had been dead for more than 24 hours. The only clew to her identity is a wedding ring inside of which is the inscription "H. M. to M. R. 5-1913."

Runaway Ohio Girls, Here for Fair Jobs, Arrested

Margaret Robinson, 16 years old, and Harriet Sey, 17, both of Cleveland Heights, a suburb of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived in Chicago by bus last night to "see the sights and get jobs at the World's Fair." Their plans were upset, however, when police met them at the bus depot.

ROOSEVELT ACTS TO SPEED UP PAY FOR TEACHERS

Sabath Cheered by Talk for U. S. Loan.

Hopes for paying the $27,000,000 back salaries of teachers and other school employés rose yesterday on news from Washington of a conference on the situation between President Roosevelt and members of the Chicago delegation to congress. Congressman A. J. Sabath [Dem., Chicago], who led 14 Democratic colleagues to the White House, declared he was greatly heartened by the President's sympathetic attitude toward legislation to release federal funds to pay the teachers.

Emerging from the presidential conference, Mr. Sabath said Mr. Roosevelt had suggested some form of teachers' loan authority might be appended to the so-called "loans to industry" bill soon to be reported out by the banking and currency committee.

In line with this suggestion the Chicago Democrat said he would confer at once with Representative Henry B. Steagall [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the committee, and with other influential members of the group in an effort to attach the teachers' loan bill as a rider to the RFC industrial loan measure.

Mayor's Plan Considered.

One of the proposals under consideration was Mayor Kelly's plan of pledging school property unused for educational purposes, of which Chicago has about $30,000,000 worth, as additional security for the advance of RFC funds. The property would be given to the federal government as collateral in a purchase of the school board's $40,000,000 bond issue. A bill, introduced by Mr. Sabath, to empower the RFC to make loans on this basis is pending before the house committee on banking and currency.

Sabath said as soon as the President has completed conferences with Jones and other officials, he would notify the congressmen and probably make a definite announcement either for or against the program.

Works on Legal Details.

Meanwhile Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the Chicago board of education, who has made several special trips to Washington to push legislation for payment of teachers' salaries returned to his desk here and started to iron out legal phases in connection with the plans.

Before the bonds will be acceptable for purchasers a decision must be obtained from the Illinois Supreme court as to their validity. Attorney Henry Cutler, expert on municipal securities who passed upon the Chicago sanitary district's bonds for the federal public works funds, said he would not put his stamp of approval on the school bonds until the Supreme court had acted.

It is expected the procedure will be a mandamus action brought by a taxpayer before the Supreme court.

Expect "Court Consideration."

"Of course the Supreme court has the discretion of deciding whether it will hear the mandamus case or not," said Cutler, "but since an emergency exists it seems reasonable to believe the matter will be heard."

Two questions are involved in the legal situation.

The first point to be ruled upon is whether the school board has a debt incurring power distinct from that of the city of Chicago. The second question hinges on the borrowing power of the board itself.

The school board was given authority in 1931 to issue $25,000,000 worth of bonds for educational purposes. This issue was held valid by the Supreme court on the grounds the amount of money was less than needed for educational purposes during the period of one year. If the $40,000,000 worth of bonds were added, however, the board's bonding power would be $65,000,000 or more than is needed for educational purposes within the one year period.

Both Folsom and Cutler said they hoped the questions could be decided in the June term of the court.

While the attorneys busied themselves unraveling the legal technicalities over the bond sale, James B. McCahey, president of the board, announced there would be a two weeks' pay day, amounting to $1,850,000 for the first two weeks in October of last year, before the next meeting of the school trustees May 23.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $550,567, making a total of $170,437,534 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began April 28, 1933. The day's collection of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

	1928	1929
May 14	$ 27,414	$ 64,040
Uncollected	14,332,700	58,127,847
	1930	1931
May 14	$ 62,272	$ 92,491
Uncollected	63,029,939	55,845,051

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $304,350; of 1931 personal property taxes, $3,190; and of 1932 personal property taxes, $142,616.

County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash yesterday filed suits in the County court asking that he be appointed receiver for 20 tax delinquent properties in an effort to collect back taxes totaling $36,382. Of the properties named in th suits, one at 2700-04 Division street owes the county $3,463 in taxes.

BRIDGE TO OPEN ILAND FOR PARK OFF MANHATTAN

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—A new 140 acre iland park on the doorstep of Manhattan will be ready for public use upon the opening of the Triborough bridge about July 1, 1936, Park Commissioner Robert Moses announced today on an inspection tour of the bridge and of the Queens parkway system by city and state officials.

The park will be on Randall's island, over which two arms of the Triborough bridge will pass. The buildings occupied by the two institutions on the iland—the state house of refuge and the New York City Children's hospital—will be evacuated by the end of this year, Mr. Moses said, and demolition will begin.

What recreation facilities will be on the iland has not yet been decided.

MACHINES TO DO TAX CUT FIGURING TASK IN 60 DAYS

Save Six Months' Labor by Clerks.

Herman Hollerith, a doctor of philosophy, employed in the census bureau during the latter years of the last century, sat down to devise a machine which would eliminate some of the enormous volume of clerical labor required to tabulate the census reports.

Modern descendants of his first crude card punching and sorting device, refined and speeded up until they deserve the title of "machines that think," are being worked night and day to carry out the calculations necessary for entering on the tax books the "15 per cent cut" in residence and small flat building assessments without further delaying collection of Cook county's taxes.

A Sixty Day Job.

The work of making the changes for 1931 and 1932 tax bills requires some 5,700,000 separate arithmetical operations, some of them quite intricate. Assessor Jacobs estimated that if this work were done manually by clerks equipped with ordinary computating machines it would require a minimum of six months, probably longer. The Hollerith machines really got going on the task two weeks ago. They will be through in 60 days.

One of Dr. Hollerith's original tabulating machines, used on the 1890 census, is on exhibition in the offices of the International Business Machines corporation, 233 West Madison street, where the assessment computations are being made for the county. It, and the most modern of its children, are to be demonstrated this summer at the World's Fair.

On this first machine the operator punched holes in a curved piece of cardboard. For each digit of the figure to be reproduced ten vertical spaces are provided. The operator punched out the figures one at a time. Then the card was placed in another machine. Tiny needles dropped upon it, and when they struck a hole went through into a well of mercury.

All Operations Automatic.

This completed an electrical circuit which spun one or more indicator dials in the big tabulating cabinet, looking much like a vastly overgrown gas meter. At the same time an electrical contact caused the lid of one of a number of tin boxes to fly open and the operator dropped the card into the indicated box. That was the sorting mechanism.

The modern machines employ the punched cards, but in place of the needles and mercury pools, delicate wire brushes make contacts through the slotted punches as the card is drawn past them like a roll passing through a player piano. After girl operators, working with the speed of typists, punch the figures on the cards, all of the operations are automatic.

Most of the information necessary for the 1931 assessment changes was available on cards which were used in making the original assessments. What additional information is necessary is punched on the cards, and they are then run through a printing tabulator which gives a sheet on which any errors in taking the information off the assessors' records can be detected.

The addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division necessary to make the assessment changes for each of the 438,000 properties involved is then done automatically by the machines. As the final steps, the cards are run again through a printing tabulator, giving the record from which the county treasurer's employés can enter the changes on the tax books.

HARRIMAN GOES TO TRIAL AFTER DELAY OF YEAR

Must Answer on Misuse of Funds Charge.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—After a delay of more than a year, brought about by pleas of ill health and failing mentality, Joseph Wright Harriman, former president of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, went on trial today before Federal Judge John C. Knox for alleged misapplication of funds of the bank.

Albert M. Austin, former vice president of the bank, who is accused of having falsified records of the institution at Harriman's direction, also was placed on trial.

After both sides had exhausted most of their challenges, twelve men who admitted no prejudice against bankers, were selected to serve as jurors, and two additional men were chosen to sit in alternates.

The selection of a jury took only three hours, though counsel for both sides attempted to explain to fifty talesmen just what the government and defense would undertake to prove and disprove. Several prospective jurors were excused from duty because they admitted prejudice against bankers or because they or their firms had deposited money in the Harriman bank.

The Harriman bank was one of nine in New York City which was not permitted to reopen at the conclusion of a nation-wide banking holiday in the spring of 1933, though Harriman had reported its total resources at the close of business in December, 1932, to be more than $33,000,000.

False Entries Are Charged.

The jurors must decide if Harriman caused false entries to be made in the books of the bank to cover up misapplication of $1,941,176, and that if he converted to his own use more than $500,000 worth of stock held by the bank.

These charges are contained in a 17 count indictment on which Harriman and his co-defendant, Austin, could receive maximum prison sentences of 85 years each and fines of $35,000 each, or 85 years and $5,000 on each count.

Harriman, who is said to be suffering from coronary thrombosis and other complications, arrived in court in the company of his white haired wife, his chief counsel, George M. Leisure, and Dr. John Rockwood of Doctors' hospital, where the defendant has been undergoing treatment since last November.

The physician took a seat near the court railing where he could keep an eye on his patient, though the latter, a man in his 67th year, seemed in comparative good health and spirits. He strode through the courtroom to the counsel table with a jaunty step and smiled frequently during whispered conversations with Mr. Leisure.

"Can you prove that Old Gold is easier on the Throat?" asks George Raft

See GEORGE RAFT in "THE TRUMPET BLOWS" his latest Paramount Picture

George Raft is a loyal Old Gold smoker. A friend questioned his statement that Old Golds are smoothest. George asked us for proof. Here's our reply:

Dear Mr. Raft:—

On March 9, 1934, we invited a congress of the greatest taste experts in America to smoke and compare the four leading cigarettes, with the names concealed, and select the cigarette they considered "smoothest"; and therefore easier on the throat and nerves.

The invitation was accepted. Sixty-nine wine tasters, coffee tasters, tea tasters and cocoa experts took part.

In repeated tests by these taste authorities, Old Gold was chosen as the smoothest brand. If that evidence isn't enough to convince your friend . . . ask him to try Old Golds for a few days and let his own taste decide.

Sincerely,
P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.

P. S.—Old Gold's smoothness isn't an accident, Mr. Raft: No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. That's why Old Golds are easy on the THROAT and NERVES.

PARK MERGER ACT IS HELD VALID IN COURT'S DECISION

Seek Quick Appeal Verdict on Consolidation.

The validity of the Chicago park district act, under which 22 park systems in Chicago are to be consolidated, was upheld yesterday by Circuit Judge George Fred Rush. The decision was given in quo warranto proceedings brought by State's Attorney Courtney to test the constitutionality of the park act which was approved by the voters at a referendum last April 10.

William J. Tuohy, assistant state's attorney, who prepared the case, immediately announced that the decision would be appealed to the Illinois Supreme court. The appeal will be filed within a few days, and a hearing and ruling will be sought in the June term of the court.

Seek to Speed Legality.

The proceeding was of a friendly nature, the state's attorney bringing the case at the request of Mayor Kelly for the purpose of hastening the actual consolidation of the park systems. Technically, it sought to establish the right of the mayor to appoint the commissioners of the Chicago park district, and was brought against the mayor and the commissioners who are Robert J. Dunham, Harry Joseph, Martin H. Kennelly, Bessie C. O'Neill, and John R. Nash.

The argument for the state's attorney was made by Floyd E. Thompson, attorney for the Small Parks association. He challenged the validity of the act on several grounds, the one stressed most prominently being that the title of the park act violated the provision of the constitution which provides that each act of the legislature should embrace only one subject which is expressed in the title.

Questions Legality.

"This act deals with the creation of a new park district," said Attorney Thompson, "but it also abolishes twenty-two park districts about which nothing is said in the title. Neither does the title mention the power of the Chicago park commissioners to sell the unissued bonds of the old districts."

In answer to this contention, Attorney John L. McInerney, counsel for Commissioner Nash, cited decisions in which the courts have held that the title of an act is not bad because it is couched in general terms, nor does a title have to refer to all of the details in an act. After he had answered the other points raised by Attorney Thompson, Judge Rush ruled that the act was valid and dismissed the suit.

Mention Northwest District.

The only mention of the Northwest park district, where an audit has revealed a deficit of $1,350,227 and evidence of mismanagement of public funds, came from Corporation Counsel Sexton, who represented the mayor. When Attorney Thompson spoke of the lack of any provision in the act relating to the unsecured obligations of the parks, Mr. Sexton asked if he was referring to the Northwest district. Attorney Thompson said he was thinking of that district as well as others.

A copy of the audit has been asked for by Acting State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley. He has assigned Vernon Thompson, an assistant state's attorney, to study the audit. Mr. Thompson announced that he would institute criminal proceedings against those involved should sufficient grounds for such action exist.

Under the park act, twenty-two park systems will be merged into one. Commissioners of the new system are familiarizing themselves with the conditions existing in the various park districts through conferences with officials of the old park districts. Yesterday they met with the commissioners of Ridge park.

2 BANDITS SHOT; ALLMAN TO SEEK MORE MARKSMEN

The wounding of one bandit and the slaying of another by policemen in pistol battles during the day was followed last night by the announcement of Police Commissioner James P. Allman that he will seek additional funds to improve department marksmanship.

There are at present 15 target ranges for the city's 5,994 policemen. These ranges are operated only six months of the year and in afternoons, so that only 250 policemen can shoot each day of the season.

"The only thing that can bring improvement is more practice," said Commissioner Allman.

The first bandit shot during the day fell at victim to the gun of West Park Policeman Joseph Burzyek. The bandit, Paul Leonardi, 27 years old, 910 South Hermitage avenue, with a companion, forced Angelo Carvelli, manager of a restaurant, who was taking $337 to the Mid City National bank, to leave a Madison street car at Paulina street.

Policeman Burzyek, who was off duty, followed the bandits and their intended victim from the street car. When Leonardi refused to throw up his hands on command the policeman shot and wounded him in the abdomen. The second bandit escaped.

An unidentified Negro bandit who was wounded by Policemen Alex Daizell and William Adlan of the Pekin station after he and a companion had robbed the Levin & Rittenberg pawn shop, 3712 South State street, died later in the Bridewell hospital.

WOMAN FROM CHICAGO KILLS SELF IN DENVER

Denver, Colo., May 14.—(AP)—A woman known only as "Mrs. Ames of Chicago" killed herself in an apartment here today by inhaling gas, George Bostwick, deputy coroner, said.

Mrs. Raymond Carroll, manager of the apartment, said the woman came there last Saturday and paid a week's rent in advance, saying she came to Denver from Chicago for her health. Today she burned a suitcase filled with clothing in a courtyard of the apartment, and burned a small handbag in the apartment, the police were told.

Authorities said false teeth and eyeglasses might furnish clews to the suicide's real name.

Court Denies Writ to Halt Hitler Movie Censorship

An injunction to restrain Police Commissioner James P. Allman and Mayor Kelly from interfering with the showing of the movie, "Hitler's Reign of Terror," was denied yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke. A permit to show the film only after certain scenes had been deleted was issued some weeks ago, and Samuel Cummings, the exhibitor, sought by the injunction to have those parts restored.

GLANZ' BANKRUPT PLEA IS DENIED BY U. S. HIGH COURT

The United States Supreme court yesterday denied the petition of Louis D. Glanz, Chicago broker, 1112 Milwaukee avenue, asking that he be discharged from voluntary bankruptcy. In its ruling the high court upheld the opinion of the Disirict and Circuit Court of Appeals here which found that Glanz had intentionally failed to schedule all of his assets, consisting principally of real estate and stock in the Chicago Title & Trust company.

The case began in April 1931 when Glanz filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy scheduling liabilities of $465,742 and assets of only $408,187. He was adjudged bankrupt and a petition for discharge was filed in Nov. 17, 1931. At that time objections were filed by the United American Trust & Savings bank, the Home Bank & Trust company, and the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust company, as the principal creditors. A master-in-chancery denied the petition for discharge and overruled the objections.

In his appeal Glanz denied an intentional concealment of assets asserting that those in question did not belong to him personally. He contended the lower court should have accepted his explanation for failure to schedule.

HYMIE LEVIN GETS 18 MONTHS AS TAX DODGER

Federal Judge Sentences Former Capone Ally.

Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, former loop collector for the Al Capone syndicate, was sentenced to 18 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth yesterday after he pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan to evasion of income tax payments. He was granted a stay of execution for one week.

Levin was charged with having failed to pay between $4,000 and $5,000 in income tax for the years 1929 and 1930. His gross income for the years from 1926 to 1930 is reputed to have totaled more than $1,000,000, but government officials admitted that most of the money had passed through his hands to others. He was prosecuted only for the violations in 1929 and 1930, the statute of limitations having barred prosecution for the previous years.

Never Filed a Return.

Assistant United States Attorneys E. Reilly Campbell and Leslie Salter, who prosecuted the case, informed Judge Sullivan that Levin had never filed a return nor paid a tax. They also declared, when asked about the case by Judge Sullivan after the guilty plea had been entered, that Levin had been connected with the Capone liquor and gambling syndicate.

In 1926, according to the prosecutors, Levin admitted a gross income of $122,479 from liquor and gambling. He asserted that he owed a tax of only $215.30, however, because most of the money "just went through his hands."

In 1927, according to the government, his gross income was about $125,000; in 1928, $410,000; in 1929, $394,000, and in 1930, $76,000.

Recites Roll of Convictions.

"Al Capone was sentenced to 10 years in prison on a similar charge after trial," Prosecutor Campbell told Judge Sullivan. "Jack Guzik was given five years; Ralph Capone, three years; Frank Nitti, on a plea of guilty, was given 18 months; Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, on guilty pleas, were given 2½ years and 18 months, respectively, and Sam Guzik, on a plea of guilty, was given 18 months.

"The government recommends a sentence of 18 months in the penitentiary for Levin."

Defense Attorney Henry Freeman pleaded for a shorter sentence on the ground that Lawrence O'Brien, former state representative, and Gene G. Oliver, former county assessor, were sentenced to 18 month terms after not guilty pleas and lengthy trials on charges involving larger amounts.

Freeman also asserted that Levin had no criminal record, was a volunteer soldier during the war and has recently been working with his brother in a legitimate automobile business.

JUDGE DISMISSES MRS. WILLETT'S $1,000,000 SUIT

Part of Agreement; Divorce Next.

As part of an agreement which is scheduled to result later this week in a divorce decree for Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett from her husband, Howard L. Willett, wealthy head of a trucking company, a $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Willett against Mrs. Mary Cave Hall was dismissed yesterday in the Superior court of Judge Paul McWilliams.

In the absence of Mrs. Willett her sister, Miss Madeline Williamson, told reporters after the brief court procedure that Mrs. Willette dropped the suit because she "wanted to show good faith in filling the agreement with her husband." Contracts setting forth the terms of the agreement in full have been signed by both Mr. and Mrs. Willett, she added, and the final step of obtaining an absolute divorce awaits only the return from New York of an annuity contract by an insurance company.

The agreement between the Willetts was reached after she had brought suit for separate maintenance and after several lengthy hearings for temporary alimony before Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court.

Terms of the settlement include a guarantee that Mrs. Willett will receive $17,500 a year from her husband for the next five years and that a trust fund shall be set up which would yield approximately that amount for the remainder of her life. Willett agreed that she be granted an absolute divorce.

LIMITED HIGHWAY OPPOSITION PUT BEFORE COUNCIL

A resolution opposing the widening of Congress street and the construction of an elevated highway there at a cost of $100,000,000 was referred to the trafic committee yesterday by the city council. It was introduced by Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st], who charged that the burden of cost would fall on property owners.

"The west side needs a superhighway," said Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], "but not if the property owners are called upon to pay most of the cost."

"There is a council committee working on plans now," said Mayor Kelly, shutting off further discussion of the resolution.

Quake Damages Property in Southern California

Pasadena, Cal., May 14.—(AP)—An earthquake strong enough to damage property and centered about 300 miles southeast of here was recorded today.

STORMS ORDERS INCREASED POLICE WORK ON CRIMES

Acting Chief of Detectives Walter Storms yesterday summoned six supervising lieutenants to a "pep meeting" at the detective bureau and told them of his new plans for fighting crime. The lieutenants, who have been assigned to tasks in the bureau, will now operate throughout the city with their four man squads.

"When a murder is committed I want you men to keep working on it until it is solved," Storms said. "Instead of just reporting that you are watching developments. These cases must be followed from day to day. No matter in what part of the city a lieutenant, and his squad happen to be, they must immediately go to the district where a murder or other major crime has occurred and never get off the case until there is a solution.

Storms said that as far as police work is concerned "there is no NRA schedule of hours."

Affair with Ocean Flyer Charged to Win Divorce

Hollywood, Cal., May 14.—[Special.]—Testimony by Louis R. Loeffler, movie writer that his wife, Iolanda, had an affair with one of Gen. Balbo's Italy-to-Chicago flyers, and that she made a trip to Italy to see if the aviator still cared for her, won a divorce decree in Loeffler's favor today. The flyer's name was not mentioned.

THE NEW DEAL IN PROFANITY: A RADIO MYSTERY

W-G-N Cited for Speech of Congressman Beck.

From the federal radio commission W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE broadcasting station on the Drake hotel, has received a somewhat mystifying notice that "profane language" was broadcast over its facilities between 9 and 10 p. m. on May 1. This was the night and hour when the speech of Congressman James M. Beck of Philadelphia on "Constitutional Aspects of the National Recovery Administration" was put on the air by W-G-N.

Members of the Illinois Manufacturers' Cost association, before whom the address was delivered at the Palmer house, raked their memories backwards and forwards yesterday, but were unable to recall any remark even bordering on the profane by Mr. Beck, who is a former solicitor general of the United States and a recognized authority on the constitution.

As some listeners recalled it the only names he took in vain were those of the NRA and the Brain Trust, and they raised the question of whether this constitutes profanity under the New Deal.

Pettey Calls for Affidavits.

Be that as it may, by bell, book and candle, Herbert L. Pettey, secretary of the radio commission at Washington, in a letter of two sentences of somewhat ponderous phraseology, has called on W-G-N to submit affidavits. His letter to W-G-N reads:

"Complaint has been received by this commission that profane language was broadcast over the facilities of your station in a speech delivered between the hours of 9 and 10 p. m. on May 1, 1934.

"Under the authority vested in this commission by section 10 of the radio act of 1927 you are hereby directed to submit in affidavit form, sworn to by a responsible officer of the licensee, a full and complete copy of the program referred to, setting forth thereon the name of the person broadcasting."

W-G-N Sends an Answer.

To this letter from Secretary Pettey, who is the young man who handled the radio arrangements for the Democratic national committee in the 1932 campaign and was rewarded by appointment to his present post, W. E. Macfarlane, second vice president of W-G-N, sent an answer saying that Congressman Beck's speech was the only one broadcast over W-G-N at the time referred to in Mr. Pettey's notice.

"The address was carried on W-G-N from 8:30 to 9:50 p. m. May 1," wrote Mr. Macfarlane. "Since I can only assume that it is the address of Congressman Beck to which you refer, I am inclosing a copy of his address as it was prepared and as it has been mailed by the association before whom it was given.

"To the best of my knowledge and according to those in attendance whom I have contacted, no profanity was used in the remarks made by Congressman Beck.

No Evidence of Profanity.

"To the best of my knowledge, also, this is the first complaint of this character ever to be received by W-G-N from the federal radio commission.

"The complaint is not specific as to utterance, and I would appreciate it if you could advise me the exact wording of the complaint.

"No objection has been registered directly with W-G-N by its listeners and since W-G-N has been unusually scrupulous in observing the requirements of its license under the federal radio act I am more than anxious to investigate this matter. Your further communication will be awaited with interest."

A Poem Read by Mr. Beck.

Looking over copies of Mr. Beck's address yesterday some of those who attended the Palmer house banquet at which it was delivered surmised that a poem which Mr. Beck read may perhaps have been the expression to which exception has been taken as "profane language." This poem, which Mr. Beck recited with deep feeling, declared that the pen which wrote the constitution was held by Providence, and it referred to the crucifixion. It reads:

"Hold! There are those among us who Say God's hand held the pen
That wrote that sacred document
And guided those wise men.

Aye! Millions now arise in might
Who will not be denied:
The constitution, hope of all,
Shall not be crucified."

There is no indication from Secretary Pettey as to whether this sort of sentiment is regarded as against the radio commission rules, but if it should be classed as offensive William Jennings Bryan's "cross of gold speech," it is pointed out, would fall into the same category.

A New Deal Dictionary?

Another theory expounded by some who searched for the inner significance of Mr. Pettey's letter is that some of the New Dealers are perhaps rewriting parts of the dictionary and investing old words with new meanings.

Webster's unabridged says that "profane" language is "treating sacred things with contempt, disrespect or undue familiarity." By elevating the Brain Trust, the New Deal and NRA into the category of "sacred things," it was surmised, the word "profanity" could be given a New Deal meaning.

On the hypothesis, said these analysts, that the Brain Trust and the NRA are sacrosanct, and that to treat the harshly is "profane language," then Mr. Beck might run Gen. Hugh Johnson a race for the prize in strong language.

Comment on Brain Trusters.

This is what Mr. Beck said about some of the Brain Trusters:

"Notwithstanding all the ballyhoo of radio and press, I refuse to believe that Prof. Moley was as wise as George Washington, or Prof. Tugwell as sagacious as Benjamin Franklin, or Gen. Johnson as great an executive as Alexander Hamilton. I would willingly exchange these apostles of the New Deal for one hour of the old deal of George Washington or Benjamin Franklin."

Still another surmise was that the complaint of "profane language" may have been directed at the use of a biblical quotation by Congressman Beck. At the end of his speech, in exhorting the business man to stand for the restoration of the constitutional form of government and against burocratic control of business and industry, he said, "do not sell your birthright for a mess of pottage."

FIND 2 BODIES IN BURNED HOUSE.

Seligman, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Finch were found today in their half burned house. Mrs. Finch was on a bed, a hole over her right eye, and the skull badly shattered. Beside the husband lay a used shotgun. Investigators said Finch, despondent, bid friends good-by yesterday.

LINKS POLITICS TO DEMOCRATS IN RADIO FIGHT

Evangelist Declares Boss Guffey Interfered.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Charges of trafficking in political influence of the radio commission cropped out of a hearing last week on an application by Tri-State Radio, Inc., of Washington, Pa., to obtain the wave length of WNBO.

John Brownlee Spriggs, evangelist owner of WNBO, located at Washington, Pa., made formal charges before the commission that Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic boss of Pennsylvania, had declared himself "in a position to dictate to the radio commission." This was in connection with a deal Mr. Spriggs said he made with Guffey to get the commission's approval of increased power and a change of location for WNBO.

Falls Out with Guffey.

Mr. Spriggs said he later fell out with Mr. Guffey, whereupon the latter and Special Assistant Attorney General Robert L. Vann sought to get WNBO put off the air and its wave length assigned to Tri-State Radio. Mr. Guffey was subpenaed by the commission, but did not appear. Mr. Spriggs demanded the issuance of a warant for the Democratic boss. The next day Tri-State withdrew its application for the WNBO wave length and the demand for the presence of Mr. Guffey was waived.

Mr. Spriggs in his formal charge said that at a testimonial dinner for Mr. Vann in Pittsburgh in the summer of 1933 Mr. Guffey and Mr. Vann proposed a deal to get the transfer of site for WNBO in consideration of time on WNBO for political broadcasting.

"Pursuant to the said discussion," said the Spriggs affidavit, "an arrangement was entered into between this affiant and said Robert L. Vann and the said Joseph F. Guffey. The said Joseph F. Guffey then and there represented to your affiant that he was in a position to dictate to the radio commission and that he was the distributor of all federal patronage in the state of Pennsylvania, and that he maintained headquarters permanently in Washington, D. C., and that by reason of his connection with the administration, could accomplish overnight the transfer sought by WNBO. This representation on the part of Mr. Guffey was substantiated, corroborated and elaborated upon by the special assistant attorney general of the United States, aforementioned.

"The said Joseph F. Guffey and the said Robert L. Vann stipulated and agreed that they would handle the change of sites for WNBO and increase the power of station WNBO from 100 watts to 1,000 wattage, pay all legal expenses, and all costs of the moving of the apparatus, equipment, etc., which estimate approximated $2,000.

"In consideration of the promises and agreements, representations and considerations of the said Joseph F. Guffey and the said Robert L. Vann as aforementioned, your affiant covenanted and agreed that he would furnish sufficient time of his broadcasting station of a value equivalent to at least $2,000 at the option of the said Joseph F. Guffey and the said Robert L. Vann."

The license of WNBO expired last December and has operated since then on a temporary permit. After Mr. Spriggs and the politicians fell out Tri-State came into the picture as an applicant for the wave length of WNBO.

Denies Any Interest in Tri-State.

"An investigation disclosed that the attorney of record for Tri-State Radio, Inc., was affiant's lawyer, the aforementioned R. F. Lohnes, and the incorporator and majority stockholder of said Tri-State Radio, Inc., were the very persons named to the affiant by Joseph F. Guffey and Robert L. Vann as the individuals who would accomplish his renewal of license with increased watage," Mr. Spriggs' affidavit continues.

"Affiant is advised and believes and therefore avers that it is common rumor in Democratic political circles that affiant's license is to be revoked and that the facilities heretofore enjoyed by him are and will be at the disposal of Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania."

Neither Mr. Guffey nor Mr. Vann is in Washington, but Mr. Guffey's secretary denied that Mr. Guffey is interested in any way in the Tri-State concern.

Eliminate Political Element.

The withdrawal by Tri-States of its application for WNBO's wave length operated to eliminate the political element in the case, but the hearing was continued on Mr. Spriggs' application for a renewal of license for WNBO.

Charges of political influence also are involved in numerous other cases coming before the commission.

WFI, Philadelphia, was denied an increase of power twice, went through several hearings and appeals and finally resorted to political influence and got the increase without further trouble.

Recount in Election Which Made Wheaton Dry Denied

Judge Win G. Knoch in the Du Page County court at Wheaton yesterday denied a petition for a recount on the local option vote cast in the Wheaton primaries on April 11, in which the town went dry by a margin of 173 votes. The complainants said an appeal would be taken to the state Supreme court. The city council of Naperville in Du Page county yesterday passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of hard liquor in taverns.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TALKS FOR CASH, BUT POOR GET IT

Radio Pay Goes Direct to Quaker Group.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke for six minutes over the radio the other night; received $3,000; but hasn't seen a penny of the money and doesn't ever expect to.

All this she revealed today at her press conference when a newspaper woman wanted to know why she had broken her rule, made when she came to the White House, of not talking on commercial air programs.

"I broke my rule," said Mrs. Roosevelt, "because I needed the money. Not for myself; not one cent of it will go to me. But I wanted money for certain educational and health projects in which I am deeply interested, in the West Virginia mining communities and other places."

So when the radio offer came along she said she accepted, on the condition that the money be sent direct to the American Friends' Service association, to be dispensed by it.

Hoover Member of Group.

This association, by the way, is a Quaker group, of which Herbert Hoover is a member. It has long been doing relief work in the West Virginia mining districts. Its activities extend beyond America, but all the monies Mrs. Roosevelt's radio talks send to its treasury, on her stipulation, will be spent within this country.

Although she was paid at the rate of $500 a minute for the six minutes' broadcast, Mrs. Roosevelt does not know just what she will receive for the other broadcasts, since the contract has not yet been signed. She expects to talk ten minutes each time.

Before the conference broke up, Mrs. Roosevelt tied up her remarks in the following formal statement:

"In order to allow the Friends' Service committee to do certain things I felt would be useful, I decided to do a number of radio talks, the proceeds from which will go direct to the Friends' Service committee to be used for educational work, for furthering of handicraft work, and for certain health work which has been started in some mining communities."

Asked Many Questions.

Then came a lot of questions on a lot of subjects, with the following news items:

Mrs. Roosevelt will "certainly" go west to visit "our new grandchild" this summer if her son Elliott and his wife don't bring the new baby east.

She has been invited to make many commencement addresses this spring; has declined to make any.

Likewise, she has declined to receive an honorary degrees.

She has been invited to visit Mexico; is toying with the idea; if she does go, it will be an "absolutely unofficial visit."

"Hears" About Prize.

Yes, she "has heard" that somebody made a suggestion that she be awarded the Nobel peace prize. She believes the suggestion has been dropped into the bottom of the ocean, "which is exactly where it belongs."

If the President, congress willing, takes his contemplated cruise to the Virgin Islands and Hawaii, she will "surely meet him" when he lands, probably at Seattle, and return to Washington with him by train.

JAILED FOR STEALING DUCK.

Harold Dimansky, 17 years old, 1023 North Ashland avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Lambert K. Hayes on the charge of stealing a duck from the poultry store of John Pinderski, 1852 Division street.

Bible History Repeats

Arrow on map points to biblically famous Tiberias, where seventeen persons were drowned yesterday as a storm smote the Sea of Galilee, even as it did in Christ's lifetime.

CITY ON GALILEE THAT JESUS KNEW STRICKEN; 17 DIE

Bible History Repeats; Tiberias Flooded.

JERUSALEM, May 14.—(AP)—Seventeen persons, ten of them children, were swept to their deaths today when a cloudburst sent walls of water 6 to 8 feet high roaring down the streets of the ancient city of Tiberias, on the Sea of Galilee. Houses and shops were tumbled down by the water.

Many others were reported to be missing, either swept away by the torrent or pinned under the ruins of the city where Christ once walked.

A similar deluge occurred at the village of Abadieh, on the River Jordan, killing at least three persons. One was missing and another inhabitant was dangerously injured.

Refugees Flee to Jerusalem.

Adjacent Arab villages and Jewish settlements were evacuated, the refugees taking shelter at a hospital, government schools, and almshouses here.

Troops and police rushed to Tiberias after the disaster were still busy tonight searching the ruins for bodies and protecting property. The government distributed food to the homeless.

It was near to Tiberias, so says the sixth chapter of the Book of St. John, that Jesus Christ in his life once walked upon the waters when the sea arose.

"Jesus Was Not Come to Them."

There, it is written, the disciples "entered into a ship and went over the sea toward Capernaum. And it was now dark, and Jesus was not come to them.

"And the sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew.

"So when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they did see Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing night unto the ship; and they were afraid.

"But he saith unto them, 'It is I: Be not afraid.'

"Then they willingly received him into the ship; and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went."

Christ Awaits People.

Then the testament relates how Christ there awaited the coming of the people that he might talk to them and says:

"Howbeit there came other boats from Tiberias nigh unto the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks."

Horner Signs State NRA Act, Effective on July 1

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner signed today the state NRA compliance bill, passed last week by the general assembly. The act becomes operative July 1.

ICKES THREATENS TO OUST CRITICS OF INDIAN POLICY

6,000 Employes Warned in Circular Letter.

Six thousand employés of the Indian service have been threatened with dismissal, it was learned yesterday, if they presume to criticise New Deal policies which aim to change radically the life of the red man. The administration's latest attempt to throttle divergent opinion is revealed in a circular letter sent to the employés by Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

About one-third of those warned against opposing the new policies are Indians who would be directly affected by the pending Wheeler-Howard bill and other proposals. The circular may also apply in its intent to many more thousands of Indians who have been employed during the last year under the emergency conservation work program.

Warns Against "Propaganda."

After stating the general hopes of the administration to improve the status of the Indian, and "the need for establishing firmly a forward looking policy," Secretary Ickes' letter declares:

"—I have increasing evidence that there is a subtle, misleading propaganda against the new Indian program emanating from a minority of employés within the Indian service. Their action can only be characterized as disloyal and pernicious.

"My purpose in addressing you is to notify all of those engaged in this scheme to defeat our program that a continuance will be under penalty of dismissal from the service."

Tells Opponents to Resign.

Thereafter the missive declares that "it is not intended to deny to any employé the freedom of expression . . ." but goes on to reiterate the previous warning:

"If any employé wishes to oppose the new policy, he should do so honestly and openly from outside of the service. This would mean his resignation. Any other course is unscrupulous and detrimental to the Indians because it acts on the service like a canker. This condition has existed in the ranks for many years and has been partly responsible for the failures of the past.

"It retards and defeats the most conscientious efforts toward good administration, and it will be summarily eliminated, wherever found, by dismissal."

Fears for U. S. Wards.

The application of "cracking down" tactics to Indian affairs was viewed with fear for the government's wards by Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour, who served without pay on the board of Indian commissioners from 1929 to 1933. The board, established in 1869, was abolished last year by President Roosevelt "for economy," although its only paid position was a secretaryship at Washington. Mrs. Seymour, who lives at 4917 Blackstone avenue, was the first woman to be appointed to the board and is one of the few women who have been admitted to practice law in the U. S. Supreme court.

"The effect of the circular," said Mrs. Seymour, "is that neither white nor Indian employés may express an opinion unfavorable to the new policy, as embodied in the Wheeler-Howard bill now pending in congress, under penalty of summary dismissal from the Indian service.

"So long as the bill has not been passed, and the policy is merely in contemplation, to refuse an employé the right to express an opinion on it is such a denial of free speech as to be contrary to the underlying principles of our national government."

Indians' Friends Vigilant.

Present developments are being watched closely, not only by her, but by other former members of the board of Indian commissioners, Mrs Seymour said. Abolition of the board will not prevent vigilance in behalf of the Indian by his friends, she declared. Mrs. Seymour is the author of "The Story of the Red Man," "Women of Trail and Wigwam," and other works which show her familiarity and sympathy with Indian problems.

The Wheeler-Howard bill proposes to "'restore' communistic modes of existence which the Indians never possessed," in the opinion of Mrs. Seymour, who has been a student of the race for 20 years. It calls for communal instead of individual ownership of land, an idea, she said, came from several New York lawyers in the army of New Deal planners. These men include Nathan Margold, solicitor for the department of the interior, and Felix Cohen, also of the department, she declared.

No Chance to Be Heard.

"The worst of it is that the Indians themselves, and whites who have proved their friends, will probably not get a chance to be heard," Mrs. Seymour said. "The bill will be rushed through congress at this session, if possible."

Administrative spokesmen contend the bill will give the Indians more rights. One spokesman is President Roosevelt, who has told the Indians by letter that the measure is for their benefit. It is proposed that the Indians organize themselves into tribal, village, or reservation communities for local self government under the direction of the Indian bureau and the secretary of the interior. Government men say it would end the land allotment policies, educate the Indians in modern professions and train them in native arts and crafts.

JAILED TAILOR WIRES PLEA FOR CODE RETENTION

Thousands of Others Ask Rule Be Continued.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—Jacob Maged, the Jersey City tailor recently sentenced to thirty days in jail for violating the cleaners' code, today pleaded with the NRA not to do away with the compact for his industry.

His telegram came to Hugh S. Johnson's desk together with several thousands from cleaners all over the country expressing alarm at the proposed abandonment of the code.

Maged was convicted in a state court for violation of the New Jersey state code. The sentence, however, was remitted after only three days had been served for the offense—cutting by 5 cents the minimum price for cleaning a suit.

Text of Tailor's Protest.

The telegram to Johnson read:

"Gen. Hugh Johnson: I am Jacob Maged, the tailor who was sentenced to imprisonment for violating the cleaners and dyers' code. I am heartily in favor of the code. It is protecting my business from price cutting and I know that without it our living would be seriously hurt. The code must be maintained.

"JACOB MAGED,
"138 Griffith street, Jersey City."

Inspired by publication of the administration's intention to place all service trades on an optional code basis, allowing them to have code regulations in cities and trade areas only by choice of the local majority, several thousand small cleaners in their protests insisted that abandonment of the code would put them out of business.

Admits Sending Telegram.

Jersey City, N. J., May 14.—[Special.]—Jacob Maged, Jersey City tailor, tonight confirmed the fact that he had sent a telegram to code authorities in Washington. He insisted that he "thought up" the idea of the message, worded it himself, and paid 58 cents charges.

"I am now 100 per cent for the NRA and the tailors code," Maged said. "I have found out that the code prices protect me from price cutters. I have been gaining business since Judge Kincead freed me after three days in jail, and the judge is now one of my best customers. I am to make two suits for him, and am to take him the samples tomorrow."

Calls Code Good Thing.

Maged was indignant when it was intimated that someone else might have suggested that he wire his support of the code to Washington.

"I read in a Jewish paper," he said, "That an effort was being made to abolish the tailors code. As I now think the code is a good thing, I wrote out my message and sent it. I would have made it longer, but felt that 58 cents was enough to spend."

Maged said the publicity he had received since being jailed for charging only 35 cents for pressing a suit, whereas the code price was 40 cents, had helped his business.

"So why should't I be for the code?" he said.

New Taxicab Ordinance Is Introduced in Council

The new ordinance providing for higher taxicab rates and the creation of a permanent taxicab commission was introduced in the city council yesterday by Ald. James B. Bowler, deferred and published. Action on the ordinance is expected at the next session of the council on Friday. Ald. Bowler urged speed, so that the new rates can be put into effect before the opening of the World's Fair. The new rates are 15 cents for the first one-third mile, and 10 cents for each two-thirds of a mile thereafter.

TEST NEW DEAL IN PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY TODAY

Pinchot Is Battling Reed for U. S. Senate.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 14.—[Special.]—On the eve of one of the most important primary elections in Pennsylvania in years, interest centers in the contest between Senator David A. Reed, representing the conservative forces, and Gov. Gifford Pinchot, champion of the New Deal, for the Republican senatorial nomination.

As the voters prepare to go to the polls tomorrow all other struggles have been subordinated to this battle between the most pronounced senate critic of the Roosevelt administration's economic program and the foe of machine politics, who has twice gone to the governor's chair over the opposition of Pennsylvania's once invincible Republican machine.

This organization, preparing to select new leaders after the primary, is working to regain its power.

Reed Opposed by Labor.

While there has been a drift to Mr. Reed in the last few days, this trend may not be sufficient to overcome the handicap he carried into the campaign. This included opposition of organized labor, the veterans and the foreign born element. While he has gained in strength as he expounded his platform and denounced the New Deal legislation, he undoubtedly is suffering from this group opposition and the weakness of the Republican organization. Gov. Pinchot, on the other hand, apparently is strong among the masses.

Final surveys of both camps indicate that the election will be close and dependent upon the vote in Philadelphia. Mr. Pinchot's managers estimate that his majority will reach 200,000 and the claims of the Reed leaders place his majority between 200,000 and 250,000. Senator Reed, to win, must leave Philadelphia and the large suburban Republican counties with a lead of 200,000 to overcome the popularity of Gov. Pinchot in the coal and rural sections, it is estimated.

As workers received final instructions and money for election day it was apparent that the 50 ward leaders here will be amply supplied with resources to man the polls. The Reed workers throughout the state also are adequately supplied. The Pinchot forces are not so well off, but they are depending upon the state office holders and independent voters to return the governor the victor.

$150,000 Fund For Pinchot.

According to the Pinchot managers here his campaign expenditures will not exceed $150,000 while they charge that the output in behalf of Senator Reed's candidacy will be twice that amount, but nothing like the spending of 1926 will be duplicated.

Senator Reed's managers say that if he comes through the primary with a substantial majority, this will be indicative of a return to traditional policies and that the Republicans will gain enough strength during the months preceding the election to assure a victory in November. If, however, Gov. Pinchot becomes the Republican nominee, the strict Republican voter probably would prefer a Democrat in Washington to the progressive governor, it is argued.

Pinchot Adopts Roosevelt Cry.

Gov. Pinchot has adopted the battle cry of President Roosevelt for a revised economic structure. His campaign speeches read like those of a devout follower of the President. In his appeals he has outstripped Joseph F. Guffey, seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination, in his laudation of Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Guffey's supporters predict his election over Roland S. Morris, ambassador to Japan in the Wilson administration, in the Democratic senatorial primary, and say that George H. Earle, his running mate, will be named as the candidate for governor.

Jersey Governor Race.

Newark, N. J., May 14.—[Special.]—Harold G. Hoffman, New Jersey motor vehicle commissioner, was a slight favorite today to win the four-cornered battle at the polls tomorrow for the Republican nomination for governor.

As the fiercest primary campaign in recent years drew to a close today Hoffman's personal and organization strength seemed likely to carry him to victory over his three rivals—Joseph G. Wolber, Essex county senator; Emerson Richards, Atlantic county senator; and Robert Carey, former Hudson county judge.

Judge William L. Dill of the Court of Errors and Appeals is certain to be the Democratic victor for the governorship nomination, for he has the support of the organization of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, state Democratic leader. His opponent, Assemblyman Theron McCampbell of Monmouth county, has a wide personal following but no organization.

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS PREPARE FOR DUEL IN SENATE CONTEST

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—A duel of power between two of Missouri's strongest political leaders—Thomas J. Pendergast, Kansas City political "boss," and Senator Bennett Champ Clark—was presaged today by the announcement of Harry S. Truman for the Democratic nomination for United States senator in the August primaries.

Pendergast announced his support of Truman, presiding judge of the Jackson county [Kansas City] court. Clark has announced his support of Congressman Jacob L. [Tuck] Milligan of Richmond, who today formally filed his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Roscoe Patterson, a Republican.

Added interest has been created by the possibility former Senator James Reed also may seek the senatorship.

ILLINOIS BEAUTY OPERATORS FIGHT BACK AT BARBERS

Beauty culturists from all over Illinois gathered last night in the Hotel Sherman under the auspices of the Chicago and Illinois Haidressers association to voice a protest against what they believe is an effort by the barbers' union to prevent them from cutting women's hair.

Marc Gartman, president of the association, said that representatives of the barbers' union are visiting beauty shops to solicit membership of operators and at the same time informing them that under the provisions of the National Recovery Act they will have to join the union. According to Joseph Nielsen, assistant director of the Employment association of Chicago, who addressed the group, there are no such NRA provisions.

"In Illinois the present beauty culture law provides that any registered beauty culturist may cut a woman's hair to complete a hairdress," said Mr. Gartman. "If beauty culturists are to be unionized in Illinois, it will be under their own banner. They refuse to be forced into any trade organization or union not of their own making."

CHICAGO K. OF C. LEADERS GO TO PEORIA MEETING

Nearly 200 delegates representing 40,000 members of the Knights of Columbus left Chicago for Peoria last night to attend the 37th annual meeting of the Illinois state council of the order, which will convene today. The Chicago delegation was led by State Deputy James Donohoe, and State Secretary Michael J. Howlett.

The convention will open with pontifical high mass celebrated by the Most Rev. Joseph Schlarman, bishop of Peoria. The sermon will be preached by Bishop James A. Griffin of Springfield. The council will continue in session throughout today and tomorrow.

Inland Press Association Will Meet in Chicago Today

Newspaper editors and publishers from 20 states will open a meeting of the Inland Daily Press association in the Stevens hotel this morning. The meeting, which is one of three held each year, will discuss the NRA code, advertising, the newsprint situation, and the radio.

BOY SHOT IN HAND.

Eddie Sura, 14 years old, 4520 Justine street, was given medical aid at the German Deaconess hospital last night for a bullet wound in the left hand. He told police he was shot by some unknown person while he was standing at 54th and Morgan streets.

LONG HANGS HAT IN STATEHOUSE AND WAITS FOES

Threat to Oust Friends Is Still a Threat.

Baton Rouge, La., May 14.—(AP)—Challenging his political opponents to open combat, United States Senator Huey P. Long today established headquarters in the executive offices at the statehouse and awaited the first move in an announced plan to oust his friends from places of power in the general assembly.

Surrounded by the allies who helped make him the state's political boss five years ago, Senator Long drove up to the towering 5 million dollar capitol he had built on the old Louisiana state university campus, brushed through crowds of the curious, hung up his hat in the governor's suite and waited for things to happen.

Assembly Just Listens.

But the assembly, convening in a tense atmosphere of partisan feeling, did nothing on its opening day except listen to a 6,000 word biennial message from Gov. O. K. Allen, right hand man to the senator, advocating property tax relief based on six new "in lieu" taxes, including levies on transactions of the New Orleans Cotton and Stock exchanges.

Allen J. Ellender, speaker of the house, important cog in the Long-Allen political machine and Long's spokesman in the legislature, presided at the assembling of the joint session of house and senate which heard the message.

Agitation Against Ellender.

Principal agitation among the anti-administration forces has been directed against Ellender, with a bloc openly organized to depose him as speaker in favor of George Perrault of St. Landry, veteran anti-Long leader.

But no voice was raised as Ellender took the rostrum after conferring with Senator Long and Gov. Allen.

When the brief opening session was adjourned until tomorrow morning, leaders in the "anti-bloc" declined to say when they would offer their motion for house reorganization.

Senator Long later left the statehouse smiling.

CRIMINAL COURT.

William Rahn, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

A plea for dismissal of the indictments against the 14 defendants in the TNT racket conspiracy case was denied by Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court yesterday. Defense attorneys had asked suspension of the trial on the grounds that the indictments and grand jury which returned them were illegal.

A motion to quash the indictments was entered following the judge's decision, and hearing was set for May 25. Pleas of not guilty were withdrawn because of a technicality which does not permit the motion to quash to be entered while a plea is on file.

Judge Steffen upheld the state's demurrer to the defense motion, known as a plea in abatement, which in effect asks for suspension of the trial. The defendants in the case are accused of attempting to rule the Chicago trucking industry by illegal methods.

Billions in Building Hoped For.

bill deem adequate fully to protect efficient lenders against any losses.

The total liability of the corporation in these loans is restricted to 1 billion dollars.

The act provides that loans under this section shall not be in excess of $2,000.

The next section of the bill, aimed at improving the mortgage market, empowers the HCIC to insure amortized mortgages on owner-occupied homes or low cost housing projects when presented by approved financial institutions.

A limit of $20,000 is placed on home mortgages to be insured. The mortgage shall be for not more than 80 per cent of the appraised value of the property in the case of new buildings and 60 per cent in the case of existing homes. In the latter category the liability of the corporation is limited to 1 billion dollars.

The bill charges the corporation with discouraging building which is held to be "socially undesirable or purely speculative."

Can Issue Own Bonds.

The corporation is authorized to issue its own obligations, to be unconditionally guaranteed by the government.

The second title of the bill provides for the federal incorporation of mortgage associations under the control and supervision of the Federal Home Loan Bank board. A minimum paid-in capital of 5 million dollars is required for the establishment of a national mortgage association.

Provisions are made for periodic examinations of the books and assets of the associations by the FHLBB and specific safeguards and requirements, intended to protect both investors and borrowers in such associations, are set up in the bill. The purpose is to establish a mortgage association system comparable to the national bank system of the federal reserve board.

The third division of the bill sets up the FSLIC, and authorizes it to insure all accounts of approved institutions.

"In the event of a default by an insured institution," the bill recites, "the FSLIC shall be obligated to pay to each insured member the amount of his insured account, not exceeding 10 per cent in cash and 50 per cent of the remainder within one year and the balance within 3 years."

Limit Set at $2,500.

It is stipulated that no account shall be insured for more than $2,500. The premium to be paid the corporation by those insured is fixed at one-half of 1 per cent per annum until the reserves within the corporation shall have accumulated to 5 per cent, and that ratio shall then be maintained. In addition to the insurance premium, an additional premium of not more than one-fourth of 1 per cent per annum is to be charged to defray the current losses and expenses of the corporation.

Amendments to existing statutes in conflict with the new measure also are included in the bill. One of these amends the federal reserve act so as to remove the present limitation of a five year maturity and a 50 per cent of appraised value on home mortgage loans by national banks where such home mortgage loans are insured as provided in the housing act.

Another amendment to the federal reserve act would classify six month residential construction loans as commercial loans and make such loans eligible for rediscount with the federal reserve if accompanied by a valid and binding agreement of an acceptable institution to take up the loan in the form of a mortgage upon the completion of the residential building.

UNION PACKING EMPLOYES OF 15 PLANTS STRIKE

5 Other St. Louis Houses Are Not Affected.

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—Union packing house employés of 15 plants were on strike today in an effort to enforce demands for higher wages and guaranteed hours. Five packing establishments, described by strikers as "fair," were not affected.

All plants were reported operating despite mass picketing. Heavy guard details were posted at the plants by police. No disorder was reported.

Union members called the strike at a meeting yesterday, after a controversy dating back to December.

The union, organized in August under the NRA, claims 2,500 members. Employés demanded minimum wages of 60 cents an hour for laborers and 75 cents hourly for butchers, with a guarantee of 32 hours of work a week.

Union officials claimed most of the employés worked less than 32 hours a week at wage scales ranging from 42½ cents to 52 cents an hour.

Strike for Wage Increase.

Des Moines, Ia., May 14.—(AP)—Approximately 700 employés of the Iowa Packing company here walked from the plant today after their demands for a 10 per cent wage increase were refused.

The men quit after a conference of labor leaders and packing company officials.

Fifty pickets were placed around the plant, although the company announced no attempt to operate with other workers would be made.

Delieveries of meat ceased, and a few carloads of live stock received after the walkout were to be shipped to Swift & Co., in Chicago. The Iowa Packing company is a subsidiary of the Chicago firm.

Others Stick to Work.

Although employés of the Bookey Packing company and the Des Moines Packing company were expected at first to join the strike, they still were at work today.

Employés of these two plants will not be called out, J. L. Slobaske, organizer for the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's union, and Local Union President Harry Brady said.

The union officers said the two plants already are paying the Chicago union wage, demanded by the strikers, and that officials had agreed to other demands of a proposed union agreement, if and when the Iowa Packing company accepts them.

Ask Aid of Governor.

San Francisco, Cal., May 14.—(AP)—Appeals to Gov. James Rolph Jr., to settle the longshoremen's strike were made today as the teamsters' union here walked out in sympathy and 200 river boatmen struck at Portland. Joseph Carson, mayor of Portland, and John Hathaway, president of the San Diego County fruit bureau, urged Gov. Rolph to take immediate steps to settle the controversy.

Charged with Murder.

Birmingham, Ala., May 14.—(AP)—An argument over communism in a meeting of a United Mine Workers of American local in Walker county today had added the third fatality to the roll of casualties in Alabama's industrial unrest, prevailing since mid-February.

A murder warrant was issued for Walter Williams, of Creel Town, today after the death of Ed Higgins, Negro, secretary of the Empire local of the U. M. W. A., from wounds inflicted by Williams Saturday.

NEW DEAL PLAN IS DEFENDED BY JAMES FARLEY

'Tory Press' Attacked by Cabinet Aid.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James A. Farley defended the New Deal and all of President Roosevelt's policies, including the cancellation of air mail contracts, in an address today at the luncheon meeting of the Central Mercantile association at the Pennsylvania hotel.

Mr. Farley also had a few barbed words for the critics of the Roosevelt administration and the "Tory press." He asserted that the administration welcomed criticism of a "constructive nature," but that it would not be disturbed by "harangues of the old guard."

He said that the administration welcomed a "healthy interest" in what the government was doing, but added that some of the interest being shown nowadays is not healthy, "because it is conceived in selfishness and fostered by the same shortsighted sponsorship that had the nation on its knees a year ago last March.

Sees People Constant.

"Some of the critics of the New Deal," he said, "are singing the same doleful tune that they have sung before. The music is the same, although the words may be different. The American people, however, will not be misled. They will not be diverted from their support of the President's program.

"Now I yield to no man in being able to take criticism," Mr. Farley continued. "I have been 'taking it' for many months, on many occasions and on many subjects. My friends, this administration welcomes criticism of a constructive nature, but is not going to be disturbed by harangues by the old guard.

"We have the spectacle of Theodore Roosevelt shouting from the housetops that the constitution is being violated, that business is being despoiled, and that our government rapidly is becoming a despotism. I am satisfied that not many people in this country are going to take that gentleman seriously.

Makes Thrust at Mills.

"Then from another angle we get the picture of a former secretary of the treasury, Ogden Mills, decrying an administration that he professes not to understand, holding up his hands to the skies amid wailing and lamentation.

"They do not frighten us. Their cries are the cries of those who were in positions of power during the last administration, and the result of their efforts during that period are too well known to need any explanation from me at this time."

The postmaster general then plunged into a defense of the government's action in canceling the air mail contracts last February.

"Those contracts," he declared, "were annulled because they were illegal and fraudulent and were costing the government millions of dollars in excess of a proper payment for the services rendered."

GIRL SLASHED BY RELIEF CHEATER SHOWS GAIN

The condition of Miss Frances Allen, social worker, was reported improved yesterday at Presbyterian hospital. Miss Allen was stabbed and slashed with a razor and an ice pick Saturday by Andrew Guerriero, 46 years old, of 831 South Laflin street, a relief cheater whom she had befriended. Physicians say Miss Allen will be scarred for life.

Fear that blood poisoning would develop was virtually dispelled yesterday as Miss Allen's physician, Dr. Edward Miller, asserted she had more than an even chance to recover. He said plastic surgery will be resorted to when the social worker gets well enough to undergo a facial operation. "We can operate and save her features to some extent, but there are bound to be marks left by the incisions," he said.

Guerriero was still being held by Maxwell street police on open charges pending the outcome of Miss Allen's injuries.

5,500,000 BIDS SENT TO 'KEEP CHICAGO AHEAD'

More than 5,500,000 invitations to visit Chicago and the World's Fair this summer have been sent out all over the world, according to an announcement yesterday on the Keep Chicago Ahead Civic committee. The invitations are in different forms, varying from sticker stamps on envelopes to a 16 page rotogravure tabloid which contain many pictures and answers to almost any question about the city or Exposition.

Forty-seven newspapers in 21 states are distributing more than 1,000,000 of the tabloids as a supplement. More than half a million others have been mailed by Chicago business houses. A total of 4,000,000 sticker stamps and envelope inserts have been sent out by 1,000 Chicago firms.

G. R. Schaeffer, chairman of the Keep Chicago Ahead publicity committee, praised the coöperation of the city's business houses in the campaign.

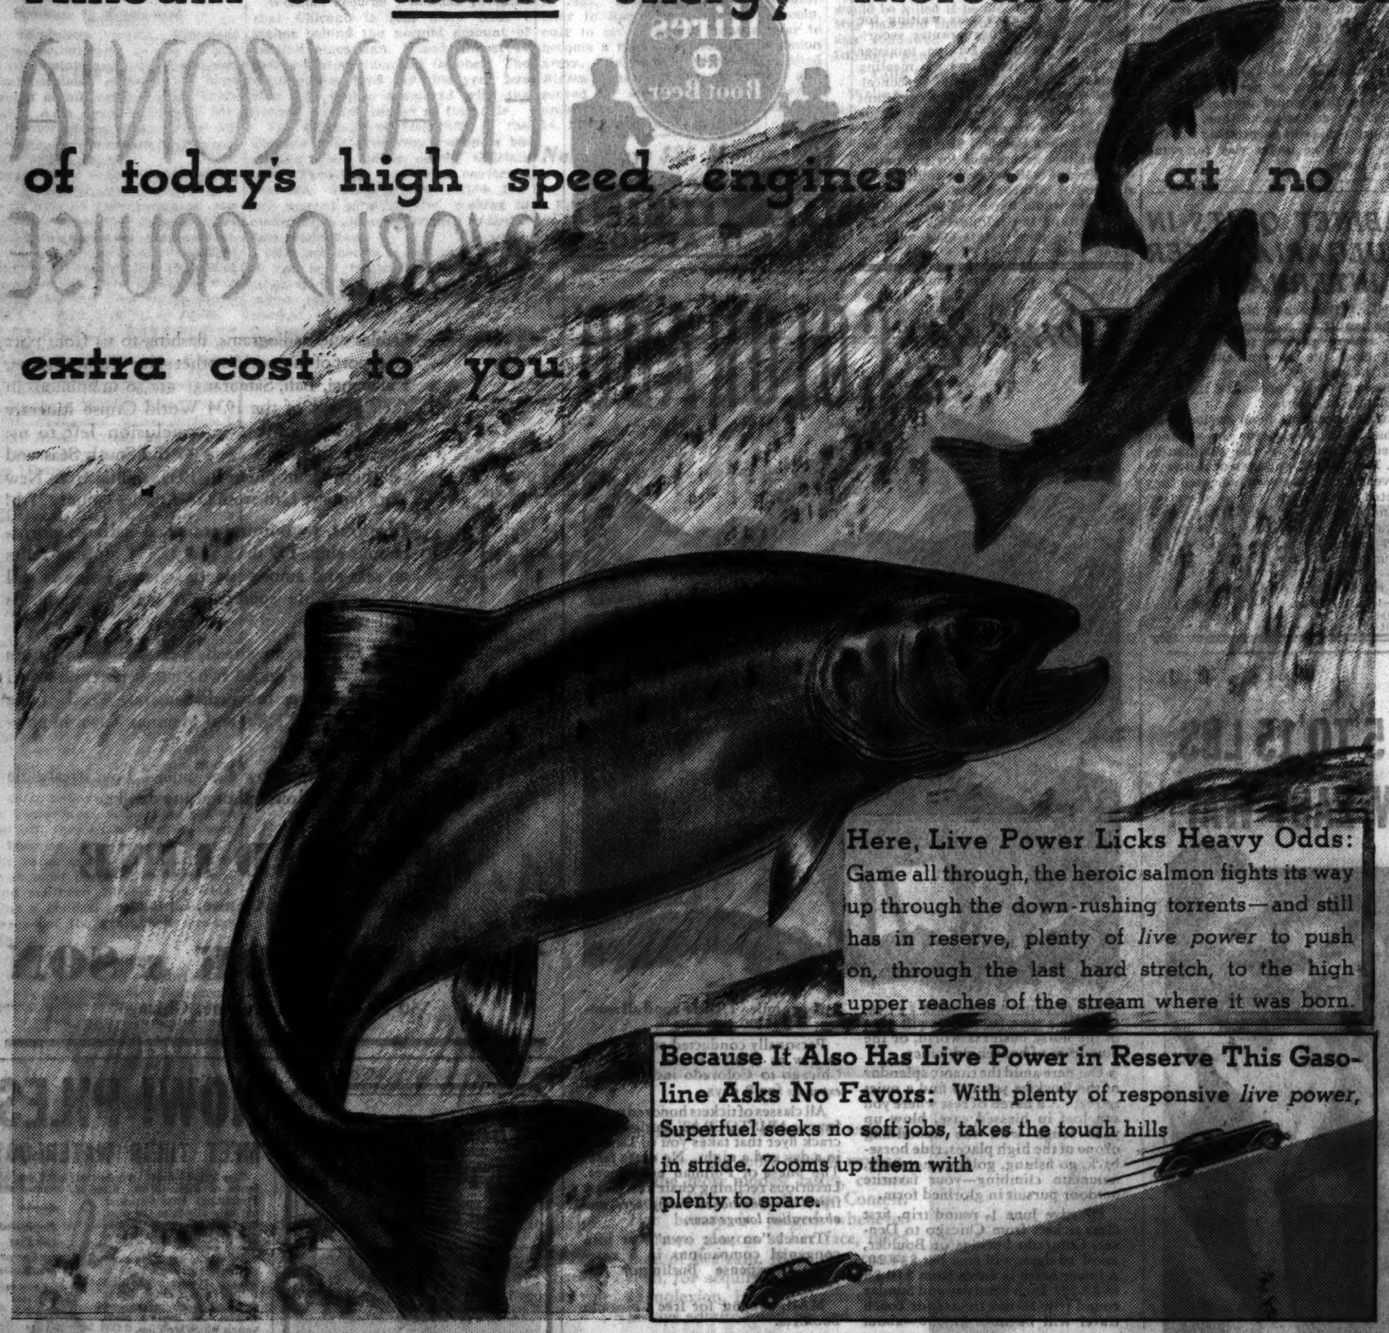
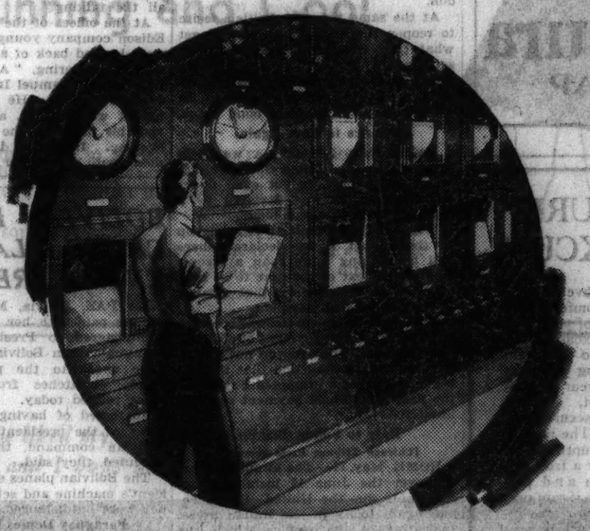
More LIVE POWER per gallon

Amount of usable energy increased to meet the needs of today's high speed engines . . . . at no extra cost to you.



Here, Live Power Licks Heavy Odds: Game all through, the heroic salmon fights its way up through the down-rushing torrents—and still has in reserve, plenty of live power to push on, through the last hard stretch, to the high upper reaches of the stream where it was born.



STANDARD'S refining engineers have taken gasoline which a good many motorists considered practically perfect already and have definitely increased its live, usable power. It is done in the refining process—by converting heavy, slower parts of excellent gasoline into faster-acting units, in other words, into more Live Power per gallon.

This advance is important to you—from the standpoint of speed and engine-response for one thing; of greater operating economy, for another.

Specifically: you may enjoy pushing the needle of your speedometer into the upper speed brackets when you strike a clear stretch. You may like a sprinting start when the light changes. You may enjoy zooming up hills. Obviously, more Live Power enables you to do those things.

On the other hand, if you're economy-minded—and enjoy leisurely touring on holidays, Sundays and during vacation—this added Live Power reduces the operating cost of your trip.

This spirited new fuel is ready to prove its worth in action—ready now—at your nearest Standard Oil Station. Try it!

Because It Also Has Live Power in Reserve This Gasoline Asks No Favors: With plenty of responsive live power, Superfuel seeks no soft jobs, takes the tough hills in stride. Zooms up them with plenty to spare.

Drive in where you see the familiar Red Crown globe and let the Standard Servisman fill your tank with this improved Superfuel. Put it to the test in your own car.

BRITAIN TO PAY DEBT "TOKEN" OR NOTHING TO U. S.

London Awaits Roosevelt Message to Congress.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14.—A token payment or nothing is the settled policy of the British government with regard to the next war debt instalment of $85,670,765.05, due the United States June 15. Though no official announcement has been made, THE TRIBUNE is able to state positively today that the British government has decided definitly to adopt this policy.

Whether a token payment is made depends upon whether America agrees to accept it as clearing Great Britain from the stigma of default. At present Britain is awaiting President Roosevelt's message to congress, which is expected next week, before acting.

Simon Avoids Question.

Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay's reports from Washington so far have not made it clear whether a token payment would be accepted as clearing a default, and in the house of commons today Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, sidestepped the question. He asserted that Attorney General Cummings of the United States had ruled that the former token payments prevented Britain from becoming a defaulter within the meaning of the Johnson debtor nation act.

To a further question as to whether he would hold up all payments until the situation is clarified the foreign chief replied that this would depend upon the circumstances at the moment.

Johnson Act's Effect.

Apart from disliking the stigma of default the Johnson act means little to Britain. Its effect would be to bar the floating of British loans, either governmental or commercial, in the United States, but this prohibition, it is pointed out, would work no hardship on Britain, since America is far more likely to try to borrow in London.

At the same time the British desire to reopen the whole question and get what they consider a just and final settlement.

The favorite method suggested here is payment in a lump sum to be raised by an American bond issue.

France to Pass Again.

PARIS, May 14.—(AP)—A war debt payment to the United States, either whole or in part, is not even under consideration, it was declared by a high official spokesman today.

When the debt question is taken up by the cabinet, it was declared, there will be nothing more than a discussion of the text of the note to be sent to America announcing that France again will pass up payment.

This note is to go forward before June 15, when the payment of $59,000,218.57 is due. The decision not to pay is based on the assertion that the situation which has prompted France in the past to withhold payment remains unaltered.

Italy to Follow Britain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 14.—The annual bickering over the June 15 instalment on war debts due the United States began again today in the Italian press, indicative of the ripples which the question of paying or not paying is causing in government quarters.

Italy, it is expected, will do whatever Great Britain does in regard to making another token payment, but at the same time no occasion is being lost to put forward Premier Mussolini's idea that the only way to settle the debt question is to cancel the debts entirely. The amount due in this instalment is $14,741,593.38.

The opinion is being publicly voiced tonight that Italy ought to press for cancelation outright again or at least instead of making a token payment of a good sized lump sum each debtor nation should on June 15 only pay the United States the sum of $1.

Insulls Pursue Different Methods to Avoid Trials

Samuel Insull, once chairman of the board of the Commonwealth Edison company and of many other utilities, and his brother, Martin Insull, one time president of the Middle West Utilities company, were pursuing different methods yesterday to avoid trials on state and federal indictments.

Samuel Insull will enter a plea today before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan challenging the jurisdiction of the court to try him. Martin Insull will have a hearing tomorrow on a plea in the state Criminal court before Judge James F. Fardy asking dismissal of an embezzlement charge on the ground that the grand jury that indicted him and Samuel was improperly impaneled.

The government will probably ask a delay on the point raised by Samuel, that he was improperly extradited from Turkey.

McCullough Renamed Receiver.

While the two brothers were making arrangements for the criminal cases that developed from the defiation of the Insull utility empire, civil courts were concerned with the receivers who replaced the Insull brothers as bosses of two companies. Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday entered a formal order continuing Charles A. McCullough as receiver for the Middle West Utilities company in accordance with his recent opinion there was no collusion in the appointment of the various Insull receiverships.

Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, who petitioned for the removal of McCullough, promptly announced he would appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and would continue his efforts in behalf of "innocent investors."

In the United States Circuit Court of Appeals the petition of Calvin Fentress, ousted receiver of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was ordered reviewed. The Appeals court denied a motion to dismiss and will therefore pass upon the decision of one of its own members, Judge Evan A. Evans, who sat as a District judge when he found there was collusion in the Insull receivership matter and approved the ouster of Fentress.

Samuel Insull, whose actions are involved in these proceedings this week in state and federal courts, civil and criminal branches, was resting at St. Luke's hospital as a guest patient, more in need of bed and board than of medical attention.

Receives No Visitors.

"Mr. Insull is not receiving calls or visitors," a hospital attaché announced. "Samuel Insull Jr. will do all the talking."

At the offices of the Commonwealth Edison company young Insull's offices were located back of a door on which was the lettering, "Assistant to the Chairman." Samuel Insull Jr.'s name does not appear. He was at a meeting, it was learned, and intended to visit his father at the hospital in the evening. Insull Jr. is under indictment with his father and other former utility officials on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

It is Junior, friends said, who must provide the funds for the defense of the father, as well as for the father's maintenance, and he has retained his job with the power company, although the father was ousted from both job and pension rolls. He is assistant to James Simpson, present head of the electric company.

At the office of United States Attorney Dwight H. Green it was believed that precedent is against Insull Sr.'s chances of avoiding trial. That vague terms, international law, comprises nothing written or enacted which is binding in any way, but consists of custom, diplomacy, contents of treaties between countries and the respect of one power for another power, Prosecutor Green explained.

Old Case Is Cited.

On court interpretation the government appeared to be one up on Samuel Insull. Fifty years ago a man named Ker was seized in Peru and held as a prisoner for this country on a state criminal charge. The arresting officer did not hand Peruvian officials a presidential warant, although one was issued, and Ker's return was called kidnaping. Like Insull's case, it was said he was "shanghaied."

He challenged the jurisdiction of the court, as Insull is doing, and the decision was that it mattered not how the prisoner came before the court, the important thing was that he was before the court.

The state Supreme court agreed with that opinion and eventually the United States Supreme court affirmed the opinion. Government attorneys said this ruling has not been upset in the fifty years following.

Not Here Because of Treaty.

The government's position is that Insull is here and not pursuant to any treaty between the United States and Turkey, although a treaty was ratified between the two countries after Insull's arrest in Istanbul. Mr. Green said he had asked the state department to furnish all the documents needed to resist the Insull contention and as they are not yet ready he would ask Judge Sullivan to grant more time.

None of Insull's co-defendants has asked a severance and therefore they have, so far, indicated a willingness to be tried with him. A bill of particulars has been asked in behalf of each defendant, and the request comes before the court today. The documents outlining the specific allegations against each defendant are not ready, it was said, and a request will be made for additional time for compliance.

It is expected that Insull, too, will ask such a listing of particulars, and the prosecution would prefer to hand them all out at the same time. Thus, the court proceedings relating to the Insulls are to be under way for some time to come.

BOLIVIAN FLYERS CHASE PLANE OF ENEMY PRESIDENT

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 14.—(AP)—A woman paid with her life for a scare administered to President Ayala of Paraguay when Bolivian army planes gave chase to the presidential air yatch, dispatches from the Chaco front related today.

Suspected of having communicated news of the president's flight to the Bolivian command, the woman was executed, they said.

The Bolivian planes sighted the president's machine and set out in pursuit but were outdistanced.

CABINET QUITS IN BULGARIA AFTER INTERNAL ROW

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 14.—(AP)—As the result of a growing disagreement among parties forming a national bloc, the government of Bulgaria, headed by Premier Nicholas Muschanoff, today presented its resignation to King Boris.

Conflicting claims from various parties had been pressed for the vacancy created Saturday by the resignation of M. Kostrukoff, minister of railways.

Government observers indicated they expected parliament to be dissolved and new elections called, but newspapers predicted that Muschanoff would again be named premier. His government was formed Sept. 7, 1933.

LEAGUE MEETS WITH A FEELING ALL IS FUTILE

Council to Act on War in Chaco First.

GENEVA, May 14.—(AP)—Hungary's fervent appeal to the league of nations to settle difficulties with Jugo-Slavia which it fears will "put Europe on fire," was sidetracked momentarily as the league council swung into its 79th session here today.

Adjustment of disturbances on the Hungary-Jugo-Slavia border, which arose as an eleventh hour problem to trouble the league, must await action on problems of the war in the Chaco and the Saar, the council decided.

The charges against border guards of Jugo-Slavia, accused of slaying and mistreating some Hungarians suspected of smuggling, remained, however, one of the most ticklish situations confronting the council.

Sense of Futility.

Disinterestedness and a sense of futility were dominating notes at the resumption of council sessions. The atmosphere of discouragement is due largely to failure of disarmament discussions to make any noteworthy progress.

Swiss newspapers today gave prominence to an interview with Premier Mussolini of Italy in which he is quoted as saying that it will be unnecessary to reform the league if disarmament fails, that the only need will be to make a formal recognition of the death of the league.

Council members, however, struggled bravely against the tide of discouragement. Vigorous action relative to the Chaco war and the Saar plebiscite was being outlined.

May Ask Arms Embargo.

The presumption was that the council will back up the report of the league commission on the Chaco, and perhaps may express vigorous disapproval of sale of arms to the South American belligerents.

Letters to the league from "German front" organizations in the Saar repudiated insinuations that Germany is planning to seize the Saar by armed force.

Meanwhile France was waiting for bids from Britain to guarantee security. Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, attended a private meeting presided over by Augusto Vasconcellos of Portugal and persons cognizant with the recent Paris conversation said that disarmament prospects were gloomy unless Barthou was able to get unbreakable assurances for his nation that France will be given military assistance if attacked.

France would like a military alliance with Britain, but failing this desires a security system reinforcing the Locarno pact.

BIG LANDOWNERS' CHAMPION PICKS POLISH CABINET

War Vet, Aged 42, Is Premier.

WARSAW, May 14.—(AP)—Leon Kozlowski, champion of the large landholding class who is best known for his gay laugh, succeeded in forming a new cabinet today with himself as premier.

Appointment of the 42 year old war veteran and gentleman farmer is expected to give rise to a strong movement for agricultural reform.

He has long been identified with efforts in behalf of the hard hit landowners and is known as a man of exceptional energy.

Few Changes in Cabinet.

The new government represents few changes as compared with the last ministry, which was headed by Janusz Jedrejewicz. Apart from Kozlowski's appointment only two portfolios fell to new ministers.

Much interest was aroused by the naming of Henry Reismann, Jewish former vice minister of finance, to the post of minister of commerce and industry.

George Paciorkowski succeeds Stefan Hubicki as minister of labor and social reform.

Kozlowski will present the cabinet to President Moscicki tomorrow, when the president returns to Warsaw from his summer residence.

Pilsudski Retains Post.

In political circles it is believed the change in premiers was brought on by Minister of War Pilsudski's desire to have a man at the head of the cabinet who will lay particular insistence on agricultural reform.

Pilsudski's retention of the war portfolio is taken to mean that he will continue to maintain firm control of the government.

Kozlowski has a practical mind and is especially interested in addition to farming, in scientific work. He was active from 1909 on in the Polish independence movement and is a veteran of the world war.

He is known in the sejm, to which he was elected in 1929, as the deputy with the gayest laugh.

1935 FRANCONIA WORLD CRUISE

Cables and radiograms, flashing to us from port after port of the world's other side—Tahiti, Samoa, Kalabahai, Bali, Samarang—are so unanimous in their praises of the 1934 World Cruise itinerary that there's only one conclusion left to us: send the Franconia again to the South Seas and Southern Hemisphere in 1935, sailing from New York January 12th, from Los Angeles January 27th!

Glorious, revivifying travel. A gallant, world-famous ship. 139 days and 37,454 cruising miles on seas and among islands where Nature is still an incredible spendthrift, where wonder is still wonder.

And to make an already perfect itinerary more perfect—we've added two exciting ports no world cruise has ever touched: Samarai, "Pearl of the Pacific" in the Fiji's; and Majunga Town in polyglot Madagascar.

Let us tell you how economical, how irresistible such a long-dreamed of cruise can be.

LOOSEN UP AAA RESTRICTIONS IN DROUTH AREAS

Roosevelt Takes Action to Aid Central West.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—A four point relief program for the vast drouth stricken area of the central west was mapped out by President Roosevelt today at a special White House meeting of his relief and farm chiefs. The relief measures include the lifting of AAA crop restrictions in drouth areas.

The President's action came a few hours after members of the house of representatives from the drouth region had banded together and appointed a committee to speed administrative relief and consider possible new legislation for the aid of their constituents.

The special relief program which the President worked out today will be in addition to the continuation and expansion of the regular direct relief and benefit programs being carried on by the federal government.

Four Measures Listed.

The four extraordinary steps which the President agreed to take were:

1. Large purchases of beef cattle from farmers in the drouth area; the beef will be canned by the Federal Emergency Relief administration and used by it in its direct relief work.

2. Relaxation by the AAA of its acreage reduction contracts with farmers in the drouth region so that the farmers there can raise summer forage crops.

3. A federal request addressed to all railroads in the area, asking them to reduce further their freight rates on cattle moving out of the drouth area and feed moving into it.

4. Federal relief funds for the deepening and drilling of wells which will increase the available water supply. In addition the relief administration will continue giving relief to all needy farmers and their families, providing stock feed until new pastures are available, and furnishing seed for emergency forage crops, according to a White House statement issued after the conference.

Hopkins Is Summoned.

The committee which President Roosevelt summoned to the White House to consider and meet the drouth situation consisted of Harry L. Hopkins, relief administration chief; Chester Davis, AAA head; William I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit administration, and Lawrence Westbrook, assistant to Mr. Hopkins.

Although they caucused this morning and appointed a continuing committee of nine of their members, the congressmen from the drouth states gave no indication that they will attempt to expand or protest against the plans sketched by the President. They avowed that their intention was to aid him any way they can in speeding relief to their farmers at home.

The committee of representatives consists of James H. Sinclair [Rep., N. D.], chairman; Guy M. Gillette [Dem., Ia.], Einar Holdale [Dem., Minn.], Fred H. Hildebrandt [Dem., S. D.], Gerald J. Boileau [Rep., Wis.], Terry M. Carpenter [Dem., Neb.], James A. Meeks [Dem., Ill.], Roy E. Ayers [Dem., Mont.], and Virginia E. Jenckes [Dem., Ind.].

BOYS HAVE THEIR BIG DAY AS EXECUTIVES; PART OF YOUTH WEEK

Young men between the ages of 16 and 19 years took the helms of a number of businesses in the city yesterday as industry participated in observance of Chicago Youth week. Ceremonies sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and by the Chicago Federation of Labor were held simultaneously in the offices of the Illinois Central railroad, the Hotel Sherman, the Association of Commerce, and A Century of Progress.

At the Hotel Sherman Eugene Ward, 19 years old, the newest employé, who is an elevator operator, took over the responsibilities of Manager Frank Bering for an hour. The first problem which confronted him was disposition of a banquet for 1,500 persons tomorrow night. He spent his hour conferring with the chef, the maitre d'hotel, the housekeeper, and the head steward, arranging for food, nappery, and service. Other youths in the other offices met typical problems which executives face.

Today sixty-five boys and girls of high scholastic standing will gather in the office of Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of Chicago schools, to receive notice that they have been awarded prizes for their "outstanding leadership and citizenship work."

HITLERITES PAY HIGH TRIBUTE TO CARL SCHURZ

New Home Opened in His Honor in Berlin.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 14.—The Nazi salute was given in memory of Carl Schurz, and the Nazi anthem as well as the American national anthem were played in his honor here today. The occasion was the inauguration of the new home of the Carl Schurz association in Germany. It is a sumptuous villa on a quiet, aristocratic street in the center of the capital.

A bust of Schurz, by Theodor Pilarts, was unveiled after speeches were made by Dr. Max Ilgner, president of the association, and John Campbell White, counselor of the American embassy. The two exchanged amenities on the mutual understanding of the nations.

Called an "Ideal Nazi."

Prof. Dr. Wolfgang Windelband of Berlin university outlined "Carl Schurz's mission on the 28th anniversary of Carl Schurz's death." Adroitly, he fitted the personality and life of Schurz into the mold of what the Germans consider to be an ideal Nazi who, "struggling for national unity, abhors party systems."

The children of the American school, and a delegation from the same corporation of students at Bonn university, to which Schurz belonged before he went to America, were among the guests filling the building.

One of the four rooms of the residence reserved for American students was donated by Henry Maun of the National City bank. He gave a perfect Nazi salute upon receiving a special bronze medal which was distributed to all persons who helped the association purchase and equip the building. The Carl Schurz association shares the new quarters with the Association of German National Clubs.

SERVED IN CIVIL WAR.

Carl Schurz was born March 2, 1829, near Cologne. He joined the political liberty party, and fled to Switzerland in 1849. He came to the United States in 1852. Schurz was appointed minister to Spain by Abraham Lincoln, only to return a few months later to become a major general in the union army. He was later elected United States senator from Missouri, and served as secretary of the interior under President Hayes. He died May 14, 1906, in New York city.

Neise Pays $25 Alimony, Averts a Trip to Jail

Edwin G. Neise, former assistant cashier of the Foreman State National bank, avoided being sent to jail yesterday by following the orders of Judge Rudolph Desort and paying his wife $25 on back alimony which she charges amounts to $200. According to the court's order, he is to pay $25 each week.

DILLINGER GIRL, DOCTOR, NURSE ON TRIAL TODAY

Missing Witness Found; Guard Planned.

St. Paul, Minn., May 14.—[Special.]—Whether John Dillinger is in Mexico or South America, as declared by his attorney, Louis Piquett, here today, the government agents are taking no chances in arranging for the trial tomorrow of three persons charged with harboring him while he was in this city and Minneapolis.

On the chance that he might make some effort to rescue his sweetheart, Evelyn Frechette, there will be extra guards at the federal court here tomorrow when she goes on trial.

Doctor, Nurse on Trial.

With her, as co-defendants, will be Dr. Clayton May and Mrs. Augusta Salt of Minneapolis, his nurse. The doctor is charged with failing to report to the police that he dressed a wound for Dillinger after that outlaw's dramatic escape from a police trap here. When these three persons are taken daily from the jail to the federal court they will be accompanied by extra guards and police machine gun squads in autos will patrol the route taken by them.

The trial is expected to require a week and the government will be represented by District Attorney Sullivan, Miss Frechette by Piquett, a former city attorney of Chicago. Mrs. Salt's young son will be a government witness. Wallace, who is 11, is expected to testify that Dillinger was at his mother's home.

Missing Witness Appears.

On the eve of the trial the prosecution discovered that one of its witnesses was missing. She is Mrs. Dolores Smart, 22, a Minneapolis blonde, who later appeared at the federal building. She is regarded as a good witness against the physician. It has been reported that she went with Dr. May to a Minneapolis apartment, where he treated Dillinger for a bullet wound in a leg, after the Indiana desperado shot his way to freedom in St. Paul, March 31. Mrs. Beth Green, another friend of the doctor's is relied on as a government witness.

She and Mrs. Smart are counted on to testify that he was with Mrs. Smart several times during the four days that Dillinger was at the home of Mrs. Salt, recuperating from the wound. These women, it is reported, will try to refute the claim the doctor is expected to make that he attended Dillinger because he feared that he would be killed if he did not do so. Dr. May has said that during that time he was shadowed by Eugene Green, a Dillinger gangster, since killed.

Calls Crown Point Witness.

While Attorney Piquett expressed the belief that Dillinger has left the United States, the government was active to prove that he was a fugitive from federal justice. To prove that, Edward Saager, garage mechanic, of Crown Point, Ind., has been subpenaed to appear tomorrow to tell of the theft by Dillinger of Sherif Lillian Holly's auto. As Saager was driven into Illinois by Dillinger he is needed to show that Dillinger had broken the Dyer act against the interstate movement of a stolen auto. Dillinger stole the auto after his notorious break from the Crown Point jail.

GRAF RELEASES GLIDER IN FLIGHT IN AIR MAIL TEST

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 14.—(AP)—A motorless glider was released from the Graf Zeppelin today at a height of 2,000 feet, marking the first time, German aviation authorities said, that a glider had been successfully released from a dirigible in motion.

The Zeppelin was making a speed of 25 miles an hour and further experiments at speeds up to 80 miles an hour are planned. If successful, gliders may be used to land mail or passengers from an airship, making it unnecessary for the latter to land.

Soviets to Launch "Air Train."

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, May 14.—The first long cross country flight of an "air train"—a group of gliders towed by a plane—in the Soviet union and perhaps in the world will be undertaken here within a few days. According to an announcement today, a soviet mail plane pulling three gliders will make the journey from Moscow to Koktebel in Crimea, a distance of 1,000 miles. Only one halt is planned, at Kharkoff, half way, and the trip is expected to take ten hours. Koktebel is the soviet union's chief glider training and experiment station.

The decision to make the glider train journey was taken today after the second and most successful within two days of a flying train made up of an airplane and three gliders. This is the largest glider train ever flown in Russian, though trains of equal size have been flown in Germany recently.

Hope to Make Aviation History.

The flight to Crimea will make aviation history, for nothing comparable has been attempted. It is understood that planes have towed one glider across the United States, but trains of three gliders have only been flown over airdromes. Soviet air officials expect the Crimea flight to be the forerunner of a regular glider train service carrying mail, rush freight, and even occasionally passengers.

A test of the three glider train was first made last evening at the army aviation training field near Moscow and was repeated this evening in the presence of this correspondent. The gliders have been designed by glider experts of the Osoviachim, a voluntary society devoted to aiding the development of aviation.

We Like Our Summer Frocks Cunning and Cool

We are the "two to sixes," and we're going to be very particular about our frocks this summer. We want cool voiles or lawns or dimities like these, all hand-smocked or embroidered. So we are telling our mothers to hurry right down to Carson's Baby Shop this very day and buy our summer wardrobes. There's no doubt about it, $1.95 dresses like these are too good for any mother or daughter to miss.

COOLER, BUT NO RAIN

BY PAUL POTTER.

With a forecast of continued cool but rainless weather for today, Chicago and the countryside around it continued to suffer from the drouth which recent rains over the grain belt tempered for the time being. Chicago's first 14 days in May have been the second driest on record, and the total rainfall for the year is still the lightest at this date in 63 years of official weather records.

According to C. A. Donnel, federal weather man here, the only chance for a good rain soon in this region would come with a southeast wind from the upper Ohio valley where rains were falling yesterday. Atmospheric conditions left this as a remote possibility, however.

Light rains continued to fall yesterday in most parts of Indiana, central and southern Illinois, and Ohio, following a general precipitation over wide areas of the grain belt Sunday and Monday.

Grain Gets Showers.

In a compilation of the reports from federal stations yesterday, Forecaster Donnel reported rains had covered all the corn and wheat belts with the exception of South Dakota, parts of Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, and Minnesota. No rains have fallen in the last six days at the lowest tip of Illinois.

Heavy rains continued yesterday in parts of Kansas and Missouri. At Wichita, Kas., the precipitation was 1.76 inches and at Kansas City, Mo., it was .60 of an inch. St. Louis, which had received no rains in the last five days, reported a precipitation of 0.50.

At Evansville, Ind., the precipitation was 0.84 of an inch. At Springfield, Ill., the reading was 0.18.

New Dry Spell Records.

Watertown, Wis., got 3.38 inches in the same period, almost as much as Chicago has had since Jan. 1. Two light showers of .01 inch each is all the Chicago region has had in May, making this the second driest early May period on record. In 1903 Chicago got but .01 of an inch in the first 14 days of May, while last year the fall was 2.71 inches.

Weather records yesterday revealed that Chicago is still more than 7 inches behind the normal amount of rainfall since Jan. 1 and almost 10 inches behind since last October. The precipitation thus far this year has been 3.91 inches compared with the normal of 11.05 inches at this date.

The shortage of feedstuffs in the Chicago milk producing region is becoming more acute daily. Officials of the Pure Milk association conferred yesterday with Frank C. Baker, federal market administrator, seeking to make shifts among dairymen to maintain production.

Milk production is said to be nearly 20 per cent below the peak volume produced in 1933. Ice cream manufacturers report difficulty in obtaining normal supplies from dairymen of Wisconsin.

HAVEN'T you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

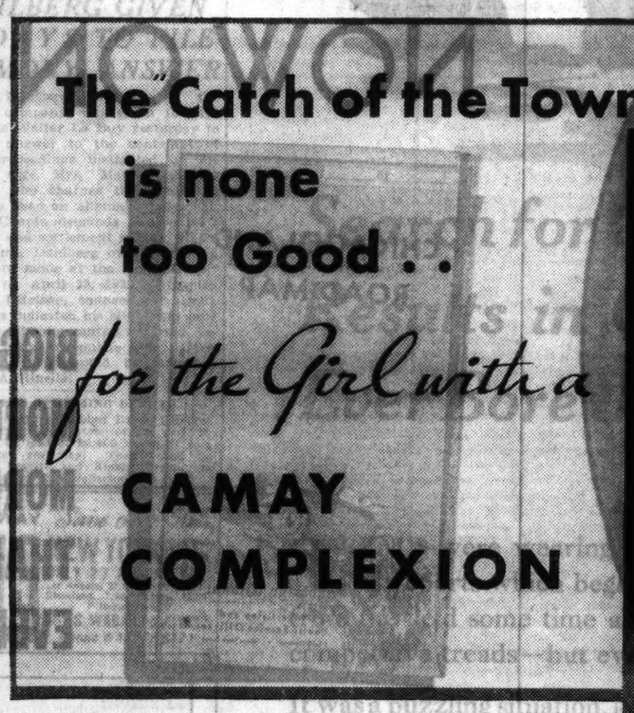
Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The "Catch of the Town" is none too Good . . for the Girl with a CAMAY COMPLEXION



The girl with a clear, fresh Camay Complexion is a match for the best-looking man ever born.

Her lovely skin sets fire to his heart and brings words of love to his lips.

It's visible in your mirror—it's evident when you touch your cheek—that a clearer, softer skin makes you a more attractive woman.

For with Camay, the Soap of Beautiful Women, dull, dingy skin acquires new freshness. Your skin looks better within a few weeks. Your whole appearance is improved by the use of Camay on your face.

A CAMAY COMPLEXION AND ANOTHER BEAUTY CONTEST WON!

Beauty Contests of the bathing-girl kind may seem theatrical and undignified to a lot of women.

But even the most modest woman, of the most modest tastes, cannot escape life's daily Beauty Contest. Her beauty is judged whenever someone glances at her face, takes note of her skin. More the reason, then, for acquiring a lovely Camay Complexion. It's one charm that is always admired and praised.

"I'd be just commonplace looking, if it weren't for my soft, delicate complexion," said a buyer for a big department store. "Naturally I give my skin the best care. I use Camay because it's so mild."

Try Camay—and convince yourself! Fact is, you'll regret it if you don't. For hundreds of thousands of good-looking women have discovered that Camay is a wonderful help to feminine beauty!

"And he said he liked my outfit, and I think he liked my eyes and I hope he liked my skin."

VIEW OF RACING AUTOS REVEALS REVISED ENGINES

Otherwise, Some Are Called Stock Cars.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 14.—[Special.]—The average American motorist who selects a standard sedan that will do 80 or 100 miles an hour may enjoy looking under the hoods of some of the fifty-three gasoline steeds that are being groomed for the annual 500 mile automobile race here on Memorial day. The cars are in stalls at the Speedway garage with grease stained mechanics under them and over them, making final adjustments for the qualification runs that will start next Saturday.

Twelve of the machines seeking to qualify for one of the thirty-three starting positions are so-called semi-stock models, but it's difficult to identify their parentage. Of course, the bodies are special jobs, but that's only a small part of the transition that has been made from the factory output.

Uses Special Devices.

Jack Petticord, a veteran Chicago race driver, was found squirting grease and oil in what has been called a popular make of V-8. With the hood cover removed, it was noted that the engine is without a fan or generator. Ignition is furnished by a magneto, and the fuel is injected by a large double throated carburetor.

"Oil capacity and pressure have been stepped up," said Petticord. "The compression has been increased by machining the piston head. The timing has been changed so that the intake valves are held open longer and the outlets closed quicker.

"The shock absorbers are doubled all around and the leaf springs are of the heavy truck type. The wheels are larger than on a stock car and the tires weigh less than a stock tire of this size. And the gear ratio is higher than ordinarily used."

"Otherwise, it's a stock car," he concluded without cracking a smile.

Meaning of Stock Car.

The term stock car is used on the track to differentiate from the costly hand built jobs that have taken most of the prize money from this speedway in other years. Of these the four cylinder engines are enjoying a revived popularity due to a new restriction to forty-five gallons on the amount of gasoline that a car may use on the 500 mile grind.

There are twenty of these quadruples among the fifty-three preparing for the race. The others are eight cylinder jobs with the exception of three of sixteen cylinders.

Special Fuel Tested.

Another effect of the gasoline limitation has been the appearance of a new fuel being tested by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Little is known about it except that it is selling to the drivers at 40 cents a gallon and it's supposed to give more mileage.

Two Diesel motors, free from worry over fuel consumption, are also in the lineup for the qualification runs. One is of the so-called two cycle type. That means that every down stroke of the piston is accompanied by an explosion. A blower forces air into the cylinder at the bottom of the stroke, eliminating the intake stroke of the common automotive design.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

Planting New Crops.

May 14, 1934.
BY PAUL POTTER.

THIS is a busy week at the farm. Jimmy Holbert and Earl Sieveking have come up from Bloomington to help us put into the valley of the Fox river some unusual crops, many of which are alien to the corn belt and others which have been tried in a limited way but not under actual farm conditions.

Last winter we began the search for new crops to be added to the list that middle west farmers for years have depended upon: Corn, oats, wheat, timothy and clover hay, and the like. Today we began to feel a new thrill as we looked over the bags of seeds, reading labels of crops that have come recently from China, Russia, Japan, and central Europe. They are still colonists in a new country so far as we are concerned, and the planting of these crops marks our first milestone in an attempt to acclimate those showing the most possibilities for a new era in farming in the middle west.

Some of these crops will have a familiarity about their names. Bison flax, for instance, is the most productive offspring of a crop that was widely planted when the prairies were first broken up. Farmers lost sight of flax, with wheat, corn, and other crops showing so much profit. Now that a crop is needed to supplant some of the wheat and oats we have been using in corn belt rotations, flax offers possibilities. As a nation we still import linseed, the seed of flax, for paints and varnishes. The fiber supplies fine table linens, almost all of which we import, and for years Americans have been trying to find a cheap way to convert the fiber of flax into linen.

The flax planted here has several advantages of promise. It can be sown early and germinates and grows in cool weather. By midsummer its leaves shatter off and if legumes or other crops have been sown with the flax they get a chance to develop. In this aspect flax may become a profitable "nurse crop" in our rotations.

Then we are sowing several rows each of less well known crops. In this list there are almost certain to be some strangers, even to modern agriculturists: Milo maize, white kaffir, saflower, buckwheat, broom corn, Russian seed producing hemp, German millet, Japanese millet, Hungarian millet, prose [type of millet], Reed canary grass [phalaris], federita, waconia orange cane, mammoth Russian sunflower, early amber cane, sesame [has small tan seeds, not the black ones used in seasoning foods], cowpeas, 14 kinds of soybeans, easycook beans, sudan grass, pyrethrum and derris.

There are others going into the fields that will be named later. But today's selections give a starter in the sowing of the 85 kinds of unusual strains or types which were selected out of 300 possibilities for the first summer's efforts on the farm here.

A sample of each crop's seeds has been saved, and we are mounting them in a case in the information house where they may be viewed when visitors to the farm, later in the season, watch the crops growing in the experimental plots. Some of the seeds will take some special care and we are arranging to keep the crops not acclimated in inclosures of a simple nature to aid them in becoming hardy to our weather and soil.

Japan's Ambassador Will Visit Chicago Next Week

Ambassador Hirosi Saito of Japan will arrive in Chicago next Monday, it was announced yesterday by K. Nakauchi, acting consul. That evening a banquet will be given the ambassador by the Army and Navy club and the Japan-America society at the Lake Shore Athletic club. The following afternoon a reception will be held at the Blackstone hotel in honor of Mr. Saito, with invitations issued for 600 guests.

STOPS HIS TRIAL TO PLEAD GUILTY ON FOUR COUNTS

Quash Theft Charged to Rockford Ex-Treasurer.

Rockford, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—E. J. Hinz, former Rockford city treasurer, interrupted the opening of his trial today in connection with a shortage of $12,330 in his accounts to plead guilty to four counts in the indictment. By agreement of State's Attorney Robert E. Nash, a fifth count, which charged embezzlement, was quashed.

Hinz's guilty plea applied to the four counts which charged him with withholding public funds. His attorney immediately filed a petition for probation which will be heard Friday by Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff. Four of the jurors chosen to hear the case were dismissed.

Much Legal Maneuvering.

The unexpected change of plea followed several hours of legal maneuvering on the part of Hinz and his attorney, Ray Lichtenwallner. As the selection of the jury progressed, Lichtenwallner suddenly held a whispered conversation with his client and then asked permission of the court to change the plea. Judge Shurtleff assented.

Hinz was indicted on a charge of embezzling $12,300 of city funds, although a detailed audit completed after the treasurer left office showed a total shortage of $18,904.

Turns Back $4,825.

Hinz made restitution of $4,825 which he deposited to the city's account with the Northern Trust company of Chicago.

Under his guilty plea Hinz faces a penalty of one to ten years imprisonment. It had been planned to begin testimony in the case tomorrow following the completion of the selection of a jury today. Since his indictment Hinz has been at liberty on bail.

Hunt Postoffice Worker Missing for 11 Days

The police were searching yesterday for Timothy J. Butler, 50 years old, 4449 Oakenwald avenue, a postoffice employé, who disappeared on the mornig of May 3 after leaving the postoffice in the loop. His coat and badge were later found that day in front of 202 West 22d street.

ENGINEER HELD FOR RAPING AND SLAYING OF GIRL

Admits Date with Her, but Denies Charge.

San Francisco, May 14.—[Special.]—Millard Hickman, 40, steamship company engineer, was charged today with the murder of Miss Louise Jeppesen, 23, of Ogden, Utah, whose body was found in Golden Gate park early Sunday morning. Police said she had been raped and garroted with a belt and scarf from the dress she wore.

The charge was steadfastly denied by Hickman, who was questioned by police investigators and state's attorney's prosecutors for twenty hours following his seizure Sunday afternoon. Hickman, who is married and the father of two daughters, although estranged from his wife, admitted that he had been on a drinking party with the girl Saturday night, however.

Lingerie in Automobile.

This admission coupled with the fact that some of the girl's lingerie was found in Hickman's automobile, and that police physicians discovered a bruise on his leg and a deep scratch on his hand, caused Assistant District Attorney Peter J. Mullins to sign the murder warrant against him.

Hickman explained that following an evening drinking with another couple he and Miss Jeppesen had returned to his apartment. He asserted that the girl "passed out" and said that he had laid her on his bed and removed her shoes to make her comfortable.

Says Girl Left Alone.

When she revived, he said, he lay beside her on the bed. He asserted that she had resented this and had scuffled with him. It was during this scuffle, he related, that he had received the scratch and bruise.

Afterward, Hickman told police, Miss Jeppesen had left the hotel alone. He said that he had not left his room until police arrived to question him.

The prosecutor said that he had found several witnesses who say they saw Hickman and Miss Jeppesen leaving the hotel elevator together.

CAR WHEEL KILLS WORKMAN.

John Proskin, 61 years old, 3631 Eddy street, laborer employed at the Griffin Wheel company's plant, 445 North Sacramento avenue, was fatally injured early yesterday morning when a railroad car wheel he was rolling fell and struck him.

ALDERMEN ORDER NEW WATER BILL PLAN REDRAFTED

An ordinance making water bills a lien on property and providing for deposits by property owners to insure payment was sent back to subcommittee yesterday by the city council finance committee. This action followed a statement by Ald. John S. Clark [30th] finance committee, chairman, that certain provisions of the ordinance would be ruinous to the renting business. The ordinance as drafted would provide joint responsibility of owner and tenant, something considered unworkable by the committee. The measure will be rephrased.

The movement for the ordinance grew out of recent losses of thousands of dollars through nonpayment of water bills. It was pointed out that a large share of these losses is traceable to property in receivership. The ordinance plan is based on a state law which permits a municipality to pass an act making city bills a lien on real estate.

MELLOWED BY AGE
Enriched by Tradition
Fine beer can't be made over night. Behind fine beer must be age—and tradition. Budweiser is richly endowed with both. Anheuser-Busch began brewing in 1865. Budweiser was created in 1876. Its unforgettable quality was so outstanding that in the International Exposition in Paris in '78 it won first honors from all the brews of the world. It was awarded the gold medal at the World's Fair in Philadelphia in 1876, at Amsterdam in 1883, at New Orleans in 1885 and Chicago in 1893. BUDWEISER's greatest distinction never has been matched by any other brew anywhere — the biggest-selling bottled beer in history.

BIGGER, MORE COMPLETE, MORE INFORMATIVE THAN EVER BEFORE—
CHICAGOLAND MAP
ENTIRELY NEW — ENLARGED — UP-TO-DATE
● It's out today! The finest, most elaborate road map of the Chicago territory ever published—the Chicago Tribune's 1934 Chicagoland Map. It makes all previous road maps of this area obsolete.
Easier to Read and Follow!
One side of the map shows, in complete detail, the area of metropolitan Chicago. It is printed on a scale of five-eighths of an inch to a mile—almost twice as large a scale as that used in previous maps! This makes it the most easily read, most easily followed map of metropolitan Chicago procurable. Roads are well separated. Even in the cluster of roads converging on Chicago there is no cluttering. Larger type permits you to read place names and directions even in dim light.
Covers More Territory!
On the reverse side, in smaller scale—seven-eighths of an inch to five miles—the map shows every paved, improved, and unimproved road from Madison, Wis., and Grand Haven, Mich., on the north, to Champaign, Ill., and Lafayette, Ind., on the south; and from Kalamazoo, Mich., on the east, to Freeport, Ill., on the west. This is the greatest extent of territory ever covered by any Chicagoland Map.
Easier to Handle!
The spread of the new map is larger, but it folds more compactly than any of its forerunners—and fits the pocket better. Because of its unique accordion fold you need never open more than one-eighth of the map when driving. This latest and greatest Chicagoland Map is beautifully printed in five colors on strong, durable paper.

DRIVE FIRST PILE FOR NEW ILLINOIS WATER TERMINAL

Boosts Lake-Gulf Trade; Cost $200,000.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The first steel piling was driven yesterday for the northern terminal of the Illinois waterway to be built at the junction of the Chicago river and the sanitary ship canal near South Damen avenue.

The terminal, to be owned by the state, is to cost $200,000, and it is to be paid for by the Illinois Central and Santa Fe railroads. It is expected to be completed in five months or less, and it is estimated to have a capacity for handling one million tons of freight a year.

Settlement Netted $200,000.

The $200,000 fund became available through the settlement, September, 1928, of one of the old "90 foot strip" cases involving title to old Illinois and Michigan canal lands. Some three years ago, attention of the state legislators was directed to the fact that the money was lying around loose awaiting action, but dawdling at Springfield held back enactment of measures at the statehouse until last July.

In the meantime, the Illinois waterway was thrown open to commerce and navigation. THE TRIBUNE, in February, 1933, sending the first boat, the Sea King, the first freight, and the first passengers over the new water route which links the great lakes with the gulf of Mexico.

The terminal site is already improved with deep water slips, docks, railroad tracks sufficient for 400 cars, a covered transfer platform, and a concrete grain elevator with a capacity of a million bushels. One of the Carlstrom stipulations was that when the state took title it should also become owner of the buildings.

The terminal has frontage on both the sanitary ship canal and the Chicago river and it is connected with all railroad trunk lines.

Called Ideal Site.

Chicago's produce terminal and fruit auction house are contiguous to the waterway terminal and traffic experts have pronounced it an ideal site. Since 1908 it has been used for handling the bulk of the lake-rail trafic in Chicago. Package freight and grain are transferred from boat to rail and from rail to boat. The terminal has belt line service, the Chicago River and Indiana railroad connecting with the 28 trunk lines railroads in the Chicago switching district.

Yesterday's initial pile driving was watched by C. M. Briggs, state terminal engineer; A. M. Broude, waterway architect, and Thomas B. Casey, a state construction engineer.

ROGALSKI BOY'S LAWYER MOVES TO QUASH CASE

Attorney Thaddeus Toudor, counsel for George Rogalski, 13 years old, indicted for the abduction and murder of 2 year old Dorette Zietlow, attacked the jurisdiction of the Criminal courts in a motion to quash the indictments before Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday.

The boy, Attorney Toudor asserted in his motion, rightfully belongs under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile court, of which he was formerly a ward, and cannot legally be tried in the Criminal courts because of his age. The motion also attacked the wording of the indictments.

The state has until tomorrow to file an answer. Judge Feinberg indicated he would rule on the question Thursday. Rogalski was not in court.

HOUSE VOTES TO SIFT MILK DISTRIBUTION THROUGHOUT COUNTRY

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—The Kopplemann resolution authorizing the federal trade commission to conduct a sweeping investigation of milk distribution throughout the United States was passed unanimously in the house today and sent to the senate. It carries an authorization of $60,000 for expenses.

"Senator Ashurst expects to have the concurrent resolution called up in the senate at the earliest possible moment," said Representative Kopplemann tonight. "I am going to discuss the matter with him and also Senator Dill, chairman of the interstate committee, tomorrow."

Mr. Kopplemann said that if it was found that more money was needed, the added amount might be agreed to in conference. We said it might be determined that a smaller amount would suffice.

In the preamble to the resolution it was pointed out that distributors in four of the largest milk sheds for the five years ending Dec. 31, 1933, made a net profit of 25.71 per cent on net plant investments.

The report said that distributors in the Philadelphia area made a profit of 30.76 per cent; Boston, 22.45 per cent; St. Louis, 14.64 per cent and Chicago, 25.84 per cent.

Under the measure approved today the federal trade commission was authorized to determine whether the milk distribution industry had been conducted in a manner to lessen competition substantially, create a monopoly or was a party to any conspiracy in restraint of trade.

No date was set for the federal trade commission to report to congress.

AAA SETS DAYS OF HEARING OF 5 DAIRY CASES

Five public hearings on alleged violations of the agricultural adjustment administration's milk marketing code for the Chicago area will be held this week in the customs courtroom of the United States Appraisers' building, 610 South Canal street, it was announced yesterday by the AAA.

Today the charges against the I. O. Lantz Dairy company of Plainfield will be heard. Tomorrow evidence against the Lemont Dairy company, 840 West 31st street, and the White Eagle Dairy company, 4918 Loomis street, will be presented. Charges against the Midland Dairy company, 3314 West 47th street, will be heard on Thursday and against the Kewaskum Creamery company, Kewaskum, Wis., on Friday.

The AAA has stipulated that proceedings against four other dairy companies in the Chicago area, which have started injunction proceedings to prevent enforcement of the code, be deferred until after a hearing of the injunction case before Federal Judge John P. Barnes on May 25. These concerns are the Josef Wagner Co., the Anton Michalek Co., the Edgewater Dairy company, and the Joliet Dairy company.

DAHLBERG GIVEN 10 DAYS TO FILE ALIMONY ANSWER

Bror Dahlberg, president of the Celotex company, was given 10 days by Judge Walter La Buy yesterday to file an answer to the contempt of court proceedings instigated by his former wife, Mrs. Mary Dahlberg Chapin, who charges that Dahlberg failed to keep an alimony agreement.

Mrs. Chapin demands $41,250 back alimony and settlement money which, she claims, Dahlberg owes her on a settlement made at the time of their divorce on April 23, 1932. Attorney Samuel Ettelson, counsel for Dahlberg, has indicated his client will hold that the alimony contract is void, because it is against public policy. Mrs. Chapin is represented by Attorney Samuel A. Rinella.

ASK 4TH SPECIAL SESSION TO VOTE REVENUE CHANGE

Seek Action for November Election Referendum.

The Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, in a statement issued yesterday, urged that Gov. Horner call a fourth special session of the legislature to pass on an amendment to the revenue section of the state constitution, that it might be submitted to a referendum at the November election.

The report of the organization, issued by Alfred Cowles, president, and Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary, outlines a proposed amendment. It points out that the state's revenue system has had no change since the present constitution was adopted in 1870, and virtually no change since Illinois was admitted to the union in 1818.

Provisions of Amendment.

The proposed amendment would provide for classification of real estate and personal property under different tax rates, for a state income tax with a $2,000 exemption, and a provision that the maximum rate should not be more than three times the minimum. It also would provide limitation of the tax rate on any property to 1½ per cent of the full value, exclusive of state taxes, those to pay judgments and bond interest and principal, and taxes specially authorized by a referendum or a two-thirds vote of the legislature.

Changes in the revenue section of the constitution have been submitted to referenda four times since 1916, and have been defeated each time by increasingly large votes. Passage of an amendment requires a majority of all the votes cast in the general election, and this has never been forthcoming.

In recent years opposition to revenue amendments which would put more taxing power in the hands of the legislature have met especially stiff opposition in Chicago, because of the failure of the legislature to reapportion the state and give the city the voice provided by law in dispensing the revenue to be collected under the broader powers of the proposed amendment.

Best Vote in 1916.

The amendment which came closest to passage in a referendum was that of 1916. It received 656,293 votes to 295,782, but the Supreme court held that 671,691 were necessary to passage. The proposed new state constitution, submitted in 1922, was beaten, 921,398 to 185,298, following a campaign in which one of the leading objections to the document was its provision for an income tax.

Again in 1926 a revenue amendment was submitted. It received 651,768 votes to 476,455, but required 956,354 for passage. The last amendment, submitted in 1930, was beaten, 513,861 to 371,812. It would have required 1,166,349 votes for passage.

CLERK FOUND DEAD AT DESK.

FATE OF JUDICIAL ELECTION SAVING AT STAKE TODAY

Last Day for Withdrawals —2 Nominees Hold Key.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Whether $150,000 of the Chicago taxpayers' money will be spent to elect one associate justice of the Municipal court to serve a term of approximately thirty months will be settled today.

This is considered the deadline for withdrawals from nominations for the election of June 4. The one obstacle to complete coalition on the judicial slate is the city bench vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge John F. O'Connell, following his election to the Probate court. If neither of the two nominees for this position withdraws the proposed saving of $150,000 by the consolidation of election precincts for this one election will be impossible.

The two nominees are Erwin J. Hasten, Democrat, and William J. Mannion, Republican. Both have been deaf to repeated entreaties to withdraw. Proponents of the economy idea said yesterday that they had given up hope that either would change his position.

Two Views on Situation.

Hasten, it is said, feels that he is certain to win because the coalition ticket for the Superior and Circuit places, eight of the former and one of the latter, will appear in the Democratic column. It is believed that there will be no turnout of Republican voters in view of that situation.

Mannion, on the other hand, feels that his opponent should be the one to withdraw because of the outcome of the recent bar primary. In that vote of the lawyers, Mannion received 1,482 votes and Hasten only 330. Officers of the Chicago Bar association are said to have advised Mannion not to withdraw.

MARVEL "G-3"

LOOK RIGHT HERE
Watch the rest of the industry try to copy this amazing tire. Watch them try to duplicate Goodyear's claims. But, remember, you have to have "non-skid" before you can have "non-skid mileage." And to have "non-skid," you have to have GRIP where you see it here—GRIP in the center of the tread—the place where it counts, because it's the spot where the tire contacts the road. Look at the grip on this Goodyear Tire and ask yourself why buy any tire that lacks this safety?

TREADS were wearing out too fast, said reports which began to come in from the field some time ago. Not only competitive treads—but even ours.

It was a puzzling situation. Nobody could find out why. Then, expert research pegged the cause—the new automobiles! More powerful, easier to drive at high speeds, faster stopping, this performance required more of all tires—Goodyears and other makes as well.

Goodyear Headquarters demanded, "Make a tire that can 'take it.'" And after months of patient research, finishing up with a grueling day-and-night "brake battle" on the test cars, the Goodyear men delivered the "G-3" All-Weather.

Here's what you get in this superlative tire:

43% longer non-skid mileage!

16% more non-skid blocks. (Goodyear puts its famous non-skid blocks in the center of the tread where they are needed more than ever for traction and safety on smooth modern highways.)

11½% wider riding-ribs; grooves are narrower.

5½% wider tread; more contact with the road.

More rubber in the tread—an average of 2 pounds more per tire.

Blocks and ribs are nested closer; "squirming" of the tread under pressure is reduced. "Cupping" and "heel-and-toe" wear is reduced 50%.

Frankly, these great improvements could not have been accomplished without Supertwist, the extra-durable, extra-elastic cord fabric upon which the Goodyear carcass is built. For the wider tread puts extra strain upon the carcass, and Supertwist stands that strain!

In the "G-3" All-Weather you get a tire in which tread and carcass work together for longer life—longer wear.

See the "G-3" and you'll agree that Goodyear stepped out ahead again—and set a new standard of value for tire buyers! A better tire—at no extra price.

"Newspapers are the sentinels of the liberties of our country."—Benjamin Bush.

A TURN TO SANITY?

In a dispatch of last week Mr. Boettiger reports that the administration is reaching out belatedly to recapture the nation's foreign trade. The shelving of this policy, pledged in the Democratic platform, was one of the expensive results of the domination of the brain trust in the counsels of Mr. Roosevelt. Its revival would be welcome evidence of a return to sanity and political good faith.

It was assumed, we believe, by most of the thinking people of the nation that the election of Mr. Roosevelt and his party meant the adoption of policies and measures declared in the platform and the administration of the government in accord with traditional principles and purposes of the Democratic party, one of the most conspicuous of which has been tarif reform. That is what the New Deal was taken to mean by most of the voters who put the Democracy in office and on the tarif issue this expectation was strengthened by the selection of Congressman Cordell Hull as secretary of state. But to the bewilderment not merely of Republicans but perhaps even more of Democrats, there suddenly appeared upon the scene a group of little known advisers and aids to to the President who announced the arrival of a peaceful revolution on collectivist principles of government, not only not declared nor even foreshadowed in the campaign but contrary to the principles supposed to be held by the Democratic party. In this astonishing departure men like Mr. Hull were thrust into the background and the nation was submitted to a complicated and conflicting process of experimentation, at first excused as merely emergency measures, and later, as the emergency became less critical, announced as permanent revolutionary reforms. In this preoccupation the pledge of foreign trade adjustment and stimulation was forgotten, and if it is now to be taken seriously and seriously pursued the President and the nation are to be congratulated.

The adjustment of our foreign trade relations does not require further departure from the principles of American government. It can be effectually accomplished without further disparagement of our system of government and the responsibilities of congress, for there is no question that sensible and vigorous effort by the President, who has the benefit of an experienced legislator and student of tarifs in his secretary of state, will have the support of the American public regardless of party.

OUT OF THE PHILIPPINES TOUT DE SUITE.

Under the Tydings-McDuffie act a Philippine constitutional convention will convene not later than Oct. 1 this year. When a constitution drafted in general accordance with American ideas, ideas prevailing up until the present year, has been adopted, the Philippine commonwealth will be in existence. On the first Fourth of July [a date of diminishing importance in the United States] after the commonwealth government has functioned for ten years the United States gives the ilands the accolade of complete independence and withdraws. The Philippines thereupon become to the U. S. A. a foreign country.

During the commonwealth period the United States retains certain responsibilities and requires certain obligations to be fulfilled by the ilands. Tarif readjustments are undertaken and a progressive schedule of higher customs duties prevails. During the commonwealth period of ten years the United States keeps naval and military reservations. Later these privileges will become a matter of negotiation and agreement.

In a troublous period ten years may be a long time. American trade is the basis of Filipino prosperity now. In American trade the balance is in favor of the ilands. In other foreign trade it is against them. Their economy is based upon commerce with the so-called parent nation, and that commerce is being subjected to customs duties which will increase. It is said in derogation of America's offer of freedom to the Filipinos that the motive was sordid and consisted entirely of a desire in groups of American producers to be rid of competition in sugar, cocoanut oil, and cordage production. That selfish reason cannot be accepted as the whole cause. It gains weight largely because of the generous idealism of a people who, having been free themselves if not wholly free now, wish the blessings of liberty to be enjoyed by all people with whom they are associated. It's an unfair statement that the entire reason for granting Philippine independence is provided by the interests competing with Filipino products.

For reasons, whatever they may be, the United States in effect undertakes a retreat from the far east. Its expansion reached its full tide in the Philippines. The ebb now sets in. It is a retrograde movement and in a military sense a retreat. It is, to put it more strongly, a prolonged rear guard action in which the forces of the United States are withdrawn to another base.

Even if there were no dangers in the far east, a rear guard action which must last ten years from the beginning of the Philippine commonwealth is a dangerous maneuver. The relations between the United States and Japan are none too good. At any time they may become worse. If they are now merely admonitory, they later may become menacing. When one nation begins a retreat another may contemplate an advance. The ten years are supposed to permit the Filipinos to make their economic readjustments and find a way of supporting themselves when they no longer have their rich uncle to fall back upon. It is almost inevitable that period of readjustments will be tough on the natives and that they won't like it. Meanwhile the United States in retreat leaves its naval and military hostages in the ilands which it can't defend.

In conditions of perfect security the United States might take the chance, but common sense warns that this is dangerous business. The ilands must face their fate and their future. They have asked for the chance and they must take it, and they should be required to take it much sooner than is provided by the terms of the independence bill. No dangerous rear guard action of any such duration should be imposed upon the American people. The way to get out of the Philippines is to get out. The ilands should be given time to hold their convention, constitute their government, set it in operation, and go their way. The United States then withdraws, and withdraws so completely that it cannot be involved in any hostilities against its will. The way to get out of the Philippines is to get out toot sweet.

SPEAKING OF GROCERIES.

Measured in dollars, the sales of the largest of the grocery chains were greater by 2.3 per cent this April than they were a year ago. Last April's sales were $61,056,000. This April's sales were $62,463,000.

But measured in tons, this April's sales were 10.15 per cent smaller. Last April the chain disposed of 405,661 tons; this year the goods sold weighed only 364,467 tons.

More money is being paid to the grocer, if this showing may be regarded as typical, while less food is being distributed to the people. Thus the money changers are being driven from the temple and thus the forgotten man is at last being remembered.

It would be unfair to the new dealers to conclude that the result which has been achieved is the end which they sought. Their sin is less hypocrisy than stupidity. As has been pointed out repeatedly in these columns and elsewhere, their program could have produced no other result than that which these figures demonstrate. The Tugwells and Johnsons must bear the responsibility for having lowered the standard of living of the American people by raising prices and reducing production.

CUTTING TRAVEL TIME TO MILWAUKEE.

Train service between Milwaukee and Chicago is no worse, to be sure, than it was in the World's Fair in 1893, but it is not much better.

Two hours for 85 miles, by agreement between the railroads, was the standard running time between the two cities almost half a century ago. This has been cut within a year or two to one hour and 45 minutes for the fast trains, and there the railroads seem content to halt while an impatient trafic either fumes helplessly or seeks some other means of transportation.

The railroads, we hope, will wake up and improve this intercity service as soon as possible, but meanwhile there should be a service of flying boats between the two harbors. It can easily cut the transport time in half or more, pick up passengers and land them in the hearts of the two cities and, with the development of trafic, operate profitably at a fare passengers will be glad to pay.

The railroads' answer to diminishing trafic generally has been to eliminate trains and reduce service. They have lost a good share of their potential passenger business to private motor cars, and as highways are improved they are losing more.

THE TRIBUNE recognized long ago that the railroads' hope of recovering this desirable business lay in cutting the time lost in getting from one city to the other. At present this takes practically four hours from a business day. Safe airplane service easily can save 60 per cent of this.

Business men are tired of waiting for the railroads to make a serious effort to give the passenger service modern invention has made possible. Everybody is tired of waiting for them to wake up to their possibilities.

A flying boat service between Milwaukee and Chicago should be successful from the start.

BAD NEWS FOR FASCISM.

[The Rocky Mountain News, Denver.]

A recent news cable from London asserts that the newly organized British Fascist party now is believed to have fully 500,000 ardent and disciplined members. Originally looked upon as more or less of a joke, this party not long ago won the support of the great newspaper baron, Lord Rothmere; as a result it is beginning to cast a long shadow across British politics, and leaders in other parties are beginning to get worried.

As it happens, news of this growth in British Fascism reached here at about the same time as did news that Britain is at last winning its fight with the depression.

Taxes are being reduced, aid to the unemployed is being increased, the government has a sizable surplus, and prosperity, at last, seems to be just around the corner.

And that, probably, will puncture this growing bubble of Fascism. For Fascism is a philosophy of desperation.

Men turn to it when they are convinced that only drastic measures will avert a great smashup. Let good times return, and it is apt to drop out of sight of its own weight.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

I WAS MUCH IMPRESSED with the words on a sticker on the windshield of a car I saw down in Illinois last week. The sticker said:

THIS CAR IS DRIVEN ONLY FROM THE LEFT HAND SIDE OF THE FRONT SEAT. BACK SEAT DRIVERS WILL KINDLY KEEP THEIR SUGGESTIONS TO THEMSELVES UNTIL THEY GET HOME, WHEN THEY MAY WRITE OUT THEIR IDEAS AND SEND THEM BY MAIL.

I was impressed by the sticker because I am one driver, anyhow, that appreciates suggestions from the other people in the car, whether they are riding in the back seat or in the rumble seat. If he sees an element of danger that I don't see while I'm driving I want him—usually it's her—to tell me about it. A train coming off to the right while I happen to be looking to the left, a careless cow slowly emerging from the bushes and steering in a sou-sou-easterly direction towards the roadway, a farmer engrossed in driving a fractious team on a lane in his farm that converges on the highway a half mile in front of me, a motor car bearing down very rapidly from the rear—anything at all that has to do with the safety of my car I want to know about. I may see the danger, too, but it doesn't hurt if somebody else in the car calls attention to it. I might have muffed it. And I would sooner know twice about it than to hear the nurse say, "Now don't try to move. The doctor will be here in a few minutes and he will tell you what happened."

P. S.—The sticker about back seat drivers that I saw was on a deserted car rammed down into a deep ditch along the side of the road. The whole front of the car had been rammed in like an accordion and the entire auto looked like a mess of scrambled eggs. But on a piece of the windshield that still remained in place was the sticker reading: "THIS CAR IS DRIVEN ONLY FROM THE FRONT SEAT. . . ."

VIOLINIST.

A breathless moment and a breathless start—a confidence begins—is half-confessed; dark head bent listening on polished breast
as though a mistress bared her lovely heart.

Each quivering syllable is melt and flow into a swift and glittering argument, while voice and shadow voice are stoutly blent, submissive to an overpowering bow.

And in the waiting hush the artist's sway becomes a yearning oft recurrent theme.
No other thought intrudes, no ear may miss one note of magic from that spell of play;
the throng is held as in a witching dream—
There is no greater sorcery than this!

DAVIDA.

AND IT'S GOING TO BE more painful than ever to walk around in Washington. Strangers down there have to be treated at emergency hospitals for terrible pains in the neck caused by looking at the statues of the great and good which jump right at you every few feet. And from the photographs they've added another. The statue of William Jennings Bryan, just unveiled, seems at this distance to be a cross between Ajax Defying the Lightning and Christopher Columbus Landing on the Island of San Salvador. Why, oh, why must we Americans put up statues to our great men? It's too bad. It kills ambition. After looking at the statues, who the heck wants to be great?

I'M GOING HOME.

I'm going home.
I'm tired of the trafficking street,
The grinding of cars,
And the multitudes going—nowhere.
At every mad corner I meet
The same thronging slaves of the mart,
Spent with unceasing care,
Running away from despair.

I'm going home.
Perhaps I am old—I wonder;
Age does come fast
When there's never a moment to play.
Just now I'd get out from under
All burdens that bury the heart.
In a word, I'm longing to stray
On some country road—away!

I'm going home.
There's a pink and white garden there,
And no stone walls;
And friends still are friends. It's May,
And the fresh spring air
Will heal with magic art.
I'm going away, away,
For a golden year, and a day!

PAIN AROUND THE HEART.

ONE of the most frequent complaints is of pain around the heart. As a rule, physicians advise their patients to disregard such pains. They are largely due, in the first place, to introspection. If due to this condition, so well developed in neurasthenia, they are exaggerated and augmented by the attention they are given. When the physician advises that the pain in the chest be disregarded the rule is that the patient heeds the advice and his discomfort disappears.

Many of these pains are the result of neuralgia in the chest wall or muscular rheumatism in the chest muscles. Such cases are advised to apply a mustard plaster, to rub on some hot liniment, or to wear some flannel on the chest. For pains due to neuralgias and rheumatism of the muscles some such treatment as the above is all that is required.

Some of the pains in the chest, and particularly in the region of the heart, are due to upward pressure of "gas in the stomach," and are relieved by starting peristalsis downward by taking a carminative. However, this group is greatly overplayed. Pain in the heart region is due to gas pressure far less frequently than is thought.

There is no question as to seriousness of pain, oppression, and sense of impending doom resulting from true angina pectoris. It is dread of this kind of pain that causes most of the anxiety about all other kinds of chest pains.

Dr. C. Sippe calls attention to another cause of pain in the chest in the region of the heart. He calls this pain hypoglumic angina and ketogenic angina. The two are related. In the first the heart is disturbed because the blood sugar is too low. In the second the cause of the trouble is the presence of too much of the organic acids which sometimes cause ketogenic convulsions.

Since sugar and starches, on the one side, and fats on the other, tend to balance each other in the human fires, we can get in trouble by eating too little bread, cereals, sweets, or by eating too much fats and oils. Something tells us to eat bread and potatoes when we eat butter and when we eat oils to eat cereals.

When the blood sugar is too low or there is too much of these organic acids there may be pain in the heart region, or there may be difficulty in breathing, or there may be palpitation of the heart.

An examination with an electrocardiograph will show which cases are due to true angina and which are due to too little blood sugar. Or a careful examination with a stethoscope should show it. Or maybe a simpler test will suffice. That test consists in eating some sugar or chocolate or cereal and noting the effects on the pain.

Friend of the Insured

[Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.]

Chicago, May 5.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Why does my fire insurance rate fluctuate from year to year? I have occupied the entire second floor of this building for the past 15 years without any material change in the makeup of the business.—B. E. D.

The fact that your rate is constantly changing plainly indicates that there have been numerous changes in the occupancy of the building. In other words, a new tenant may contribute additional fire hazards not present under the last occupant, either through the process of manufacture or through a higher combustibility of the goods handled. A stock of groceries, for example, presents practically no hazard as compared to a stock of furniture, usually wrapped with paper and excelcior, with facilities for varnishing and upholstering. A makeup or analysis of your rate which will disclose the various items chargeable can be secured through your agent. In many instances, slight changes involving little or no expense can be made with resultant reduction in the insurance cost.

From Across the Sea

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Americans visiting London in a few years will hardly recognize certain parts of the ancient city if the schemes of Herbert Morrison, leader of the London county council, materialize.

He has schemes for a new Waterloo bridge of five arches, carrying six lines of trafic, and designed in harmony with the modern architecture on the north side of the river. He proposes better connections between the surface suburban railway lines and tubes, with the consequent disappearance of some of the suburban railway termini.

Then there is a scheme for the clearance and replanning of the south side of the river, with the erection of fine buildings, and of a river terrace for pedestrians between Westminster and Waterloo bridges. Finally, there is the construction of a Charing Cross bridge with highway improvements on the north side.

Morrison emphasizes the fact that the River Thames, as a commercial trafic highway, is of vital importance to the trade of London. He regards some of the existing bridges as actual menaces to the river's efficiency as a highway, and to safety. He therefore hopes to make vast improvements which will eliminate these dangers.

"I am anxious for a cleanup on the south side of the river, particularly between Westminster and Waterloo bridges, with river terraces for pedestrians. A worthy development all along the riverside would enormously improve the view from the north side of the river. I have already asked that the matter be given consideration," Morrison said.

RESTRICTING BANK ACTIVITIES.

Chicago, May 10.—I notice in your paper that the government is expecting to stop the banks from buying and selling stocks for their customers. This is not a bad idea. While this is being done why not make it a law that no bank can sell insurance of any kind or peddle real estate?

I find some banks not only sell real estate so that they can make a commission but also that the officers and clerks handle real estate sales as a side line. It is very easy for a man in a bank to influence a prospective real estate buyer for or against a piece of property. I have seen such men purposely prevent the sale of a piece of real estate which would have been profitable to the buyer and switch the customer over to something they had on their list they wished to sell, thus spoiling the real estate broker's sale.

How long would the banks stand for a real estate broker accepting deposits and trying to run a banking business? Maybe so many banks would not have busted had they stuck to banking as a business and not monkeyed with side lines such as insurance, real estate, stocks, and golf club memberships.

A NEW DAY.

Oak Park, Ill., May 7.—The ravings of the Republican press over the brain trust reminds us that no one ever accused the Republican party of having brains.

The Republican party has always been a closed corporation for the benefit of the favored few. The rest of the population were mere pawns to be used as the higherups saw fit.

Nothing can be expected of the voter who is more than forty years old, but we are hopeful that a majority of those under forty will adapt themselves to the changed conditions under which we are living.

The old horse-and-buggy days are gone forever. The good old days of man power are gone. We are living in the machine age and the old rules don't work.

G. L. GRAY.

UNCLAIMED BANK DIVIDENDS.

Chicago, May 9.—The Michigan Avenue Trust company closed several years ago and there still is on hand with the state auditor a good many thousands of dollars of unpaid dividend checks. These checks are unpaid because the receiver or his attorneys did not locate these depositors, due to the fact that the mail sent to them was returned "Not found."

This fact was recently brought to my attention and I endeavored to obtain a list of these unpaid depositors from the state auditor, with the idea of locating them and informing them that this money was due them and thereby making it possible for these depositors to obtain some much needed cash.

I explained the facts to the state auditor, and instead of his being anxious for these depositors to get their money [either through this method or apparently any other] he politely informed me that the list of these unpaid depositors is confidential information which should not be disclosed.

Only yesterday an article appeared in THE TRIBUNE stating that an official of the treasury department had informed the President that there were several million dollars due depositors of closed banks who have not called for their money. It would seem to me that, instead of our government officials, both state and national, being content with the situation, they should exercise a great deal of effort to locate depositors who have moved, in order that they might obtain their money.

IMPULSE.

Chicago, May 8.—That a community which made Sally Rand's fan dance the most publicized attraction of the Century of Progress Fair should indict a 13 year old child for murder because of the tragic result of a perverted adolescent impulse that might easily have found stimulus in that very publicity is indeed shocking. It recalls the medieval practice of indicting wild animals for their brutalities. Which is not to say that either the wild animals or the socially menacing children should be permitted at large.

YES.

Chicago, May 11.—Hitting the hay this morning I was thrown off the dream train by the chirping of a couple of scrapping sparrows. Wide awake, a variety of sounds began to tickle my eardrums over and above the noise of the battlers. Then I realized that there were other birds, any one of which had a call that was more tuneful than that of the year round sparrow. Can a city dweller learn to distinguish these calls and their authors?

CROSSING PROTECTION.

Chicago, May 10.—[Friend of the People.]—Please tell me where I can find out why we haven't a man watching our children crossing the street near our school. For a week now the schoolboys watch the crossing alone. Archer avenue is a busy highway. The kindergarten gets out at 11:30 and we really need some one to watch out here. I am a mother of children going to this school, and would thank you for any assistance you can give us.

S. S.

Please be informed that a special school traffic patrolman has been detailed to this crossing.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

"LIQUIDATING TRUST."

Warren, Ill., May 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please explain what the words "liquidating trust" imply when used in regard to property which is expected to be turned over to the bondholders soon after being put on a paying basis by a bondholders' committee. 2. By what should one's receipt for bonds turned in to the committee be replaced to secure and make legal interests when placed in liquidating trust?

A. M.

1. The words imply that the trustee is employed in order to reduce the assets to cash and distribute. For further information you should examine the wording of the trust instrument.
2. A trust receipt is common.

VISITS TO FAIR ARRANGED FOR AUTO WORKERS

Ford and Son Will Visit Exposition Today.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Fourteen consecutive week-end excursions to Chicago and A Century of Progress Exposition, bringing employés representing all lines of automobile manufacture, distribution, and sales, were announced yesterday by officials of the General Motors corporation. Acceptances of the corporation's offer, in which only part of the expense is paid by the visitor, indicate that several thousand such visitors will be brought to the Fair.

Henry Ford announced yesterday that he and his son Edsel, accompanied by a carload of company officials, would visit the Exposition grounds this morning. The Ford party will be guests of Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, repaying a recent visit of Fair officials to the Ford plant. On the program of the party is a visit to the million dollar Ford company exhibit.

$10 for Round Trip.

The first General Motors special will be from Detroit leaving Friday night, June 1, and returning Sunday, giving two full days at the Fair. A rate of $10 for the round trip, including hotel accommodations, railway fare, and admissions to the Fair, has been set by the company.

Reservations for this trip, sponsored by the General Motors Men's club, are limited to 750 and reservations are now being taken by railroad and company officials. The arrival of the Detroit party will coincide with the opening of the special week set aside for this automobile company.

The second excursion already signed up is from Flint, arriving in Chicago June 2 for the conclusion of the week's special programs. This trip is sponsored by the Industrial Foreman's club. The third trip will be from Anderson and Muncie, Ind., June 15-17, and a fourth excursion will be from Saginaw and Bay City, Mich.

Other Excursions Later.

Detroit, Lansing and Flint will run second excursions later in the summer, with the second Flint trip for girl employés only. Additional excursions are planned for Cleveland, Dayton, Toledo, Cincinnati, and New York. Officials predicted nearly all employés of the corporation would take advantage of the excursions at some time during the summer. Rates comparable to the Detroit rates will be made for all excursions.

The Ford party will arrive in a special car on the Motor City of the Michigan Central lines this morning. The special car will be shunted into the Fair grounds at 38th street, while two cars of Detroit newspaper men and cameramen will proceed to the station. The special car will be met at the Travel and Transport building by President Dawes and Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair.

At 10 o'clock Mr. Ford will speak for newspaper men and probably for a national radio hookup in his personal museum in the Ford building. It is this part of the company exhibit which probably interests the magnate most. Here is shown his first car, the workshop in which it was constructed, and a series of machine shops showing the development of machining and of tools from 1834 to 1880.

MOST BEAUTIFUL AND BEST EYES SOUGHT AT SHOW

The second annual "Seeing" show, sponsored by the Illinois State Optometric society in conjunction with the Chicago Lighting institute, opened yesterday in the latter's quarters on the 36th floor of the Civic Opera building, 20 North Wacker drive, for a two weeks display. Throughout the day the public may view the latest scientific instruments for the testing of vision and the latest devices in lighting.

Dr. Carl F. Shepard, chairman of the Chicago area of the society, has been appointed to explain the exhibits during the day. Lectures will be given each evening at 8 o'clock.

Four prizes will be awarded at the end of the show to the persons having the most perfect pair of eyes and the most beautiful pair of eyes. Dr. Shepard predicted the most perfect pair of eyes and the most beautiful pair of eyes will not be found in the same person. He said persons with beautiful eyes, as in the case of a number of movie stars, usually have some defect in the visior..

Restaurateurs Pick 4 Girls to Represent Four Virtues

Four young women were chosen in the Cameo room of the Morrison hotel yesterday to represent the "four virtues" of the Illinois restaurateurs—wholesomeness, courtesy, cleanliness, and speed—at the annual grand charity May day festival to be held in the hotel Sunday evening, May 20, which will be sponsored by the restaurateurs. Miss Betty Goestken will represent "Miss Wholesomeness," Miss Nellie Dehainaut, "Miss Courtesy," Miss Ina Dumas "Miss Cleanliness," and Miss Helen Gamer "Miss Speed."

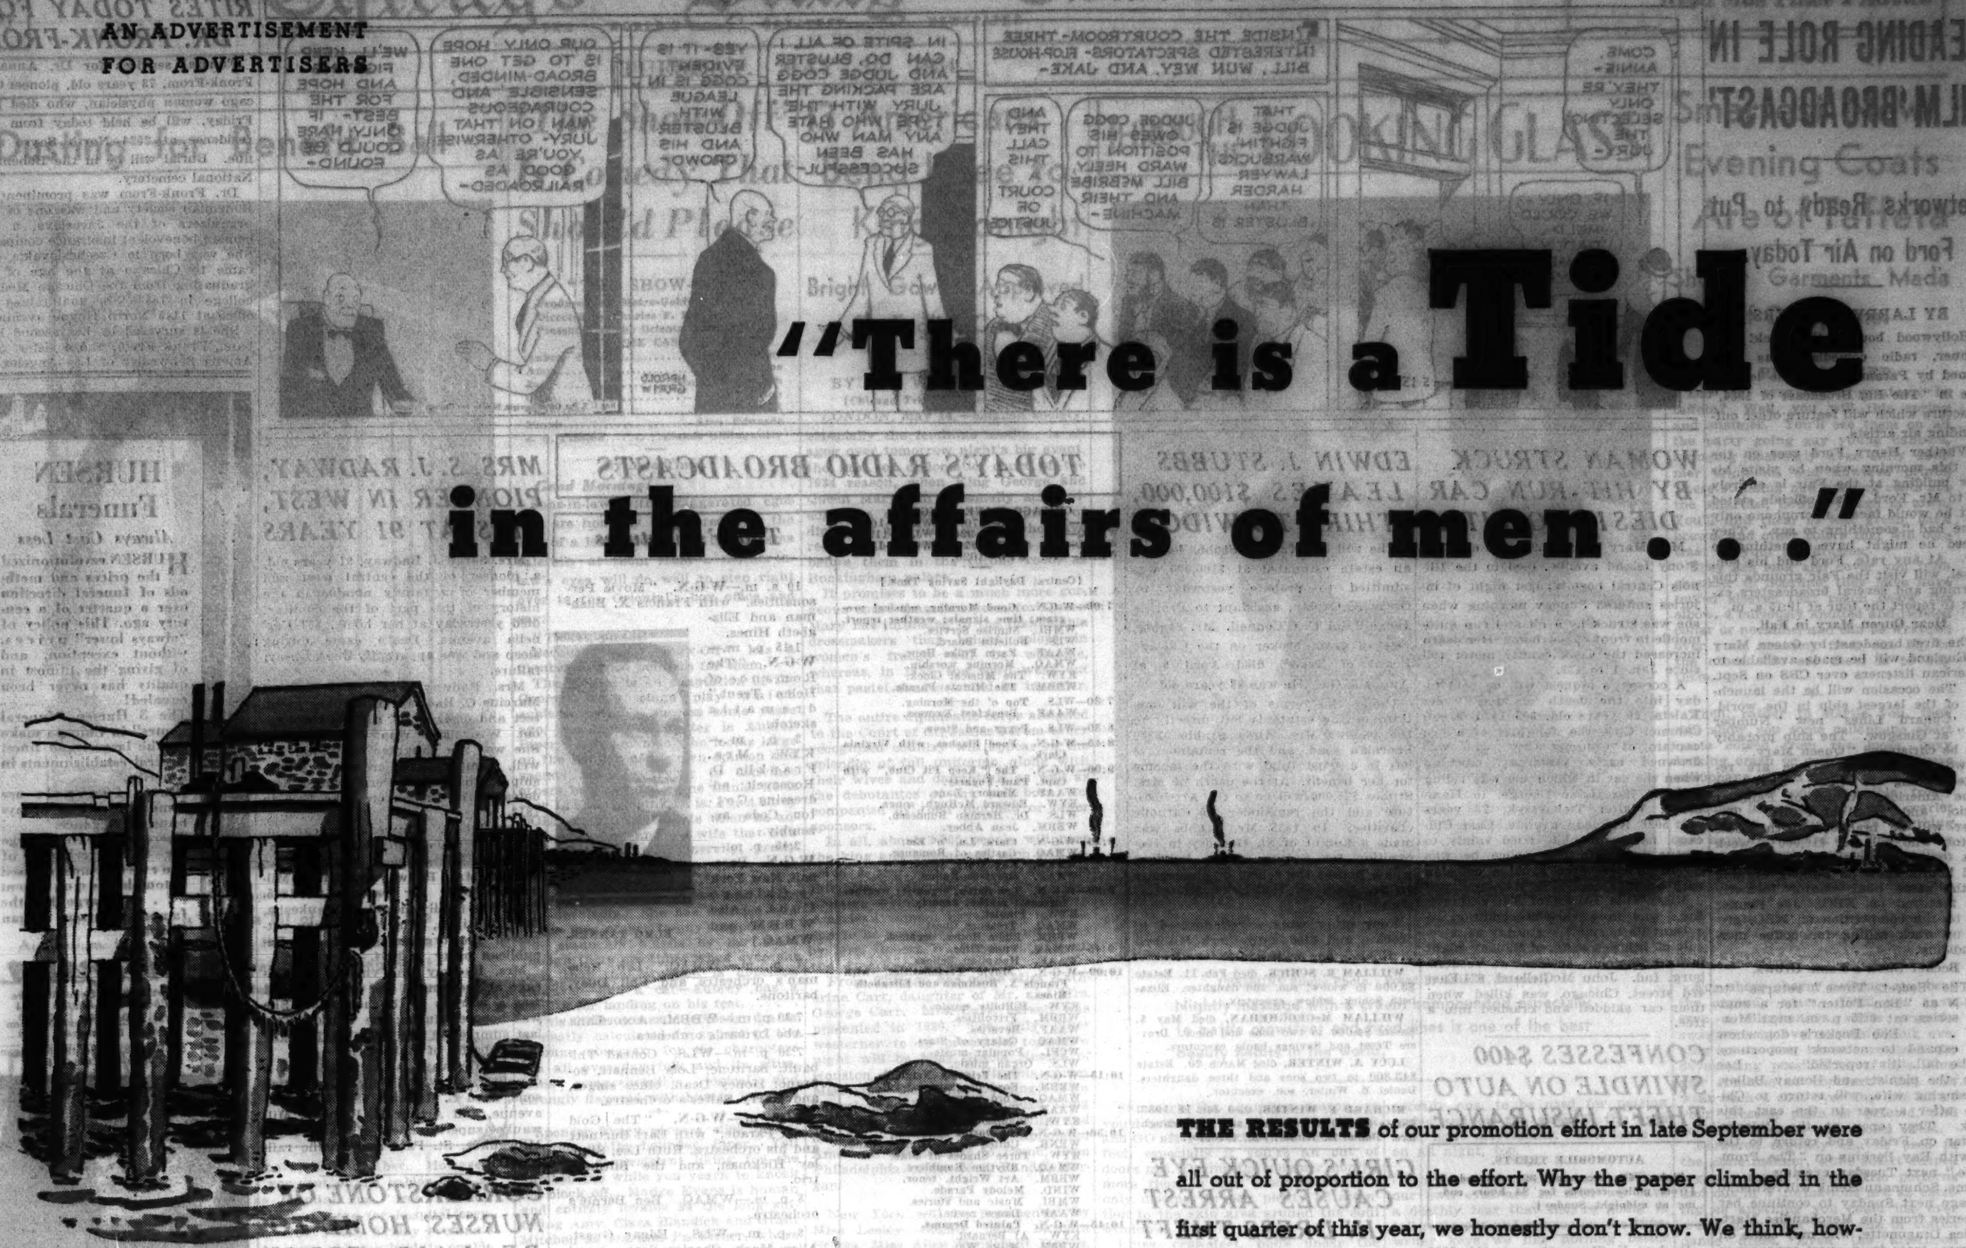
AN ADVERTISEMENT FOR ADVERTISERS

"There is a Tide in the affairs of men . . ."



. . . The still water in the channel ripples and flows again, inward. The flow pulses over the exposed rocks, creeps up the crusted piles. In fifteen minutes the mudflat will be under the surface. In three hours the two freighters which have stood off outside since dawn will ride in high over the channel rocks. The tide is coming in . . .

WHEN A NEWSPAPER has more than 1,800,000 circulation, no publisher expects it to grow much or quickly. But . . .

Last October, eight pages of new color comics were added to the Sunday News Comic section. The new feature was advertised once, in newspapers in principal cities within a hundred miles or so of New York City. An increase of 50,000 copies would have been a more than satisfactory result from this promotion effort. The first Sunday in October, however, pushed the Sunday News circulation up 150,000 copies, past the 2,000,000 mark. And in October, November and December, every Sunday ran above 2,000,000. It looked as if the new Sunday high were set! But . . .

January started to climb again—every Sunday over 2,100,000 copies. February topped 2,200,000—every Sunday. March ran 2,280,000 the first Sunday, and over 2,300,000 the next three. The six months average was 2,132,647 copies—an all time high for American newspapers.

THE RESULTS of our promotion effort in late September were all out of proportion to the effort. Why the paper climbed in the first quarter of this year, we honestly don't know. We think, however, that new readers showed the paper around, interested others. Anyway, almost 500,000 new families have joined the Sunday News market since last September.

We think, also, that this episode is significant of the new spirit in the country, and the rising business tide. A year ago people were afraid to buy. Today, they want to buy. Have you asked them to buy anything lately?

THESE NEW CUSTOMERS of ours may be customers of yours, if you go after them! Sunday News circulation in New York City alone now exceeds 1,160,000 copies; suburban is over 370,000 copies; and most of the rest is in a hundred cities of better than 10,000 population—where Sunday News coverage of families never drops below 20%. This circulation is in Eastern urban centers, with higher incomes, better buying capacities. Only six national magazines have more circulation; but not one has such concentrated circulation in such a superlative market. And no other medium offers such an extraordinary opportunity—because the Sunday News rate is still as of 1928, based on 1,450,000 copies.

Are you going somewhere with this new Tide? All aboard . . .

JOE PENNER GETS LEADING ROLE IN FILM 'BROADCAST'

Networks Ready to Put Ford on Air Today.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Hollywood bought the duck! Joe Penner, radio comedian, has been signed by Paramount for the leading rôle in "The Big Broadcast of 1934," a picture which will feature other outstanding air artists.

Whether Henry Ford goes on the air this morning when he visits his new building at the Fair is entirely up to Mr. Ford. Fair officials stated that he would face a microphone only if he had "something to say." They hoped he might have something to say. At any rate, Ford and his son, Edsel, will visit the Fair grounds this morning and several broadcasters expect to report the tour at 10:15 a. m.

Hear Queen Mary in Fall.

The first broadcast by Queen Mary of England will be made available to American listeners over CBS on Sept. 26. The occasion will be the launching of the largest ship in the world, the Cunard Lines' new "Number 534" at Glasgow. The ship probably will be christened "Queen Mary."

Two big NBC programs are reported going to CBS. They are "The American Album of Familiar Music," and "Hall of Fame." The latter will be bracketed with Eddie Cantor, who will get $10,000 a week as a toothpaste salesman, to make a solid hour's show on Sunday evening at the same hour Cantor formerly was featured on NBC. Joe Penner will be the competition on NBC, giving up duck selling for coffee merchandising.

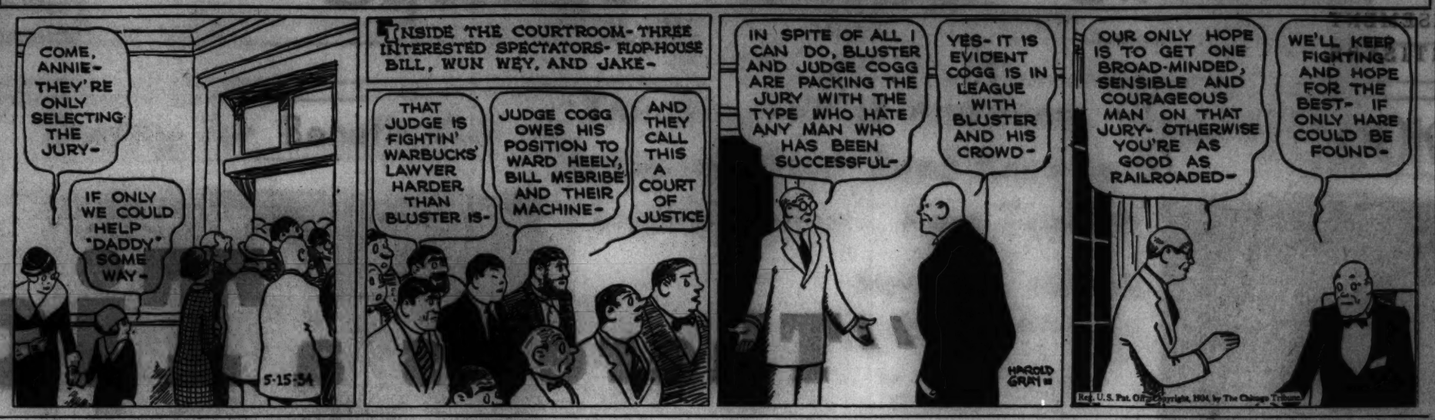
Becker Show's Fame Grows.

"The Secret Three" returns to W-G-N as "Ben Potter" for a summer series eat 6:15 p. m. next Monday. . . . Bob Becker's dog show will expand to network proportions in the fall, it's reported. . . . Lee Sims, the pianist, and Ilomay Bailey, his singing wife, will return to Chicago after a year in the east this week. They open at the Chicago theater on Friday and return to the air with Ray Perkins on "The Promenade" next Tuesday evening.

Mme. Schumann-Heink will return to Chicago next Sunday to continue her air series from the Merchandise Mart. Jessica Dragonette, who may come on the same train for a guest appearance Sunday, has signed to make a picture. . . . Elsie Ferguson, sometime picture star, starts her radio career next Sunday evening on the CBS Family Theater hour. . . . Duke Ellington will be on the air from the Fair this summer.

Cornelius Vanderbilt made a radio speech the other day. He enjoyed it so much that he has let it be known, through Jesse Butcher, his agent, that he would like to appear regularly.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Trial Begins



WOMAN STRUCK BY HIT-RUN CAR DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Mary Worth, 50 years old, 6072 Stony Island avenue, died in the Illinois Central hospital last night of injuries suffered Sunday morning when she was struck by a hit and run automobile in front of her home. Her death increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 422.

A coroner's inquest will be held today into the death of Miss Violet Kaleta, 20 years old, 305 153d street, Calumet City, the daughter of a fire captain of Calumet City, who was drowned early yesterday morning when the car in which she was riding plunged into Lake George, in Hammond. Walter Tieharszyk, 23 years old, 5026 Kennedy avenue, East Chicago, her companion, tried vainly to rescue her. He told police he was forced to swerve to avoid a collision with another car.

Miss Willa Brown of Terre Haute, Ind., was in a serious condition at a Danville hospital yesterday as a result of injuries suffered Sunday night in an automobile accident at Veedersburg, Ind. John McClelland, 621 East 42d street, Chicago, was killed when their car skidded and crashed into a tree.

CONFESSES $400 SWINDLE ON AUTO THEFT INSURANCE

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 40; recovered, 39; stripped, 7 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday].

Herbert V. Shaw, 40 years old, 7833 Evans avenue, is said to have confessed to the state's attorney's office yesterday to swindling the Chicago Motor club of $400 through falsely reporting his automobile, insured by the club, as stolen.

According to the authorities, Shaw insured his car under the name of Lawrence Conners in 1933. He reported the car stolen. The Motor club became suspicious and investigated, and claimed that the car was found parked in a public garage and that although the motor had been changed the body number checked with the car reported stolen by Shaw.

Shew, arrested yesterday, said he was a former hardware merchant, now bankrupt. Search was being made for his wife, Lillian. Prosecutors said he would be charged with operating a confidence game.

Dr. Thomas J. Conley's Funeral Set Tomorrow

Funeral services for Dr. Thomas J. Conley, who died suddenly Sunday night in his home at 2256 North Kedzie boulevard, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow at St. Sylvester's church, it was announced yesterday. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Dr. Conley was a member of the board of the Illinois Post-Graduate Medical school and former vice president of the West Side hospital.

Charles De Garmo, Former Swarthmore Head, Dies

Miami, Fla., May 14.—(AP)—Charles De Garmo, 86 years old, former president of Swarthmore college, Philadelphia, died today after a brief illness. He once held the chair of pedagogy at Cornell university.

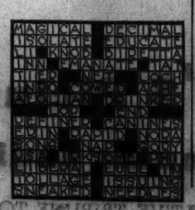
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



EDWIN J. STUBBS LEAVES $100,000, THIRD TO WIDOW

The will of Edwin J. Stubbs leaving an estate estimated at $100,000 was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. Mr. Stubbs, veteran grain broker on the Chicago Board of Trade, died April 9 at Augusta, Ga. He was 68 years old.

Under the terms of the will one-third of the estate is left directly to the widow, Mrs. Alma Stubbs, 3240 Sheridan road, and the remainder is left in a trust fund with the income for her benefit. At the death of Mrs. Stubbs $25,000 will go to the Art institute and the remainder to Catholic charities. In 1925 Mr. Stubbs was made a knight of St. Gregory in recognition for a gift of the building which houses the school of philosophy at St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein.

Four other wills were admitted to probate and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin. The wills are those of:

WILLIAM R. SCHICK, died Feb. 11. Estate $5,000 to widow, son, and daughter. Elizabeth Schick, widow, executrix.

WILLIAM McGEOGHEHAN, died May 5. Estate $4,000 to two sons and niece. Drovers Trust and Savings bank, executors.

LUCY A. WINTER, died March 20. Estate $43,800 to two sons and three daughters. Daniel E. Winter, son, executor.

RICHARD F. WINTER, died Jan. 18, 1933. Estate $5,000 to two sons and three daughters. Daniel E. Winter, son, executor.

GIRL'S QUICK EYE CAUSES ARREST IN DRESS THEFT

Bennie Levine, 36 years old, who lives in the Douglas park district, was arrested last night in connection with an investigation into the theft of 27 sample dresses from the automobile of Isadore Doctor, garment manufacturer at 325 West Jackson boulevard.

His arrest resulted from the sleuthing of Miss Dora Pinsky, 3339 Division street. Attending a downtown banquet Saturday night, Miss Pinsky observed a woman wearing a dress resembling one of the 27 stolen. She inquired of the woman where the dress had been bought. The woman said she had purchased it from Mrs. Bessie Wolver, 1216 Millard avenue.

Last night Detectives Alfred Belstrom and William Wall of the Central station, accompanied by Miss Pinsky, went to Mrs. Wolver's home. She is 59 years old. They found three dresses bearing Doctor's manufacturing label and about $500 worth of assorted garments. Mrs. Wolver said she had bought the garments from Levine and had been buying from him for ten years. Police then arrested him. They did not hold Mrs. Wolver.

Confederate Veteran Dies at Home in Carbondale

Carbondale, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—John Shelton, 95, the oldest confederate veteran in this section of Illinois, died here and was buried at Mayfield, Ky. Two years ago, at the invitation of the American Legion, Shelton was asked to sit on the platform with the G. A. R., and thus it was the first time the blue and the grey appeared together on the spot where Gen. John A. Logan first suggested Memorial day. Shelton served in the confederate army from Tennessee.

George E. Erickson, Retired Leather Manufacturer, Dies

George E. Erickson, 73 years old, retired lether manufacturer, died yesterday at his home at 14 West Elm street. Mr. Erickson and his widow, Mathilde, were pioneer Chicagoans and had celebrated their golden wedding anniversary three months ago. Surviving also is a daughter, Mrs. George Travers, 1242 Lake Shore drive. Funeral services will be held Thursday at the chapel at 1158 North Clark street. Burial will be in Mount Olive cemetery.

Deems Taylor's Wife Gets Divorce from Composer

Reno, Nev., May 14.—(AP)—Testifying at a private trial before District Judge Benjamin F. Curler, Mrs. Mary K. Taylor won a divorce from Joseph Deems Taylor, nationally known composer and writer, on the ground of extreme cruelty here today. The court approved a property settlement agreement which also provided for the custody of their 7 year old daughter, Joan. They were married at Newark, N. J., July 11, 1921.

Woman Dies in Elevator on Loop Shopping Trip

Mrs. Louis D. Petre, 1361 East 50th street, dropped dead from heart disease in the elevator of the Marshall Field annex at the twentieth floor yesterday. Mrs. Petre was the widow of the late vice president of the American Seating company, who was killed in December, 1932, in an automobile accident.

Cousin of General Logan Is Dead at Carbondale

Carbondale, Ill., May 14.—Mrs. E. W. Williams, cousin and one of the last near relatives of Gen. John A. Logan of civil war fame, died here today.

Silas Altorfer, Peoria Manufacturer, Is Dead

MRS. S. J. RADWAY, PIONEER IN WEST, DIES AT 91 YEARS

Mrs. Sarah J. Radway, 91 years old, a pioneer of the central west and member of a family notable in the history of this part of the country, died yesterday at her home, 831 Cornelia avenue. Death came during sleep and was apparently due to heart failure.

Mrs. Radway was the widow of Marcius C. Radway, Milwaukee architect and designer of schools throughout Wisconsin, who died in 1917. She was the daughter of Walter Atwell, member of the crew of the flagship of Commodore Perry, whose fleet defeated the British on Lake Erie in 1813.

Atwell later became a sea captain, and in 1826 commanded a vessel that put in at Milwaukee to buy furs. As a child Mrs. Radway moved to Milwaukee with her parents in 1845. Later the family moved to Waukesha, then to Ripon, Wis., where they witnessed the organization of the Republican party in 1854.

Mrs. Radway was visiting in Chicago at the time of the great fire and was a witness of the holocaust. She was honored during the World's Fair last summer at the 120th anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie.

Mrs. Radway is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Iva Willems, and two sons, Fred L. Radway, 5800 East End avenue, and Arthur E. Radway, Milwaukee superintendent of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

CORNERSTONE OF NURSES' HOME TO BE LAID TODAY

Ceremonies for laying the cornerstone of the new $2,000,000 Cook County Hospital Nurses' home at Polk street, Lincoln street, and Winchester avenue will be held today. Emmet Whealan, president of the county board, will officiate at the gathering.

The new home will house 600 student nurses, 150 graduate nurses and supervising nurses and will more than pay for itself at the end of twenty years, Mr. Whealan explained. At present, he said, the nurses are quartered in various sections of the west side at a cost of approximately $140,000 annually to the county. This amount will be used in paying for the nurses' home, it was said, and in twenty years these payments will more than retire the county bonds put up as collateral for a loan of $2,040,500 federal "easy money."

Mr. Whealan denied published reports that unnecessary luxuries such as swimming pools and "pent house" were being provided in the building and added that none of the nurses' rooms are equipped with telephones.

George D. Haines Is Dead; 47 Years on Fire Force

George D. Haines, 85 years old, a member of the Chicago fire department 47 years before his retirement in 1919, died yesterday of heart failure at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Pfingsten, at Diamond Lake, Ill., where he had made his home. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

DR. PETER G. McDERMOTT, a practicing dentist in Chicago for 25 years, died yesterday at the John B. Murphy hospital after an illness of rheumatism. Dr. McDermott was 60 years old. He maintained offices at 854 North Clark street.

Double Funeral Tomorrow for Boy Drowning Victims

A double funeral tomorrow at the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, 123d street and Emerald avenue, will be held for the two schoolboys who disappeared two weeks ago and whose bodies were found in the sanitary district canal. The boys were Joseph Sorokas Jr., 6 years old, and his cousin, Charles Solkkauskas, 7 years old. The funeral will be from Joseph's home, 10224 Wallace avenue, and burial will be in St. Casimir cemetery. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death in the cases of both boys yesterday.

HOLD FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR DR. FRONK-FROM

Funeral services for Dr. Anna J. Fronk-From, 73 years old, pioneer Chicago woman physician, who died last Friday, will be held today from her residence at 2524 North Sayre avenue. Burial will be in the Bohemian National cemetery.

Dr. Fronk-From was prominent in Bohemian society and was one of the organizers of the Jaroslava, a Bohemian benevolent insurance company. She was born in Czechoslovakia and came to Chicago at the age of 11, graduating from the Chicago Medical college in 1888. She maintained an office at 1145 North Hoyne avenue.

She is survived by her second husband, Frank From, and a sister, Mrs. Amelia Schwedler of Los Angeles.

Young People Plan All Day Party at Club

Round-the-Clock Event to Be Held at Wheaton.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A SPRING tonic that will work more wonders in toning up the spirits than sulphur and molasses will be delivered today or tomorrow to the doors of about sixty-five of the fun loving members of the younger set, including "young marrieds," "little girls," and "old men," as the post-debs and their beaux are called.

The tonic is an invitation for June 2 at the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton where the mysterious committee issuing the bids has ordained a revival of a gay party given there two summers ago. That one was such a complete success that the committee has decided to repeat it exactly, and again it will be a "round the clock" affair, with golf and tennis in the morning, luncheon, a swim in the pool with cocktails served around it later on, and a buffet supper and dance.

This revival is to be a "last stand" party, too, for a day later two young men will leave for distant cities to be married, and within a month three or four others will have joined the ranks of young marrieds. Sydney P. Waud and Talcott Griswold, two of the revivalists, will be making their last stand as bachelors and having a final fling before they go east and west to be married—Mr. Waud to Morristown, N. J., where he and Miss Isabel Morrell will be wed on the 9th, and Mr. Griswold to Pasadena, Cal., where he will wed Miss Jessie Beach Crane on the 22d.

Miss Jane Fortune and Joseph E. Nolan, who will be married the end of next month, and Miss Anne Smith and Morrison Waud, whose engagement was announced recently, are other revivalists.

Miss Barbara Poole to Be August Bride.

A wedding in August is the most important summer event on the calendars of Miss Barbara Poole and James Murray Washburn Jr., whose engagement was announced yesterday by Miss Poole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Poole of Lake Forest. Mr. Washburn is a son of Dr. and Mrs. James M. Washburn, who moved from Chicago to Lake Lure, N. C., near Asheville, three weeks ago. Dr. Washburn has retired from active practice.

Miss Poole and Mr. Washburn want to be married in August because the bride-to-be's brother, Ralph Poole Jr., will be at home for a month then, between a trip to England, where he is going directly after graduating from Princeton in June, and a trip around the world upon which he will embark in September.

Miss Poole is a third generation Chicagoan, and a member of a prominent and distinguished family, being a granddaughter of Abram Poole, who settled here in 1850. She was educated at the Bell school in Lake Forest and St. Timothy's at Catonsville, Md. She spent a year abroad with her mother before making her debut at a tea at the Poole home in Lake Forest in 1929. She is a member of the Junior league and of the Service club.

Mr. Washburn attended the Francis Parker school and Deerfield academy at Deerfield, Mass. Dr. and Mrs. Washburn intend to be here for the wedding, as do Mr. Washburn's sister, Mrs. Howard Churchill of Albany, N. Y., and his brothers, Edward S. Washburn of Kansas City and Richard Washburn, who is studying in California. Miss Poole has a younger sister, Nancy, now a student at St. Timothy's.

Issue Invitations for Scriven Nuptials.

Invitations to the marriage of their sister, Mary Elizabeth Scriven, to Frederic Harney Bassett, have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. John Jerome Finlay. The service will be read on June 2 at half after 4 o'clock in St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception following at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Skinner Willing, 209 Lake Shore drive.

There have been parties for the popular Betty Scriven and her fiancé ever since their engagement was announced last winter, and these last three weeks will be filled with gayety.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Harvey of 1866 North Dearborn street will give a buffet supper and tomorrow night Miss Katherine Kales will give a small dinner at her home in North State street. The George Senseneys, Miss Jane Rowe and Richard Yates of Buffalo, who is to be Mr. Bassett's best man, also are planning parties but definite dates aren't being set until it is known when the out of town guests will be here. Miss Katharine Daniels will give a cocktail party at her home in Cedar street before the Streets of Paris ball on the 26th and the next day Mr. and Mrs. Finlay will give a buffet luncheon at their home in Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell III.—she was Margaret Willing and is the Mark Willings' daughter—Mr. and Mrs. Giles Whiting of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Larsen of New York will give the bridal dinner the night before the wedding at the Saddle and Cycle club. Mrs. Whiting is Miss Scriven's godmother and Mr. Whiting will give her in marriage.

Mrs. Finlay and her little daughter, Barbara, will be the bride's only attendants and ushering will be Mr. Finlay, English Walling, Edward Van Winkle, Thomas Luke Stirling of Wilmington, Favre Slater of Memphis and Dr. Roger Engeborg of Cleveland.

Mr. Bassett's father, Admiral Frederic B. Bassett of Fort George, Ala., is coming in about a week to be here for the wedding and its attendant festivities and among others who will come from away are Mr. Bassett's aunt, Mrs. Beauregard of St. Louis,

Dusting for Benefit Ball

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Jane Valentine is doing a bit of dusting in the Auditorium to help advertise the Chicago Lying-In hospital party to be held Friday, the opening night of the Cascades—the theater restaurant to be opened in the old theater.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THIS is not offered as personal opinion—merely a report on the letter sent out last weekend by a New York financial house. All the letter said was:

Summary—
Ties—
Pleader—
Anachronism.

"1933—F D R.
1934—N R A.
1935—T A X.
1936—S O S.
1937—G O P."

NOW that there is so much excitement about the Chicago Lying-In hospital benefit Friday evening at the opening of Andy Rebori's theater restaurant, the Cascades, in the Auditorium theater, probably it is just time to tell a few facts that have always pleased us about the famous white pique ties Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, chief of obstetrics at the hospital, always wears. Just about the first sight some 8,000 babies have seen in this world is Dr. De Lee's little white pique tie. (He lost count after the 7,000th baby, but thinks its about 8,000 now.) He has worn them for forty years, and makes enough of a point about it to have them specially made for him. One time he bought a whole bolt of fine French pique and had it all made up into ties. Only recently he bought 15 yards. That made about 100 ties.

One of the most famous babies to open her eyes to one of the famous ties on the chest of the expert bending over her was Paulina Longworth. There are, we repeat, some 8,000 altogether. However, 25 per cent of the babies born at the hospital are "free" babies, with no charge for hospital service. That's why Friday evening's gala party is being held, to enable the hospital to take in more mothers who cannot afford to pay for the care they and their babies receive at the hospital.

THE touching faith of Chippy, Ted Sills' wire-haired fox terrier, that he may have anything for which he begs deserves mention. Mr. Sills took Chippy to Lincoln park, and the terrier gave chase to a bird. It was a narrow escape for the sparrow, and, flying to a nearby tree, it gave utterance to its fright and annoyance, twittering angrily at the dog, which was leaping up and down below in a futile effort to get up the tree. Apparently realizing that he would have to try other tactics, the dog stopped jumping and sat up on his hind legs beneath the tree, mutely begging, in the best fashion he knew, for the bird to come down, please.

IT seemed wrong to have a telephone in the Colonial village at the World's Fair; too much of an anachronism in an early American scene. It bothered the architect and the contractor quite a bit, since they felt a telephone was almost a necessity. Then Mr. Joe Beuttas finally figured out a way to ameliorate the offense. Telephone officials cooperated, and now the number is 1776 . . . Calumet.

Illinois Club Women Open Sessions Today; Exhibits Show Work

Club women began arriving here yesterday from all parts of the state to attend the 39th annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs opening today at the Hotel Sherman. The convention will be in session three days.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. William Franklin Ferrell, state president, will conduct conferences with the various Illinois club presidents. Physicians, educators, and legislators will be on the program. One session will be devoted to art, music, and gardening.

Following the custom of several years, an exhibit by the different departments will be held showing the work done by each. There will be among these a showing of cutout landscape designs and a garden exhibit.

School Play.

The "White-Headed Boy," by Lennox Robinson, will be presented tonight in the Loyola Community theater.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt entertained several hundred guests this afternoon at a garden party, but was obliged to hold it indoors because of the afternoon showers.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt had as luncheon guests today Mrs. John Hay Whitney, Miss Elsa Maxwell, and Miss Fannie Hurst.

Mrs. Roosevelt has cards out for another garden party Thursday afternoon of this week, when she will entertain the women officials of the different government departments.

Fur Styles Since 1850 Shown to 1,800 Buyers

A historical review, wherein styles in furs from 1850 to creations which will be worn next year were shown, was a feature of the annual style show of the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago held last night at the Palmer house. The value of the 250 garments modeled exceeds $1,500,000, according to Louis E. Himmel, president. Nearly 1,800 buyers attended the affair. O. P. Larson was chairman of the show.

The Show-Off' Is Comedy That Should Please

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Sons-in-law with exaggerated egos who are honestly bewildered over the look of a love grown tired that gleams balefully at them from a mother-in-law's eyes will do well to step right over to the Oriental's box office and say:

"Ticket, please!"

Because "The Show-Off" has a number of good pointers for them.

The picture is an adaptation of the George Kelly stage play which achieved notable success some years ago. Its chief character is Aubrey Piper, an ego-maniac who looms large on the horizon of his own opinion and spends his life trying to convince others he's as good as he thinks he is—or LIKES to think he is. For Aubrey DOES have his moments when he admits to himself and his wife that he's an awful liar and, generally, pretty much of a frost.

Amy Piper understands, and loves him devotedly. She has married him in the face of her family's opposition, and staunchly stands by her man, though there are times when even she feels that the situation is hopeless. However—like a cat—Aubrey has a faculty for landing on his feet. . . .

This little domestic comedy drama is neatly calculated to appeal to the average observer, for its characters are all everyday folk and its situations comprehensible, logical, and strongly flavored with human interest.

Spencer Tracy gives a slick impersonation of the bounder, Piper. You entertain a persistent liking for the dumbell the while you yearn to knock his block off. Madge Evans is human and entirely lovable as the long suffering Amy. Clara Blandick and Grant Mitchell as Ma and Pa Fisher, whose scruff rises and who emit low fearsome growls at sight or sound of their son-in-law, are fine, and other roles are expertly presented.

Direction was apt.

The story moves swiftly to the accompaniment of good dialog and considerable suspense of one sort and another.

13 Americans Bend Knee to King Tonight

Bright Gowns Approved for English Court.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14.—English society, especially the feminine section, is all agog over tomorrow night's big event, the first, or diplomatic, court of the 1934 season, when King George and Queen Mary will personally acknowledge the obeisances of hundreds of diplomats and other guests who have received the royal command to appear before them in the throne room at Buckingham palace.

It promises to be a much more gorgeous court than last year, for Queen Mary has intimated to the fashionable dressmakers that bright colors in women's frocks will be welcome, whereas, in 1933, the word went out that pastel shades would be in order.

The entire diplomatic corps assigned to the Court of St. James's from every recognized country will appear in the splendor of full uniforms, along with their wives and daughters, as well as the debutantes of the well born, accompanied by their mothers or other sponsors.

In all, about 1,500 people will pass the king and queen, and each will receive a nod and a smile. For this interesting experience, and the social prestige which goes with it, thirteen American women have come to London to be presented to their majesties by Mrs. Robert W. Bingham, wife of the American ambassador.

From Chicago has come Miss Katherine Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Carr. Mrs. Carr, herself was presented in 1930. The only other westerner to be presented tomorrow night will be Miss Gracia Neville of Houston, Tex. From Virginia comes Miss Joe Claiborne Dowling; from Laurel, Md., Mrs. Breckinridge Long and Miss Christine Long, wife and daughter of the newly appointed American ambassador to Rome; from Philadelphia comes Mrs. Randal Morgan.

New York will be represented by Miss Lesley Bogart, Miss Barbara Briggs, Miss Alice Vanderbilt Morris, daughter of the American ambassador to Brussels; Miss Faith Whitney, Mrs. Leonard T. Davidson, and Miss Phyllis Brewster. Paris, Ky., sends Mrs. John Harris Clay.

The usual American curiosity as to the senators or other distinguished statesmen who sponsored the American debutantes to the state department must remain unsatisfied. Polite inquiries on this point invariably drew a cautious, somewhat stereotyped reply that this is a matter too personal to be mentioned. The American embassy's contention is that all of the American names were passed on by the state department in Washington, but in Washington it is claimed that the choice of presentees rests with London—a playful example of passing the buck.

It is generally understood here, however, that presentations of Americans to the British king and queen are largely, if not entirely, choice bits of political patronage, doled out to senators who are in favor at the White House or the state department.

According to this figuring, Illinois' senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich sponsored one presentee; New York's Senators Royal S. Copeland and Robert F. Wagner were responsible for six presentees. Maryland's Democratic Senator M. E. Tydings for two; Texas' Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard for one; Virginia's Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd for one; Kentucky's M. M. Logan and Alben W. Barkley for one. The sponsor of the presentee from Pennsylvania is more of a mystery since both senators from this state are Republicans.

In any case, and regardless of who chooses them, the American delegation is invariably good looking and handsomely gowned.

In the diplomatic corps are the wives or daughters of five new appointees who will accompany Mrs. Bingham for the first time. They include Mrs. Hugh Millard and Mrs. William W. Butterworth Jr., whose husbands are second and third secretaries; Mrs. Walter S. Anderson, wife of the naval attaché; Mrs. Lynn W. Meekins, wife of the commercial attaché; and Miss Helen Lyon, daughter of the assistant commercial attaché, Charles E. Lyon.

Others who have been to court before are: Mrs. Ray Atherton, tall, beautiful wife of the counselor of the embassy, Mrs. John W. Monahan, wife of the assistant military attaché for aviation, and Mrs. Herbert Howard wife of the assistant naval attaché. One American man will make his bow for the first time. Hershel V. Johnson, newly appointed first secretary who did not arrive in time to be presented to the king at the recent levee, will be presented tomorrow night.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Nightly massage with a cream compounded especially to battle crowsfeet and tired lines is one of the best beauty habits in the world.

Summer's the squinting season, so you'd better get set, get on your mark and GO after the little lines and crowsfeet, especially if you're an out of doors girl. During the summer months more than in any other season it's only discreet to pay plenty of attention to the skin area around the soul windows.

Lines, crowsfeet, puffs under the eyes and all the other eye-signs of fatigue, to say nothing of age, come crowding up on you in summer if you're not careful about chasing them away.

We found a cream recently that helps this chasing considerably; your own ten little fingers do the rest. If you see the telltale lines appearing you might very wisely invest in a jar of it and use it every night. You'll be surprised at what it does for the crinkles. It's a rich cream, but a spready one, to be used for patting under and on the sides of the eyes with light movements. You leave it on all night, too.

It's grand for eye massage. When our own eyes are so tired we have a deathly fear that they're going to fall right out and bounce on the typewriter keys we like nothing better than a short session of massage, using the cream both above and below the eyes, with plenty of strokes at the outer corners for good measure.

Don't put it in your eye; like any foreign, oily substance it will irritate it. Just follow directions and use it for massage to banish crinkles and wrinkles. And start right now if you're going in for golf or motoring or any of the outdoor stunts that make you squint against the sun.

You'll find it in several shops around Chicago. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Smartest New Evening Coats Are of Taffeta

Shorter Garments Made of Cellophane.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Did you ever see a greatcoat in taffeta? Well, you will this spring and summer. You'll see them on all the party going gay young dancers, swinging dashingly over frilly summer organdies and flowered prints. These stunning new evening coats are the smartest, newest things in town. You'll find them in leaf green, dark brown, and other colors that will contrast all your pet dresses.

They are long and cover you from shoulder to floorline; they have huge puffed sleeves that reach below the elbow, a curiously knotted and twisted collar or neckline, and can be wrapped over your anatomy from one hip to the other. To see them is to buy them.

Then, rather to startle you, they will show you some cellophane short coats copied from the loose, boxy looking crash or cotton coats. These cellophane affairs glisten most beguilingly. White ones resemble frosty windows in winter, and the scarlet models are as oriental as anything you have ever looked at. They button high and snugly around the collar, have wide sleeves that reach well below the hipline. Besides, being as light as half a feather, these tricky new coats are the most decorative tops you can pull over your shoulders.

For sheer charm nothing can beat the organdy coats. Until you have seen a diaphanous white organdy swagger coat over a printed silk evening gown you haven't realized the devastating possibilities of this summer combine or contrast. You can wear such a coat over any and all of your dresses, plain or printed, and achieve the same well cooled effect.

Flowered organdy can be used in the same manner, while smart striped organdy made in geometric patterns and cut in V formations are as exciting as anything you could use over a one color dark toned silk or cotton dance dress. Even the afternoon dresses this summer will be worn under cool, sheer coats.

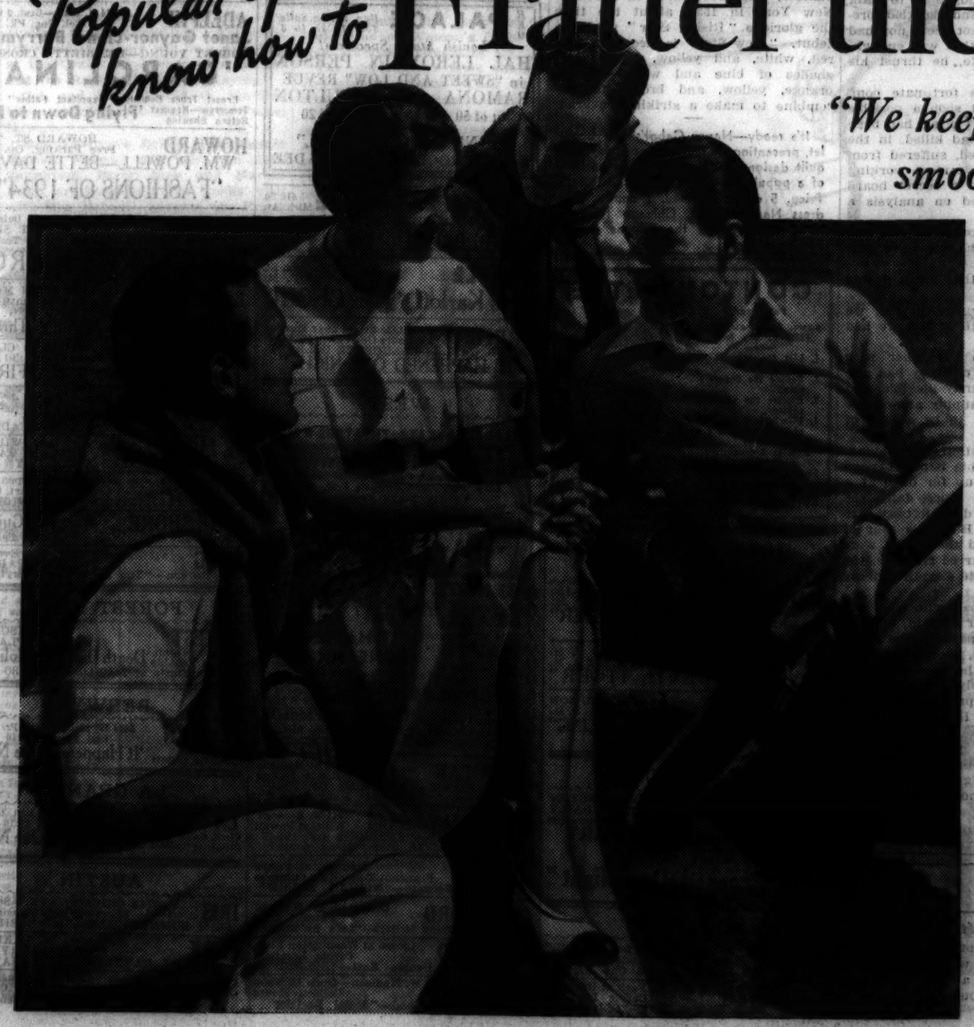
NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is at Sagamore Hill following her return with her daughter, Mrs. Richard Derby, from a sojourn in southern Europe. On Friday, May 25, Sagamore Hill's gardens and trophy room will be visited in a pilgrimage arranged by the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association of New York. The gardens of Mrs. William R. Coe, Mrs. James A. Burden, and Mrs. Robert Bacon will be visited the same afternoon.

Mrs. Walter Jennings will be hostess on Wednesday afternoon at Burrwood, her home near Lloyds Neck, to the members of the North Country Garden club of Long Island. There will be additional guests from the East Hampton North Suffolk Garden clubs.

Popular Girls know how to Flatter their Legs



"We keep stockings smooth fitting this way"

GIRLS MEN ADMIRE . . . girls with heaps of dates . . . have a clever little secret other girls ought to know!

"Men notice girls' stockings," they say. "They don't like dowdy little wrinkles, seams that pucker, keep riding around. So we keep our stockings smooth fitting always . . . by washing them each night in Lux. Luxed stockings fit with flattering beauty, just like a silken second skin!"

Lux keeps stockings perfect in fit because it preserves elasticity. That live give in the silk that lets it stretch, then spring back into shape without breaking. It helps prevent runs, too.

Don't risk ordinary soaps with harmful alkali or cake-soap rubbing if you want stockings to look lovely and wear. Lux has no harmful alkali, and with Lux there's no rubbing. Safe in water, safe in Lux!

MEN'S SOCKS: Lux keeps men's socks like new longer, too—doesn't fade or shrink wool socks.

LUX saves the Elasticity that makes Stockings Fit and Wear . . .

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda Quarles is found stabbed to death after a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Unscrupulous Dorinda had served a drug to her fourteen guests. The crime is discovered early next morning. All of the guests except Dinah Blake, young American artist, are lying about in deep sleep. Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, was Dinah's dinner partner. Dinah's engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dorinda. Dinah returns home two days later, her memory a blank. She had been sleeping in the studio of absent friends, Basil Jethro, Dorinda's stepfather, celebrated Oxford scholar, was her guardian and trustee. Dorinda's mother died from an overdose of narcotics. Tommy suspects Jethro and searches for proof. Bannister Mowbray, who had supplied the drug for the dinner, commits suicide as his roommate, Ronald Cleeves, tries to do unsuccessfully. Tommy confides to Loughton his suspicion of Jethro. Loughton volunteers to go to London for further investigations. He meets Rank Rostetter, Tommy's nephew, who is attending Oxford. Rank has a friend, Billillian, who claims, while on a vacation in Paris, he saw Jethro in a Montmartre dive. Tommy believes that Jethro registered as two persons in the Stanislas hotel, where he stopped the night of the murder, one in disguise, as Jethro had not been seen leaving the hotel. A Dr. Klauber from Prague was registered in the room next to Jethro's. Jethro learns of Tommy's inquiries. Loughton returns from London to learn that Tommy has disappeared and Dinah has been arrested for murder. The Stanislas hotel manager has disappeared. Rank Rostetter and Billillian fly to Paris with Coppinger, a pilot friend. Accompanied by Loughton, they find Jethro's hide-out. Loughton, investigating alone, is attacked by Jethro. After a fierce battle Jethro falls from a balcony to his death. The corpse of an unidentified man is found in the apartment.

INSTALMENT LVI.

THE CONDUCT OF A LUNATIC.

Christopher reached the kneeling group and stared incredulously into the dead features. Black hair, but not his friend's—a face never seen till now. He must be dreaming.

"Clothes," he muttered, waving a vague hand towards the wide-strewn garments. "Maybe—identification——"

Coppinger had seized on the waistcoat and from the inner pocket dragged a wallet and a business card.

"Jolivet? Alphonse Jolivet? Who the hell's he?"

"Hotel manager. He was missing, too."

"What hotel? What—how does he come into it?"

However, Christopher was incapable of dealing with the machine fire of questions. His spurt of hope had already perished as he realized that Rostetter must have met some similar fate. Seeing the look on his face, Coppinger forced the neck of a brandy flask between his lips. The stimulant revived him a little, so that the chief point of the mystery found some answering response in the brain.

"How did he get in here? Through a window. Look, I'll show you. Probably open all the time, only we didn't know. He must have been on the roof the whole time. Yes, because there's a sort of ladder . . . then the marks on the towel. Soot from the tiles——"

"Roof? God, what fools we were! Quick, Coppinger, before the police barge in on us!"

Christopher, hard on their heels, was staggering on to the fire escape. He was half way up the perpendicular iron ladder which led to the roof top when the voices of his two companions reached him. They had found an old, disused tank, hidden from view by chimneys.

"Big enough to . . . to . . . strike a match, will you? There's something inside . . . O! I knew it!" Rank's excitement waned to a sickened note of despair. "He's here all right. We've found him."

Christopher swayed against the rusted rungs.

"Dead?" he muttered.

There was no reply.

. . . . . .

The scene swarmed with Frenchmen, shrugging, gesticulating. One, a doctor apparently, was prodding a motionless form laid out on the couch and emitting disparaging sounds. Christopher came to, struggled up, but Coppinger, who was bathing his head, pushed him firmly back. He must lie still. The ambulance would soon be here.

"Blast the ambulance! I want to know about him. Is he——?"

"Alive? Yes—but I'm afraid he won't last the journey. See those ropes? He was bound—and gagged with a towel. Skull's fractured. If he'd lain on top instead of the other—but we'll not discuss that. Anyhow, it's you who moved the evidence. By morning the job would have been finished—but I dare say you know that by the look of that map of yours. You'll want about a hundred stitches."

Beyond the first sentences Christopher heard nothing. The strange, teeming room whirled before him and he fainted again.

"Has he the ghost of a chance?"

Christopher, a mass of gauze bandages, fired the question at the inspector who had come to secure his statement. While the horrified public, with storm centers at Oxford and Paris, clamored for details, this, to him, seemed the only point worth bothering about. The paralyzing discovery of the revered scholar's hidden personality left him cold, but the inspector's dubious head shake sent his temperature soaring.

To his intense annoyance he had been taken home, where the combined ministrations of his mother, a nurse, and solicitous friends drove him almost mad. Only when he saw that escape could be achieved by submission for a brief period did he cease to rebel and long before he was judged fit to walk about he was haunting the nursing home where his friend dangled precariously between this world and the next. Dinah he had not seen, nor had he any expectation of encountering her. She was released—that was enough. With all his thoughts centered on Rostetter's fight for life, he thrust his own past out of sight, put the lid on the box, and sat on it.

Why Rostetter had not perished outright as his less fortunate companion had done seemed at first an insoluble mystery, but soon a possible explanation was offered. Medical opinion declared that both victims had been given enormous injections of morphia, which in one case had killed, in the other produced merely deep coma. Jolivet, it was discovered, suffered from a valvular heart weakness. The journalist's heart was in perfect working order—but that was not all. The morphia used, found in a secret hoard of drugs under the flooring of the wrecked room, showed on analysis a dilution to less than half strength.

"Et voila, monsieur!" was the inspector's significant comment. "A fact certainly unsuspected by the murderer, and one for which we have this Mme. Hoche to thank."

"I see you've arrested her and the doorkeeper. Does that mean it was those two who supplied Jethro with drugs?"

"And a vast number of other people as well, monsieur. Ah, yes, we are pleased over that part of it. It begins to look as though at last we had got our hands on the ringleaders of the movement."

The inspector imparted another piece of information. Together with the bottles of cocaine, morphia, hypodermic syringe, and so on, they had dug up a document, very difficult to decipher, because it was partly illegible, and entirely in German. When it could be translated it might supply answers to some of the questions now being propounded. It seemed to be a sort of random diary, kept at intervals over a period of years.

Christopher, listening with no great interest, learned that the woman, Hoche, denied all knowledge of the supposed doctor and his habits beyond the fact that on his occasional sojourns he shut himself up for days at a time. She did, however, admit giving him food, which twice daily she herself carried up on a tray and placed just inside the door left ajar to receive it. One of these times must have coincided with Billillian's tour of exploration. It seemed certain that Jethro never suspected the rooms were entered in his absence. The windows were provided with barred shutters, the door with a special lock. Hoche had obtained her duplicate key by bribing the lockmaker when the alterations were made.

"So you see, monsieur, she not only exacted heavy payment from the tenant himself for the privilege of the private view into her domain, but she also raked in additional sums in the intervals of nonoccupation. She knew that this doctor, whatever his real position in the world, would not dare bring action against her. He had but one redress: vacate the premises. And this she had ample reason to know he would not do, simply because rather than be evicted he had made himself landlord of the entire premises."

"Landlord!" exclaimed Christopher, roused at last. "How did you get hold of that fact?"

"From the lawyer who handled the transaction six years ago. Yes, to prevent the building being torn down and rebuilt, our friend, in the name of Schneider, bought the freehold at an exorbitant figure, since which event Hoche had lived rent free. You may well stare, monsieur. We are viewing the conduct of a lunatic."

Flippant Girls Without Depth Trouble Youth

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"The girls I have known have always been kind and considerate, but they lack something which makes for a really true pal and adviser."

This from a twenty-three year old youth, who feels he is losing interest in everything. "The majority of girls, "he continues." are flippant, never serious, and that devil-may-care attitude of theirs I just can't get or appreciate."

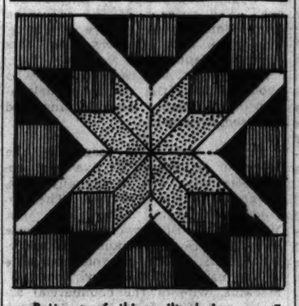
The boy confesses to seldom venturing out now and trying to avoid people whenever possible. He chooses to sit and ponder over the problem: "What good am I to humanity?"

Now, what we heartily recommend for the youth is more frequent contacts with the flippant young women, those with the devil-may-care attitude toward life. They're doing a great deal more for humanity than a young man who isolates himself to brood over the problem.

We suspect one deep personal disappointment from the hands of one particular girl as having brought on this state of mind. It is not normal for a twenty-three year old boy to isolate himself and brood on the shortcomings of girls. When one broods alone, one always magnifies faults. The faults of others, that is, forgetting that the real fault lies with the brooder himself.

Life is far too full of interest these magnificent days for the selfish indulgence of brooders. Every minute spent cornered with self, regretting that other folk are not perfect, is time wasted in pure self-indulgence.

New York State Is Birthplace of Star Quilt Block



Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

There are at least fifty known star patterns and "New Star," one of this number, was first pieced in northern New York in 1825, about the time the glorious "Rising Star" made its debut. "New Star" is pieced in blue, red, white, and yellow, but several shades of blue and white—or the orange, yellow, and brown tones—combine to make a striking coverlet.

It's ready—Nancy Cabot's new booklet, presenting 96 illustrations of favorite quilt designs, together with one pattern of a popular quilt, "The Framed Rose." Price, 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices.

Tastes Carried by Water Often Affect Cooking

Chemicals May Ruin the Flavor of Dishes.

"Adventures in Salads," a collection of 23 recipes, and "Simple Salad Dressings" to accompany them, are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents each. By mail, 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

If anybody stopped by and asked you, madame, just what kind of water you used to poach eggs, to make your wiggly gelatin desserts, and to prepare your teas and coffees, you would certainly quirk an eyebrow and explain amazedly that you supposed that water was water. You had used tap water, of course.

But this doesn't happen to be the answer. For, unfortunately, there are waters and waters. And an interesting and fairly recent study on this business of using water in cooking has shown that in cities such as Chicago, where chemicals are necessary additions to the water, to make it safe for health, frequently a very definite taste is thus imparted by the chemicals. This taste shows up very decidedly in many of the delicate food concoctions we create.

To get around this threat to the perfection of their dishes, the chefs in the great hotels and restaurants make use of huge filtering systems which are capable of removing both foreign matter and foreign tastes. Unfortunately, this is a trick which we meal getters of modest means can't hope to employ. In its stead, however, we do have the opportunity of buying on the market at a reasonable figure any of a number of brands of bottled spring water, a fact which is solving the problem for a good many of our epicurean palates today. Many foods which use only a little water in their makeup, and which have other dominant flavors in them, do not need this little special courtesy of spring water. But it seems that those dishes which do need it, need it very badly.

Probably these gelatin desserts I've touched on form the best example. The dish as it is brought to the table contains 64 parts of water to one of the original gelatin. Expert chefs declare that a foreign taste in the water used in such a treat will thoroughly destroy the delicate flavor. Not only that, but the use of anything but clear spring water or other specially filtered water robs our desserts and salads of much of the sparkle and brilliancy which should make them so irresistibly tempting.

And coffee and tea come in for the same. Undesirable tastes tossed into these drinks, which have such an enormously high percentage of water, quite naturally affect the flavor of the cup when we drink it. So if the coffee you are making at home doesn't quite come up to the standard of your favorite hotel's draughts, look to your water and perhaps therein will lie the reason.

RICE-STUFFED FRESH MUSHROOMS.

18 large, clean mushroom caps.
Stems of mushrooms.
¼ cup butter.
1¼ cup water.
Few grains pepper.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 cup evaporated milk.
Boiled rice.
6 hard cooked eggs.

Chop the mushroom stems and stew them in the water. Sauté the mushroom caps in the butter, then lift out and blend the flour and seasonings with the remaining fat. Stir in the cooking water from the mushroom stems. Add the stems and milk, heating well. Place the sautéd mushrooms and the quartered hard cooked eggs in a deep hot platter. Fill the mushroom caps with hot rice, and pour the sauce over all. Garnish with parsley, serve up to six hungry people, and watch them love it.

Paris Designers Using Feathers to Trim Capes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris hasn't had enough of fine feathers yet—not by a long way, if one can judge by the number of feather trimmed garments which appear on the evening scene this early summer. They look different, our feathered fashions of this season, from those of last. The dressmakers here are being a bit more abstemious and not using so many plumes. Instead of capes entirely made of feathers, Molyneux trims silk capes with them, as in the model in our sketch, which is one of his prettiest. Instead of using the ostrich strands to cover a wrap he takes real ostrich plumes, selects them in shades ranging from gold to brown, and sews them around the lower part of an evening cape which is made of sheer gold and beige lamé.

The dress that is worn with this feathered cape is made of the same material and has a surpliced bodice and a soft sash of brown chiffon. The skirt is straight, with a seam down the center front and back, and at the back is a pie-piece godet to give a flare to the lower skirt.

Certain Types of Birthmarks Are Safely Treated

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

Speaking of birthmarks, in a current issue of a well known health periodical Dr. Joseph Jordan Eller, assistant professor of dermatology, New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, says of moles:

"Moles may appear in various forms. The most common are of the fleshy brown moles, which may be present on any part of the body. They may be flat or elevated and may be flesh colored or pigmented with various shades of brown. The flesh colored moles are called nonpigmented birthmarks, while the brown ones are termed pigmented birthmarks. Some of these growths may have an abundance of coarse and fine hairs. Moles are, therefore, classed as hairy and nonhairy."

The majority of birthmarks, Dr. Eller tells us, are not dangerous to health and are amenable to treatment. But of one type of mole the noted dermatologist warns us. "There is one type of mole that is extremely serious and provides a constant menace to the victim. This is the bluish-black or slate colored mole. It is usually flat but may be elevated. It may vary in size from that of a pinhead to several inches in diameter. The surface is smooth and, as a rule, no large or coarse hairs grow on it. If this type of mole becomes irritated it will begin to grow suddenly and develop into a serious and fatal form of cancer."

These blue-black marks must be handled carefully, Dr. Eller repeats his warning. If they are situated in areas exposed to irritation they should be treated by a physician who is informed as to the proper type of therapy.

Benefit Ball Posters to Be Judged Thursday.

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick is chairman of a committee which will choose the winning posters in a competition the committee of the Streets of Paris ball at A Century of Progress is conducting to find a poster to advertise the ball, a benefit for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society.

Serving on Mrs. McCormick's committee are Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Walter S. Brewster, Hugh W. Newman, Donald C. Rich, and Dell Quest. The posters must contain the wording: Streets of Paris Inaugural Ball, May 26, 10 p. m., for the benefit of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society. Tickets, $5, including gate admission, but no food. And they must be in the headquarters at 946 North Michigan avenue by noon Thursday so the committee can judge them that afternoon at a tea at Mrs. McCormick's Astor street residence.

There will be four prizes of $5 each: One to a student of the Art institute; one to a student of the Academy of Fine Arts; one to a graduate of any accredited art school of this or any other city, and one to the best nonclassified poster.

Mrs. Francis Johnson of 1430 Lake Shore drive is giving a tea for the whole committee this afternoon.

There will be thirteen smart tables [breakfast, luncheon, tea, dinner, and buffet supper tables] on view today at Tatman's and every one who visits the shop will be asked to vote for the one she or he likes the best. Members of the woman's board of the Children's Memorial hospital have arranged the contest.

Charles Garfield Kings Off to West in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King will be departing early in June for their California home, La Passe, in Santa Barbara, where they plan to spend the entire summer. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell, who last year sold their place, La Bergerie, which is next door to the Kings', will move into their new and smaller residence in the Hope Ranch district of Santa Barbara in June. They still are in Pasadena, where they have been all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. King are hoping that their eldest daughter, Mrs. William H. Mitchell of Lake Forest, and some of her family will be out to visit them in the late summer. Billy, the William Mitchells' eldest son, will be at home from school in Santa Fé in mid-June, Garfield, the Kings' son, is planning to get himself a job after Yale closes the end of June so he won't be with his parents in California this summer, and neither will the former Barbara King and her husband, John I. Shaw, for they plan to remain in Chicago all summer.

Sell All Boxes for Benefit Party.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman in charge of the dinner and supper shows at the opening of the Cascades Friday night, entertained her committee yesterday afternoon. The party Friday is to be a benefit for the Chicago Lying-In hospital. The committee reported that all the boxes and most of the tables on the main floor have been sold.

The members of the Arts club are to be entertained this afternoon with a musical by the professional and musician members. Tea will follow.

The University of Chicago alumni of Beta Theta Pi will hold a boosters' meeting tonight in the apartment of Robert Tieken in East Delaware place.

One of the best Mother's day presents we've heard of is the granddaughter who was presented on Sunday to Mrs. Ralph Hubbart of Winnetka. The baby was born to the Hubbarts' daughter, Mrs. Hans Schweizer, the former Mattiebelle Hubbart, in the Evanston hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Kohler Jr., of Kohler, Wis., are being congratulated upon the birth of a son yesterday. Mrs. Kohler is the former Celeste McVoy Holden of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ryan left Saturday for a six weeks' vacation in Europe.

Mrs. Louise Manierre Leaves for England.

Mrs. Louis Manierre left yesterday for New York to sail Saturday on the Aquitania for two months in England. This is the former Doris Akerman's first visit to her mother, Mrs. George Akerman, in London, since she came here six years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford will be here May 26 for the opening of the Fair and also for the marriage of Mrs. Ford's nephew, Harold F. Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Raymond of Adrian, Mich. He will be married to Miss Margaret Louise Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lee Carter of Kankakee and Asheville, N. C., in St. Chrysostom's church, the Rev. Dudley Stark officiating. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the Drake hotel where the Carters and the Raymonds will be staying.

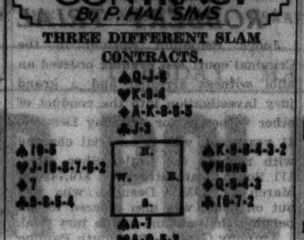
Col. and Mrs. Harold G. Sperling have moved out to their Lake Forest farm.

Mrs. Lawrence Bebout [the former Marion Fulton] and her two little daughters, Betty Jane and Marion Anne, are here for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Bebout's parents, the Frank D. Fultons of Winnetka. The Bebout home is in Lowdenville, O.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THREE DIFFERENT SLAM CONTRACTS.



In a tournament, this hand produced three different slam bids. East and West were vulnerable, and therefore did not risk any psychic barricade bids. North was dealer. One pair, using the Vanderbilt Club, bid and made six diamonds; the contracting was as follows: One club by North, three no trumps, four diamonds, six diamonds. A poor result in a match point contest. Under the Sims system it is a near thing whether to bid or pass with North's hand. Neither decision can be blamed, and the right declaration—six no trumps—should be reached in both cases. If North bids a diamond, South has a perfect three no trump slam trying response. North, with honors in every suit and a five card suit to work with, bids four no trumps, to which South replies with six no trumps, wondering only whether there may be a grand slam in the play. If North passes South bids a heart. North forces with three diamonds. South proclaims slam expectations by bidding four clubs. North bids four hearts, showing better support for that suit than for clubs and, by implication, a high honor in it. Four no trumps by South, showing a spade stopper and some kind of a fit in diamonds, with reluctance to contract for a slam in hearts. Now North, with reserve strength in his spade honors and club jack, bids six no trumps. I personally passed the North hand. It so happens that the bidding procedure is more gradual and delicate [also more instructive for the purpose of this article] when the bidding is opened by South.

One pair of "Sims" players got into a sad mess on the hand. North passed and the bidding went as given above up to South's bid of four clubs. At this point, North decided to do his partner's thinking for him and bid six hearts. West wisely passed and the contract was set two tricks. North's bid is inexcusable—assuring the partner that the hearts are under complete control, although South has never rebid that suit. In a rubber game South would have no choice but to pass this declaration, but in this match point contest I think South should have taken the bid to six no trumps in view of the higher trick score and the inference that North's first force indicates either A K Q of diamonds or, if the diamonds are not solid, the King or Queen, Jack of spades.

Observe a further inference that Sims players will get if North originally passes, South bids a heart, and North forces with three diamonds. North shows a hand which most systems would never pass in any position. South can really know that inasmuch as North has neither black ace, nor any part of a club trick, he must have either completely solid diamonds with a spade trick or sure spade reëntry, or else, more probably, the king of hearts with two or more small ones to make a real fit. If North's diamonds are not solid, it is certain that he has a clear trick outside the diamond suit and this must be in one or both major suits. Actually North held a trifle more, as the king of hearts is rightly assumed to be a sure trick and reëntry card when the partner has bid hearts, and Q J x of spades is distinctly a reserve value under these optimistic conditions, though it constitutes no slam ingredient until South bids no trumps as part of a slam try.

Teacher Must Learn Art of Handling Child

Discipline Should Encourage, Not Repress, Him.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

This is the first of the articles for teachers on child management in the schoolroom which I promised would appear from time to time in this column.

No matter how gifted she may be, no matter how thoroughly she may know her subject, no teacher can really be called successful unless she knows how to manage children—or, to put it in the more usual way, unless she can maintain good discipline. Notice, I did not say severity—but good discipline, which means a happy and constructive working together of children and teacher.

Good discipline creates something in a class of children which is a far cry from the old schoolroom atmosphere. Good discipline in its best sense helps a child to learn many things besides lessons—things which mean a fulfilled personality and mental health.

What then, in a general way, are some of the things which good child management in the schoolroom—or good discipline—should accomplish?

First, it should establish a friendly relationship between the teacher and the child.

Next the children must be made to feel sure of the fairness of the teacher with every child.

Force should not be used to gain any end, but instead there should be understanding, tactful management, and sympathetic advice.

A child should never be corrected in a way that humiliates him, either publicly or privately.

When in any sort of difficulty—whether in behavior or lessons—a child should be encouraged, and the teacher should show faith in his power to succeed with himself or his work.

A feeling that he is part of a group and owes something to it, must be built up.

If a child does misbehave, arbitrary punishment is not the answer. Rather he should be made to feel the logical and unpleasant result of behaving badly.

South Side Art Group Sponsors Tenth Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The tenth annual exhibition of the work of members of the South Side Art association opened yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. It is a good show, cut much after the pattern previous exhibitions have familiarized us with. There are portraits, still life compositions and landscapes.

Possibly the division of portraits is the strongest, containing as it does the excellent likeness of Mrs. Delia Glories" by Harriet Cory is exquisite, artist's the fine portrait of Cecil Elmes. "At Ease" by May Gilruth is an unaffected painting of a young man, amusingly indefinite.

Kate Townsend has by all odds the most beautiful canvas in the show, "Peacock," a fascinating arrangement. "Heavenly Blue Morning Glories" by Harriet Cory is exquisite and "Petunias" by Josephine L. Reichman is decorative, although some there will be to prefer her quaint and colorful "Bear River." "Color in Abundance" by Florence Ezzel Stevenson is effective, and the "Still Life" by Winifred Pleimling is well done.

A case of tiny carvings by Dorothy Hellmuth is fascinating. She carves peachstones, plumstones and ebony into realistic tiny animals and sets them against painted backgrounds. They are capitally done and look as if they afforded her a world of fun in the making. A hooked rug by Fannie Van Pelt is an original contribution and most interesting.

Next to the South Side Art association's exhibition are installed the children's posters on the subject of wild flowers entered for the state art contest under the auspices of the Federation of Women's Clubs of Illinois, state department of art.

The children are from the seventh and eighth grades. They represent schools in all the districts of the state.

Those on the jury are Tunis Ponsen, Mrs. Brown of the South Side Art association, and Mrs. Emily Hawley Sherman. The children's work is remarkably attractive; some of the paintings show great feeling, interest and ability.

The exhibitions will continue through the week.

Sports Ensemble of Three Pieces Echoes Paris Mode

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A famous Paris dressmaker has made the shirt, shorts, and skirt sports rig modish, so all the smart women are wearing it. Today's sleeveless model is cool with its open V, collarless neck. The shorts have plaits, both front and back, allowing plenty of freedom for sports, and are smart looking. Pique, linen, gingham, and shirting cotton are all appropriate.

The pattern, No. 2713, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Music Friends Back Concert to Assist Idle

Acts from Two Operas to Be Presented.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

An elaborate operatic pageant will be staged by the Friends of Music for the benefit of unemployed musical artists in the ballroom of the Medinah Chicago club tomorrow afternoon.

Following a luncheon at 12:30 the entertainment will consist of an act of "Il Trovatore," an act of "Carmen," and a third unnamed act as a surprise appearance. Lilyan Sachs will sing the part of Leonora in "Il Trovatore" and Ruth Blattberg the title rôle of "Carmen," with Helen Freund appearing as Micaela. Among the other singers will be Sara Rose Wexler and Benjamin Landsman. Margot and Helen Hauschner will dance. The chorus is made up of members of the organization, and the performance will be directed by Julie Levine.

About twenty church choirs of the Chicago area will meet in the hall of the First Methodist church of Evanston tonight and tomorrow night in a contest sponsored by the church and choral department of the school of music of Northwestern university. The choirs will be divided into three classes and the winner in each class will be permitted to name a choir member of college age to scholarships provided by the school of music. The judges, all of whom are notables in the choral field, are Edgard Nelson, George L. Tenney, William H. Barnes, William Lester, Carl Craven, and Prof. Horace Whitehouse of the school of music.

The two-piano program to be played by Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti for the benefit of Emerson House association at Orchestra hall Thursday evening will be partly of the more serious music and partly of popular numbers. Groups by Moussorgsky-Liszt, Ravel, Debussy, and De Falla will all the first part. These will be followed by a set of humorous variations upon "Yankee Doodle" in the manner of several classical composers from the pen of Mr. Braggiotti, numbers by Arlen, Berlin, and Kern, and at the last Ravel's "Bolero."

The Stage

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The engagement of "Richard of Bordeaux" with Dennis King as star at the Grand Opera house will end next Saturday night. The company will close its tour for the season, to reopen next September for a tour through the southern and western states and into Canada.

"Affections Ltd.," the comedy now at the Studebaker theater, will end its run next Saturday night. It will be followed next Sunday night with a comedy called "I Loved You Wednesday." Edna Hibbard will appear in the central rôle.

"Temporarily canceled" is the latest bulletin about the booking of "Her Master's Voice" at the Selwyn theater. This play was to open May 27.

The State-Lake theater announces that in the future its new vaudeville and cinema programs will begin on Sundays instead of Fridays, and that its scale of prices through the summer will be from 20 to 35 cents.

DEMANDS NEW CODE COAL PRICE FOR CITY USERS

Council Acts; Mayor Pleads with U.S. Officials

Members of the city council yesterday unanimously protested against the discrimination shown in the new prices set by code authorities on coal destined for Chicago consumers from several mine fields. They demanded also the price schedule be amended to give Chicago the benefit of the same rates that apply to other lake cities.

As the aldermen were protesting Mayor Kelly revealed he has been active in seeking a revision of the coal rates.

Telegrams had been sent by the mayor to Col. Louis McH. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt; Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes; Donald R. Richberg, counsel for the NRA; Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator; Congressman Fred A. Britten, and F. J. Casey, coal code authority.

"All their replies," said the mayor, "indicated a genuine desire to give the matter all possible consideration."

Abolishes '25 Cent Differential.

The scale under protest sets a uniform price of $1.60 a ton on all coal sold from Illinois, West Virginia, and eastern Kentucky fields to dealers in the Chicago district along the shore of Lake Michigan between Gary and Highland Park. It abolishes the differential of 25 cents between the price of coal shipped here by lake boats and the higher price of coal delivered by railroads. For other lake cities, however, the price of coal to be shipped by water is $1.35 a ton.

The aldermen registered their protest with the adoption of a resolution, submitted by Ald. James C. Moreland [41st], in which the discrimination against Chicago consumers was condemned. Moreland declared that the aldermen should not only officially protest the new rates, but should put the case forcefully before Gen. Johnson.

Adoption of the resolution was obtained only after Ald. Moreland had agreed to eliminate language from it that some aldermen apparently found objectionable.

Dealers Admit Benefits.

Some of the coal dealers met the charge that $2,000,000 would be added to Chicago's coal bill with a statement if the differential enjoyed by other cities was given to Chicago it would mean a saving under the new price schedule of only $20,000.

This differential applies only on eastern high volatile coal, of which only a relatively small tonnage comes to Chicago by boat, according to H. G. Petersen, secretary-treasurer of the J. W. Petersen Coal company. He said 176,473 tons of various kinds of coal were received in Chicago last year by vessel, and pointed out if one-half was eastern high volatile coal the added cost without the differential would be $20,000.

ROOSEVELT PLANS VOTE ON SEAWAY PACT IN JANUARY, CANADA SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 14.—According to advices reaching here from Washington, President Roosevelt plans to send the St. Lawrence waterway treaty to congress again next January. He expects then to have it ratified.

The President is said to have had two or three conferences with proponents of the waterway, and has urged them to keep up their educational propaganda with the public and among members of the senate.

Several of the senators who opposed the treaty at the recent vote face elections in the fall. Once the elections are out of the way some of them will feel freer to vote for the treaty, Mr. Roosevelt is said to have informed waterway advocates.

CITY OPENS FIGHT ON CEMENT PRICE; SEEKS STATE AID

Code Forces Cost Up 25 Cents a Barrel.

In an attimpt to evade discrimination against Chicago in the price of cement the city council yesterday ordered Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt to negotiate for the purchase of cement for the city through the state department of public works and buildings.

The state and the county, it was explained, are empowered under the cement codes of the NRA to purchase cement for 15 cents a barrel less than the city can buy it, despite the fact that Chicago uses considerably more cement than any one of half a dozen different states.

Hewitt to Make Deals.

Commissioner Hewitt was instructed by the council to confer with Robert G. Kingery of the state department of public works and buildings, with a view to determining if his department can make the purchase, then resell the cement to the city at cost.

Another outburst of indignation over the discrimination against the city in this respect came in the meeting of the finance committee after the first efforts to purchase the cement through the county had been turned down by Maj. George A. Quinlan, head of the county highway department.

On the motion of Ald. James B. Bowler, Maj. Quinlan was called by telephone while the finance committee was in session. He reported the plan for the county to buy cement for resale to the city was impossible, since the county was allowed to buy at the low price only for work on a particular project.

Refusal Arouses Bowler.

"We're a part of the county," stormed Ald. Bowler when Maj. Quinlan's answer was given. "The citizens of Chicago pay the taxes to support the county, and still we aren't allowed the same rights in the purchase of materials. It's about time this combination is broken up. It has been milking us long enough."

That plan having failed, the committee then decided to negotiate with the state, and the resolution directing Mr. Hewitt to do so was taken before the council by Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the committee.

In presenting it, Ald. Clark pointed out Mr. Hewitt had advertised on five different occasions for cement and on each occasion some eight to ten identical bids were submitted—all of them 15 cents a barrel higher than the price asked of the state.

Clark Alleges Combination.

In the committee meeting Ald. Clark had said:

"They have a combination and all of them come in with the same bids. They did this before the codes came in, but the codes seem to give a good argument to continue the practice now."

The committee then refused to authorize Commissioner Hewitt to let contracts for the 5,500 barrels of cement needed for the approaches to the South Halsted street bridge. The city will need a total of 150,000 to 200,000 barrels of cement during 1934 for this project, for the Chicago avenue water tunnel, the Cermak pumping station, repairs to the Polk street tunnel shaft, and other jobs.

ALIBI WITNESS IS ARRESTED AT ROBBERY TRIAL

Judge Benjamin Epstein in the Criminal court last evening ordered an alibi witness arrested and a grand jury investigation into the conduct of other witnesses for Anthony Desunio, 31 years old, who is on trial charged with robbing the Cutler Shoe store, 111 South State street, of $10,742 on March 20, 1932. Desunio, who was out on bond, was also ordered to jail pending the outcome of the jury trial.

Anthony Genino, 6030 South Paulina street, was the alibi witness taken into custody by state's attorney's police. Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Dougherty, in charge of the prosecution, said he would take the matter before the grand jury.

Desunio was tried and convicted of the robbery on a bench trial before Judge Rudolph Desort in 1933. The case was reversed by the Supreme court because the alibi of the defense cast a doubt, it was said, on the prosecution identifications of Desunio. The second trial of the case was started yesterday morning.

After Desunio was convicted and before his new trial motion was disposed of, it is charged, he went to the officials of the Cutler company and made a clean breast of the robbery.

At the first trial the testimony of the confession of Desunio was not in evidence because he told his story after conviction. At the present trial, however, the prosecution produced six witnesses to tell of the confession. Despite these witnesses Desunio took the stand in his own behalf and denied that he committed the robbery or made the confession. He also produced the same alibi witnesses as he had at the first trial to testify that he could not have participated in the crime because at the time he was in a south side restaurant.

TWO NAMED AS ROBBERS.

Mike Derrico, 29 years old, and Rocco Pranno, 19 years old, both of Melrose Park, were identified yesterday as members of a gang of four who robbed the Berwyn Currency exchange of $410 on April 1, and escaped after a gun battle with police. Both were held in total bonds of $75,000.

OHIO LAWYER TO DIE IN ARKANSAS CHAIR FOR POISONING FOUR

Little Rock, Ark., May 14.—(AP)—The Arkansas Supreme court today declined to save the life of Maris H. Shank, Akron, O., attorney convicted of the picnic poison deaths of four members of the same family.

The court held there was sufficient evidence presented at Shank's trial for the slaying of Alvin Cooley, also of Akron, alone to prove that he also poisoned Cooley's wife and two children.

A third child, made ill by the poisoned drink prepared by Shank, did not die.

Shank, sentenced to die last Feb. 3, was given a leave on life by his appeal and he now has two weeks in which to file a motion for a new hearing. If that is denied the governor will fix a new date for his electrocution.

In a confession Shank said he poisoned the family in fear that Cooley would implicate him in the theft of papers from the prosecuting attorney's office at Wooster, O. Cooley was being sought for the theft at the time of his death.

SHOWBOAT GETS PERMIT AT LAST TO GIVE SHOWS

The Showboat Dixiana was given a home yesterday by the city council. Shunted from the river to the north branch, the ship has lain at the Diversey avenue bridge for months, seeking a permit to operate there. Several committee hearings have been held. Yesterday the commissioner of public works was authorized to issue a permit to dock and give shows on the west bank of the north branch, at the south side of the Diversey bridge. All privileges are subject to termination by the mayor for cause.

TEAM ENDS 5,500 MILE JOURNEY; BIG OUTDOOR RECEPTION TONIGHT

Humboldt Park Is Mecca to Poles of City.

Reception Facts

EVENT—Outdoor festival in honor of the Polish amateur boxing team.

PLACE—Kosciuszko monument in Humboldt park.

TIME—Eight p. m. tonight. In the event of rain the meeting will be held tomorrow night at the same place and the same hour.

PROGRAM—Band music, singing, speeches, dancing, and the introduction of the boxers.

ADMISSION—Free to every one.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Polish amateur boxers, stirred by the thunderous welcome they received yesterday, will learn still more about Chicago's hospitality tonight. Upon the spacious lawns of Humboldt park, just south of the Kosciuszko monument, thousands will assemble to roar their good wishes to the eight young men who have come from far away Poland for a boxing match with Chicagoland's Golden Gloves team.

The boys may have sensed something of formality about yesterday's events, which included a greeting by the Polish consul and a visit to the city hall to meet the mayor, but tonight's open air party will be just a neighborly affair. The visiting boys will hear their own language spoken by people from their own country. They will listen to the familiar songs of their own land. And from a band will rise the martial airs of Poland.

Everybody Is Invited.

Although tonight's reception is to be a special tribute from Chicagoans of Polish extraction, everyone is invited. No one will be put to any expense and all are welcome to remain after the program for dancing in the pavilion near the boathouse, a little more than a block to the south.

A platform for speakers, musicians and the boxers has been erected near the monument and amplifiers will carry every word to the throng. Those who have attended previous receptions which Chicago has extended to visiting Golden Gloves boxers will be prepared for an event of gigantic proportions. Last year many thousands gathered in Garfield park to greet the Irish team and a few evenings later an even larger throng cheered the boys from Erin in Jackson park.

Greet Boys from Homeland.

It is believed that the Polish people of Chicago will be as eager as the Irish were to greet boys from a former homeland. The 500,000 Chicagoans of Polish descent were well represented at the railroad station yesterday. Tonight it is believed that a great portion of them will dispense with representatives and come to the party themselves.

The enthusiasm with which the Irish crowds last year received the towering heavyweight, Patrick Mulligan, will be matched by the cheers which the gigantic Polish mountaineer, Stanislaw Pilat, is expected to inspire. Mulligan met with misfortune in his bout last year, breaking an ankle as he fell in the first round, but none of the Polish supporters will believe that there is defeat in store for Pilat.

Boxers to Be Introduced.

One by one the Polish fighters will be introduced to tonight's gathering. The names of Mulligan and Connolly brought shouts from the Irish crowd last season and tonight it will be the turn of the Polish people to cheer for good old Polish names such as Walerjan Karpinski, Walter Majchrzycki, Oktawjan Misiurewicz, Janislaw Sipin-

Mayor Greets Boys After Parade in Loop.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The amateur boxing champions of Poland are here. The eight boys who started their 5,500 mile journey from Warsaw more than a week ago stepped off the Manhattan Limited at Union station yesterday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock to become the center of a reception which surpassed any ever accorded an international Golden Gloves team.

Thousands jammed the rotunda of Union station and lined the double stairways leading to Canal street. They roared their greetings to the Polish champions above the sound of blaring bands and the booming reverberations of the drum corps.

Crowd Tests Police Lines.

The plaudits of New York, eastern capital of the realm of Golden Gloves, should have prepared the Polish boys for their Chicago welcome, but they were swept off their feet, almost literally, by the tumultuous greeting.

A few more people might have been crowded behind the tightly drawn police lines in Union station. But those who might have occupied these far off corners wisely chose to wait in Canal street for the boys to take their places in the parade to the city hall.

Police escorted the boys to their cars and then cleared the running boards of an army of autograph seekers. The cars, two of them with the boxers, and the other in which were Franciszek Baranowski, president of the invading team; Trainer Feliks Stamm; Donald Day, THE TRIBUNE's correspondent at Warsaw, and officials of THE TRIBUNE, preceded on the trip to the city hall without delay.

Traffic Is Halted.

Traffic in Canal street and Jackson boulevard was halted. Members of the reception committee brought order out of apparent chaos and with the band from the Board of Trade post of the American Legion in the van, flanked by a motorcycle escort, the boys made their pilgrimage through Chicago's loop. In the procession were representatives of the Polish Roman Catholic Union Boy Scouts, Polish Falcons, Pulaski Legion, Polish Veterans' association, P. M. A. Harcerstavo, Polish Highlanders, and the Sea and River league.

The parade marched east in Jackson boulevard to La Salle street and then north to the city hall. Thousands lined these streets, and as the cars turned north between the skyscrapers of the financial district the long serpentine stringers of tape and a cloud of torn paper floated down in typical Chicago greeting.

Boys Acknowledge Cheers.

Through the noise and acclaim the Polish boys, center of the attention of thousands, maintained their confident poise. Several, among them the husky mountaineer heavyweight, Stanislaw Pilat, raised their hands overhead in a boxer's acceptance of these greetings.

Mounted police cleared the entrance to the city hall, and as rapidly as the official cars pulled up the boxers and the members of the reception committee were whisked between the lines of spectators and conducted to the council chamber. The boys were taken to the rostrum in the chamber and were greeted by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and presented to the members of the council.

Council Suspends Business.

The city council, in session yesterday, suspended business and extended the visitors the privilege of the floor. The gallery and lower floor were crowded to capacity, and hundreds

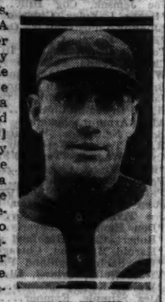
KLEIN DOUBLES IN TENTH; CUBS BEAT GIANTS, 3-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

For a few minutes yesterday Mr. Bill Terry, who manages the champion New York Giants, was a hero. A few minutes later he was exactly the opposite. He made the mistake of dropping a thrown ball, and Charles [Tiger] Klein promptly stepped into the breach with a stinging two base drive that elevated the Cubs to a 3 to 2 ten inning triumph over the world title holders. The victory also advanced the Cubs to the league lead after 24 hours in second place because of the vagaries of percentage.



CHUCK KLEIN.

Mr. Terry's heroic deed was of such consequence that for a short time it appeared as it he had definitly decided a 24 karat pitching duel between Lon Warneke and Hal Schumacher. Mr. Terry hit a home run into the left field seats in the ninth inning, putting the champions ahead, 2 to 1. But Charley Grimm's understudy, Dolph Camilli, had an idea. He revealed it in the home half of the ninth when he sailed a drive over the left field wall, tying the score and necessitating overtime.

Klein Is Lon's Pal.

Warneke had the added pleasure of scoring the winning run, but he has Mr. Terry to thank for the opportunity. The tall Arkansas product opened the tenth with a bounder to Ryan, whose throw was a bit wide but not wide enough to demand any extra fielding effort. Terry failed to hang onto the ball. Hack bunted Warneke to second. Worrying about Klein coming up may have distracted Schumacher, for he couldn't get the ball over for Galan, who walked. Then Klein leaned into the first pitch, whistled it past Terry for a double, driving in Warneke and officially sealed the eighth defeat for the champions in their last 12 games.

Besides his opportune hitting, Klein was busy all afternoon taking care of an unusual rush of business in left field. He handled ten putouts, two under the league record, and at least three of them were on wicked drives that might have spelled disaster for Warneke if any one of them had gotten away.

Passed Ball Costly.

Before getting into difficulties in the second inning, Schumacher dispensed with Cuyler on strikes. The fleet

Here's History in Making; Sox and Earnshaw Beat Boston, 8-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 14.—The baseball encounter between the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox today should be listed as an historical event for the following reasons:

1. The White Sox won. The score was 8 to 2.

2. George Earnshaw pitched all the way, holding the Red Sox to four hits.

3. Al Simmons came out of a week's sojourn in Dreamland, the result of being beaned in Washington May 6, and made a single and a double and scored three runs.

4. Bob Boken indicated that for once the White Sox got the better end of a trade by doubling with the bases full in the second inning and knocking two singles besides.

5. Lefty Grove, one of the all time greats of baseball, returned to form in a relief role, holding hitless the first fourteen Sox to face him and confining them to three hits in all. The one run made after Grove went to work on his own was unearned.

Grove Burns 'Em In.

The return of Grove, generally speaking, overshadowed the four other happenings listed in the foregoing, though it meant little in today's enterprise. At one time it was said that Grove, who cost the Red Sox $125,000 last winter, never would be able to pitch again. Later the outlook became scarcely more encouraging when Grove tried a comeback on May 5 and all but got his ample ears torn off before he threw down his glove and walked off the field.

Today, however, the great left hander, after relieving Henry Johnson with the bases full in the third, appeared to have all his stuff, including his famed fast ball, which had left him completely during the strange ailment to his arm at the outset of spring training. The joy over Grove's performance was so great that the experience of being licked by the lowly White Sox was virtually painless to the Bostonese.

The victory was the second enjoyed by the Chicagoans under the Dykes régime and also the second of the present road trip which ends tomorrow. The victory today lifted the White Sox percentage on the eastern trip to .200, they having lost one game in Philadelphia, three in Washington, three in New York, and one here.

Sox Defense Shaky.

The White Sox defense was pretty wobbly in the first inning, but escaped unscathed without exhausting any of the athletes. With one out, Werber caught Earnshaw back on his heels with a bunt and went to second when George threw the ball into the bull pen. Johnson flied to Simmons, but Reynolds walked. Werber and Reynolds put on a double steal, then Earnshaw threw out Cooke.

Sloppy Boston fielding encouraged the White Sox to do some real hitting in the second inning. Simmons was safe on Werber's fumble and went to second while Appling was reaching first on another Werber fumble. Dykes' bunt took a surprise bounce past Morgan for a single, filling the bases. Boken doubled to left, scoring Simmons and Appling. Dykes and Boken held their stations while Johnson tossed out Ruel, then Earnshaw singled to center, Dykes scoring and Boken taking third. Uhalt singled to center, Boken scoring and Earnshaw stopping at second. Haas singled to center, scoring Earnshaw and putting Uhalt on third. Bonura then tapped into a double play.

The third inning brought Grove into action. Simmons opened it with a single to right. Appling flied to Cooke. Then Dykes walked. The bases were filled when Boken beat out a single to deep short. Grove replaced H. Johnson and walked Ruel on four pitches, forcing Simmons across the plate. Earnshaw forced Ruel, Morgan to Werber, Dykes scoring. Uhalt was out, Morgan to Grove.

Simmons Breaks Spell.

Things were mighty peaceful for a long spell after the Sox third. Not a runner reached first off Grove in the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, and in the home fourth and fifth the only man to reach first was Cooke, who walked in the fourth. In the Boston sixth, however, the Red Sox got out of the goosegg nest when Werber knocked a homer over the left field wall. R. Johnson, Reynolds, and Cooke were easy outs.

Grove's hitless string was broken with two out in the seventh when Simmons doubled over third. Appling beat out a hit to Morgan, putting Simmons on third, and when Grove dropped Morgan's toss on the play Simmons sprinted home. Dykes popped to Bishop.

The Red Sox made their second run in the eighth on a walk and a two base throwing error by Boken.

ALVIN KRUEGER TOPS OPEN GOLF TRIALS WITH 146

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Alvin [Butch] Krueger, a red haired baseball pitcher from Beloit, Wis., who takes golf seriously enough to be a professional, led qualifiers yesterday in the local qualifying rounds for the national open tournament at Olympia Fields. Butch came home with a 146, taking 74 over the No. 1 course in the morning and finishing with 72 over the No. 4 layout in the afternoon.

Following him home for the 16 places allotted the Chicago district for the big show which will be held at the Merion Cricket club, near Philadelphia, June 7, 8, and 9, were two Chicago district professionals and a Hoosier who once threatened to win the tournament. They included Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake, Eddie Loos of Lake Shore, and Guy Paulson, Fort Wayne, Ind., each of whom scored 148's. Trailing them was Dick Metz, the youthful newcomer to Chicago professional circles, who delivered a 149.

Evans Fails to Qualify.

Among the outstanding golfers who failed to qualify were Ren Smith of Oak Park, a brother of Horton; Jock Hutchinson, Chick Evans, open champion in 1916 and 1920, and Bob MacDonald.

Only two amateurs crowded under the qualifying mark of 153. They were Johnny Lehman of the home club and Don Armstrong of Aurora, Illinois state champion, both of whom came in with 151's. Preceding and joining them were Jim Johnstone, who came all the way from Toronto, Ont., to shoot 74—76—150; Russell Stonehouse, younger brother of Ralph, of Indianapolis, and Henry Picard, young winter tournament star from Charleston, S. C. The latter shot 151.

Played Basketball, Too.

Krueger, an all-around athlete who has been a professional for the last three years and was making his first attempt to qualify for national competition, at one time played with the Beloit Fairies basketball team. He now pitches for the Madison Blues and is 28 years old.

The best card of the day was submitted by Harry Kinnell of Edgewood Valley, who shot 69 over the No. 1 course after having had an unfortunate 86 in the morning.

Brassie Shot in Ryder Cup Play Diegel's Biggest Thrill

[This is the ninth of a series of golf articles by ten of the game's leading professionals. The likable Leo Diegel, one of the most popular players in the game, is professional at the Philmont Country club, Philmont, Pa. Diegel, an unknown youngster at the time, made his first bid for fame at Inverness in 1920, when he tied for second place back of Ted Ray in the national open. He is noted for his unorthodox putting stance. He was second in the National P. G. A. meet of 1926, and won the title in 1928 and 1929. He also held the Canadian open crown in 1924, 1925, 1928, and 1929, and has been a member of every American Ryder cup team.]

BY LEO DIEGEL.

Five years ago April 27, in the Ryder cup matches between the United States and Great Britain at Leeds, England, I played my greatest brassie shot and I certainly picked a grand day for it. It was my birthday and I was playing Abe Mitchell, the English veteran.

The tenth and eleventh holes at Leeds are parallel, the former measuring 590 yards and the latter 445 yards. A very heavy wind was blowing. My play on the tenth will prove that, for I was hole high on the green in two shots. The wind was blowing from right to left and back of me.

Some Markmanship Made It Great Shot.

The eleventh is 145 yards shorter, but it played as long as the tenth that day. My tee shot on No. 11 was well placed on the right side of the fairway. The green was of fair size, with a smartly situated trap guarding the left entrance and another trap to the right and short of the green. Playing with the wind, the previous hole had been a cinch, but now conditions were entirely different. I had to contend with a nasty left to right wind. I could not carry the green and the only chance I had of getting home was to hit a straight ball through the opening. My brassie shot landed 35 yards short of the green and finished two feet past the hole. I sank the putt for a birdie three and subsequently won the match, 9 and 8, with a medal score of 65, which broke the course record and also happens to be a Ryder cup record.

I was awfully pleased with my brassie on the tenth, but my shot on the eleventh was a much more difficult one, and it gave me the thrill of a lifetime.

Here Is How Leo Played It.

I will now try to explain how I played this particular shot. To make the ball fly straight, I closed the face of the club, and used a flatter backswing. On the downswing, I made sure that my wrists were relaxed as I came into the ball. I would have finished 50 yards or more to the right of the green if I had tightened on that shot. Incidentally, I might mention that I used a flatter finish to the shot.

The common fault of most people when playing into a head wind or one from left to right is to hit harder. I advise a flatter backswing and relaxed wrist action through the ball. This type of swing will put run on the ball, and at the same time aid in the elimination of any tenseness which might creep into the stroke. In right to left wind shots my swing is more upright, and I try to hit harder through the ball. If I am forced to play a brassie shot out of a bad lie, I play the ball a bit farther back, the backswing is more upright, and the downswing is a definite hit. Plenty of weight should be kept on the left foot throughout the swing.

WAS HE THRILLED!

LEO DIEGEL.

ILLINOIS SHOULD FINISH HIGH IN BIG TEN TRACK

Won Last Conference Title in 1929.

(This is the last article in a series of sketches of university track and field men in the central states.)

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Illinois won its last Western conference track and field title in 1929, and since then the Orange and Blue has stood by while Michigan has taken three of four meets to surpass Illinois' record as Big Ten track and field leader. Illinois has won 11 championships under the direction of Harry Gill, but Michigan now has won 13 outdoor meets.

Coach Gill is absent from the university this year on leave and Don C. Seaton, a product of Illinois and one of the youngest conference coaches, is in charge. At Senn High school, Chicago, Seaton won 12 of a possible 20 championships. This year, under Seaton's coaching, Illinois' cross-country team won the Big Ten title, and the track squad defeated Indiana and Notre Dame in indoor meets.

Some Other Time, Illini.

Illinois won't win the championship this year, but the Illini will finish high in the first division. A review of the records of some of the leading performers for Illinois follows:

Dave Cook, co-captain, with a new Illinois record in the shotput, may win this event. At the Drake relays Cook put the shot 50 feet 3½ inches, which exceeded the former Illini record of 48 feet 10⅞ inches, established by Dan Lyon in 1927. Cook already held the Illinois indoor record in the shotput at 48 feet 7⅝ inches. His last effort of 50 feet 3½ inches is better than the Big Ten mark.

Kamm's a Big Boy.

Chin Kamm, who shares the captaincy with Cook, is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 210 pounds. Chin's best put this year was 47 feet 11 inches indoors as the Illini handed Indiana their first dual meet defeat in four years. Kamm also throws the discus, in which his best effort is 142 feet 7 inches, made in the Big Ten conference meet last year. Kamm won the Big Ten shotput in 1933, with Cook second. Kamm also placed second in the discus.

Hunter Russell, a sprinter, whose father, Bill Russell, an Illinois Central executive, played football at Purdue, won his heat in the 100 yard dash in 9.7 at the present Drake relays to establish a new Illinois relays record. He defeated Ward and won the 100 in the Michigan meet in the same time.

Hellmich Is Injured.

The advance of Russell has been helpful since Huddie Hellmich, hitherto the sprinting ace of the Illini, has been crippled by a torn muscle. Last year Hellmich finished second in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes in the Big Ten meet, and sixth in the 100 yards in the national collegiate meet, being the only conference representative to place.

Irving Seely is a junior whose best record in the pole vault was made as a freshman when he cleared 13 feet 10 inches in the national collegiate meet in the Olympic tryouts. Last year he tied for first place in the Big Ten meet with his teammate, Ike Lenington, at 13 feet 6 inches. Seely has been handicapped by illness this year and his best performance was at Drake, where he tied for first with 13 feet 4 inches.

Miller Does Well.

Marsh Miller is one of the few sophomores to whom the Illini can look for a showing in the Big Ten quarter mile. His best performance has been :48.6 against Michigan.

WILDCAT GOLF TEAM DEFEATS BADGERS, 11 TO 7

Northwestern university's golf team defeated Wisconsin, 11 to 7, in a dual meet at the Kildeer Country club yesterday. Capt. Bob Brown and Bill Flinn, Northwestern, turned in the best individual scores of the day, each carding 74. Studholm, Wisconsin, had 75 to lead the Badgers. The Wildcats will meet Chicago in their last dual meet of the season Thursday. The results:

DOUBLES—Studholm and Rogers, Wisconsin, beat Curtis and Brown, Northwestern, 2½ to ½; Flinn and Saillie, Northwestern, tied Reid and Ryerson, Wisconsin, 1½ to 1½.

SINGLES—Brown, Northwestern, beat Rogers, Wisconsin, 3 to 0; Flinn, Northwestern, beat Studholm, Wisconsin, 2 to 0; Saillie, Northwestern, tied Reid, Wisconsin, 1½ to 1½; Curtis, Northwestern, tied Ryerson, Wisconsin, 1½ to 1½.

MISS VALVODA TO COMPETE IN GYM EXHIBITION

Cubs to Start Root Against Hubbell Today

The Cubs will conclude the series with the Giants today and at the same time close their home stay. Charley Root will pitch today's finale for the Cubs and probably will be opposed by Carl Hubbell.

Charley Grimm, the Cubs manager and Bill Terry, who leads the Giants, talked trade yesterday, but didn't make any progress. Terry wanted pitchers, preferably Warneke or Bush. Grimm said he wanted pitchers, preferably Hubbell or Schumacher. The conference broke up immediately.

Shortstop Bill Jurges will be excused from tomorrow's expedition to Flint, Mich., where the Cubs play an exhibition. Bill will go direct to Reading for his first glimpse of his recently arrived offspring.

Pitcher Lynn Nelson was announced yesterday as the man who will be dispensed with to bring the Cubs down to the 23 player limit which becomes effective tonight. So far the club hasn't found a place for him, but there may be developments along this line today.

Johnny Vergez was yanked off the third base job with the Giants yesterday and the place given to Blondy Ryan. Vergez has been in a batting slump all spring.

Cubs Defeat Giants, 3 to 2, in 10 Innings

Stainback bounced a single off Schumacher's glove. A passed ball by Mancuso let Stainback go to second. This proved a costly blunder. Camilli whacked a single into center and Stainback scored. After Jurges had popped out, Schumacher plunked Hartnett on the left elbow and put him out of action. Tate ran for Gabby and Warneke ended the inning by grounding to Ryan. As a result of the blow Gabby may be on vacation for a few days.

The first hit off Warneke came early, but the Giants were a long time waiting for the next. Terry furnished the first one when he singled to left with two out in the first inning, but Ott flied to Stainback. Not another Giant reached base until the sixth, when, with one out, Schumacher doubled off the left field wall. He was almost held to a single because of having to go back and touch first. Then Moore singled to left and Schumacher carried home the tying run. Critz and Terry flied out.

Tit for Tat.

Merely to keep even with the Giants in the way of hits, Hack opened the Cub half of the sixth with a line single to left, but nothing came of it. Galan bounced into a force out, Klein flied to Ott, and O'Doul got Cuyler's fly. The Giants resumed the lead in the matter of hits in the seventh. Ott led off with a single into center. The next three fellows popped out. The Cubs evened up the hitting again in their half, when Tate singled with two out. Camilli, who had walked, took third on the drive. Warneke's grounder to Jackson closed the inning.

Klein delivered in the eighth, giving the Cubs five hits against four. Nothing came of Klein's hit because it occurred with two out and Cuyler followed with a bounder to Critz. Then the Giants not only took the hitting honors in the ninth, but got the run that for a few minutes appeared enough to settle the day's business. After Terry had unfolded his homer with one out, O'Doul singled with two out. He died stealing. Then Camilli stepped in with his four baser over the left field wall with one out in the home ninth and extra innings were in order.

Warneke Averts Disaster.

Warneke was dangerously close to disaster in the tenth. Jackson led off with a line drive to left center and Klein went galloping after it thinking he could record his 11th put-out of the afternoon. The ball grazed the tips of his glove for a double. Ryan tried to sacrifice, but bunted a fly to Camilli. Hack threw out Mancuso; Jackson remaining on second. Then Schumacher popped to Jurges and a few minutes later Klein broke up the party.

Purple Play Notre Dame Today in Series Final

Northwestern's baseball team will meet Notre Dame at Hoycemore field in Evanston today. It will be the second of a two game series between the two teams. The Wildcats won the first game, 14 to 13, at South Bend. Ed Legger or Herb Harris will pitch for the Purple. Legger hurled the winning game against Iowa last Saturday and may get the choice to oppose the Irish.

Busch, One Time Tornado Football Player, Dies

John Busch Jr., 413 East 110th place, captain and full back of the Tornado semi-pro football team more than 20 years ago, died yesterday. He was 43 years old. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning. Former team members are expected to attend the services.

Mills Semi-Pros to Meet Pittsburgh Crawfords

The Chicago Mills semi-pro baseball team will meet the Pittsburgh Crawfords tonight at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. Lipschin, recently obtained from the Milwaukee Brewers, will pitch for the Mills. The game will start at 6:15 o'clock.

WALKER CUP SERIES.

Victory of the United States Walker cup golf team over British amateurs was anticipated. Yankees have been successful in each of the eight meetings of this international competition, originating in 1922. Margin of victory, 9½ matches to 2½ on British home links at St. Andrews, however, was disappointing if overwhelming victory for Americans ever may be denominated disappointing.

From the basis of competitive rivalry it would be better for the British to win one of these affairs, or, at least, to turn in a much closer count. The Wake, in this respect, is like the coach of a football team which was enjoying an unusual sequence of victories who once said to us: "I can't pick out any one game I'd like to lose, but it would be better for our eleven if we lost a game now and then."

Immediately following the world war, casualties which depleted British youth and therefore rising young golfers more severely than American youths were ascribed as a primary cause. It does not hold good now. So we must seek other reasons. First, there are more players in this country than in Great Britain on the basis of population. Again, American amateurs of the first flight make serious business of their frequent competitions. Our Yankee zest to win frequently is criticized abroad. To that criticism, however, we do not subscribe. There may be evils, and undoubtedly are in our amateur athletics, but if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing well.

Francis Ouimet, captain of the American team, has participated in all eight Walker cup matches, with a record of 4 victories, 2 defeats and 2 halved. Ouimet was the only veteran on this year's team who played in the first informal match at Hoylake, not counted in the formal competition as the cup was not offered until the following year. Tommy Armour, "Master of the Iron Shot," now a Chicago pro, whose article on iron play recently appeared in these sports pages, won a match as a British amateur in that first informal competition.

Speaking of Parades.

Wake: George Ade tells of the big parade when the World's Fair of 1893 was opened. The reviewing stand was in front of the Union League club on Jackson street, the weather was very cold, and President Cleveland, with a member of his cabinet, Daniel Lamont, had been standing out in the cold for two hours.

A member of the club approached the President with two tumblers half filled with whisky and said: "Mr. President, here is something for you and Mr. Lamont." The President took both tumblers, poured the contents into one, and said: "Thank you, Mr. Lamont does not drink." C. A. K.

Sox Leave for Home Tonight; Are They Glad!

Boston, Mass., May 14.—[Special.]—The White Sox will leave for Chicago, via New York, after tomorrow's game. The high strung athletes have not learned that they will have to change trains and depots at 11 o'clock tomorrow night, an unusual procedure. It is probable that they will squawk at being so inconvenienced. As a rule, the feebler the ball club the louder the beefs.

Tomorrow midnight is the deadline for squads in excess of 23 players. Manager Dykes has one cut to get under the limit. He was undecided whether to ship Lee Stine or put Moanin' Ed Durham on the voluntary retired list.

Manager Dykes was forced to use George Earnshaw today as a result of having to employ Les Tietje as his third pitcher yesterday. He had planned to use Tietje today and give George another day of rest. Earnshaw has been coaching at first base since Dykes' appointment as manager.

Just before today's game photogs took pictures of the Red-White Sox chapters of the Athletics' alumni association. The group included Jimmy Dykes, Al Simmons, Mule Haas, George Earnshaw, Eddie Collins, Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, and Max Bishop.

Al Simmons had planned to stay out of the lineup until the Sox returned home, but when Swanson was taken down with a misery in his back Manager Dykes invited him to play and he accepted.

Boosters' Club to Greet Sox at Depot Tomorrow

Members of the Chicago White Sox Boosters' club will meet the team tomorrow night upon its return from Boston to welcome Jimmy Dykes, who succeeded Lew Fonseca as manager last week. Arrangements for the welcome and fitting ceremonies at Comiskey Park Thursday afternoon are being made by James W. Whalen, sanitary district trustee. The team will arrive at the Pennsylvania station at 6:13 p. m. daylight saving time tomorrow.

Tigers Beat Senators, 5-0 in Six Innings

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—The Senators slid into the second division today when rain swamped the playing field at Griffith stadium in the seventh and clinched a 5 to 0 victory for the Detroit Tigers.

Washington bogged down in Victor Sorrell's two hit pitching long before the storm broke. Myer hit him for a double and Bluege tripled with two out in the second, but that was the total damage done to the righthander's offerings.

The Tigers pounded Al Crowder in the second. An error by Buddy Myer, two singles, a double, and a pass accounted for the scoring before Ray Prim was sent to the mound. Score:

5 FORMER OPEN CHAMPIONS FAIL IN DISTRICT TESTS

Walker, Macfarlane Are Among Nonqualifiers.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Five former holders of the title failed to qualify for the national open golf championship in the annual sectional trials, conducted in 21 widely scattered districts yesterday, but top flight stars generally had little trouble making the grade.

Fred McLeod, who won the national open as long ago as 1908, failed to qualify in the Richmond district. George Sargent, who won in 1909, was among the also rans at Atlanta, and Chick Evans, 1916 champion, at Chicago. Cyril Walker and Willie Macfarlane, titleholders in 1924 and 1925, respectively, both were eliminated in the New York district, where the day's results also found Joe Turnesa and George Voigt, former Walker cup player, outside the qualifying limit. Another well known amateur, Maurice McCarthy Jr., was shut out in the Cleveland district.

Four Philadelphia Positions Open.

Otherwise there were few failures among the game's elite. Such professionals as Paul Runyan, Wiffy Cox, George Von Elm, and Tom Creavy were successful at New York as were the amateurs, Gene Homans and Rudy Knepper. Ed Dudley and J. Wood Platt, the amateur, captured two of the 16 places open at Philadelphia. Only 12 of these positions, however, were definitly decided, for darkness put a halt to play before all the competitors had completed their 36 hole medal play rounds.

Phil Perkins, former British amateur champion; Billy Burke, open champion in 1931, and Al Espinosa all qualified at Cleveland; Bobby Cruickshank pulled through at Richmond, although forced into a play-off; Walter Emery and Rodney Bliss, intercollegiate champion and runner-up respectively, were successful competitors at Oklahoma City and Omaha respectively.

Charley Yates at Atlanta; Johnny Florio and Bob Kepler, the former college stars, at Dayton, and Roland Hancock at Boston, completed the list of well known players who qualified.

38 Exempt from Test.

All told 109 places were at stake in yesterday's sectional trials. Los Angeles held its trial a week ago with Jimmie Thomson and Willie Hunter among the five qualifiers. Thirty-six others were exempt from the qualifying test either by virtue of finishing among the low 30 and ties in the last national open or through membership on the American Walker cup team, now abroad.

ROLLIE HEMSLEY RETAINS LEAD IN BIG SIX BATTING

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Yesterday's rains, washing out all except three major league ball games, left Rollie Hemsley, St. Louis Browns' catcher, high and dry in the big six lead with an average of .481.

Only Carl Reynolds of the Boston Red Sox, Heinie Maunsh of the Senators, and Kiki Cuyler of the Cubs saw action among the leaders, and not one of them made a hit. Manush lost 14 points to .412, while Cuyler, easing off 23, and Manush 12, dropped from among the top three in their respective leagues. The standing:

M'LARNIN SHOWS SPEED, POWER IN BOXING DRILL

Atlantic City, N. J., May 14.—[Special.]—Jimmy McLarnin, training to defend his world's welterweight title against Barney Ross May 28, displayed much of the speed and hard hitting that made his name a byword in pugilistic circles when he boxed here today.

After a five mile spin in the morning, McLarnin showed up at the ballroom quarters in Convention hall as frisky as a 2 year old. He worked his hands in machine-like fashion in a body attack through two rounds with Armen Knapp and wound up with two periods against Frankie Cinue.

POLISH BOXERS ARRIVE; CHICAGO ROARS WELCOME

In his official greeting to the Poles, Mayor Kelly said, in part:

"This is the first time, at least since I've been in the chair as presiding officer, that the city council of Chicago has passed up its session for any group. The city council is still in session and you people, who are honoring the amateur boxers of Poland and representatives of our brother republic, have been extended the privilege of the floor of the council.

"Chicago is proud to have you here; proud to have any one here who can take it, and I understand you can. As mayor of Chicago, and representing its millions of citizens I wish our visitors luck in the international bouts next week.

"Chicago thanks THE TRIBUNE for making possible this international tournament. Again I extend the greetings of the council and the city. You are welcome here any time in the world's second largest Polish city. Stay as long as you wish, for you have proved that you make desirable citizens."

Baranowski Makes Reply.

Mr. Baranowski replied to Mayor Kelly. His address was translated at the conclusion by Anthony Czarnecki, collector of U. S. customs for the Chicago district. Mr. Baranowski said:

"Mr. President of the city of Chicago, council general of the republic of Poland, officials and representatives of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, members of the reception committee, members of the city council, citizens of this country, and descendants of the Polish nation:

"With real joy we accepted the gracious invitation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the boxing bouts between Poland and America. We did so because we have this year in Europe a first class boxing team. We accepted the invitation also because of our respect, our love, and our honor for this great American nation and because history binds us together in inseparable ties. It links us first of all by the great Kosciuszko, the great Pulaski and those others who fought side by side and with them for America's freedom and independence.

Recalls Aid of Wilson.

"Then we are linked to this country by the great moment when the immortal Woodrow Wilson, as president of your republic, was one of the first, during and after the world war, to insist and carry out the fact that the peace of the world, the peace of Europe, depended and could not do without the resurrection of a free and independent Poland with free access to the sea.

"Thanks to his initiative and his courage the resurrection of Poland, with access to the sea, is now an established fact. The freedom and independence of our country was fought for and fought out under the great Polish leader of today and of the world war, Marshall Pilsudski.

"And also it was brought about by the help and sacrifices of Polish people who live in this country and to whom we will always give thanks and whose great services we know throughout the Polish nation.

"These Polish boxers will give an excellent account of themselves when they meet your boxers. We believe we can do better than any of our predecessors, but in defeat or victory, Poland will be proud of them.

"In ending I wish to ask my boys to join in a cheer for the republic of the United States and its President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Headquarters at Medinah.

The Polish boxers were escorted from the city hall to the Medinah club of Chicago, 505 North Michigan avenue, which will be the team's headquarters. After the boys had been assigned to their rooms the team then visited the Polish consulate, 1500 North Dearborn parkway, where they paid their respects to the consul general, Dr. Tytus Zbyszewski.

Chicago's boxers began work yesterday afternoon at the Illinois Athletic club. By tomorrow, when Fred Tyus, Peoria's Negro welterweight reports, all will be at their tasks. The Detroit boxers arrived shortly before dinner last night. The first day's drills consisted of five rounds of floor work, loosening up exercises on the mats, and with the medicine ball.

NAME U. S. TEAM FOR PRELIMINARY DAVIS CUP PLAY

New York, May 14.—(AP)—Frank Shields, George Lott, John Van Ryn and big Lester Stoefen today were named by the United States as the team to meet Canada in the first round of North American zone Davis cup competition. This will be Stoefen's first experience in Davis cup competition.

The matches will be played on the grass courts of the Wilmington, Del., Country club May 24, 25 and 26. The winner will meet Mexico, only other team in the zone, at Baltimore May 30, 31 and June 2 for the right to play in the interzone final at Wimbledon.

Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., other members of the squad asked to report for training under the direction of Capt. R. Norris Williams at the Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, were not considered for the first round of play. Wood has had no tournament competition this spring and Allison is nursing a sprained ankle, injured in practice at Washington.

The official announcement from the U. S. L. T. A. made no mention of Bryan Grant, Atlanta, who has whipped Shields, Stoefen, and Lott in recent tournaments.

Chicago's Welcome Fit for a King, Say Polish Boxers

BY DONALD DAY.

"A reception for a king!"

And when Franciszek Baranowski, president of the Polish Amateur Boxing association, voiced this opinion of Chicago's welcome to the Polish fighters all the boxers nodded in agreement.

"Never in our wildest dreams did we imagine that we would receive this kind of a reception in Chicago," Baranowski continued. "It all seems too good to be true and I feel sorry already because when I return to Poland and begin to tell them how Chicago turned out to meet us, I'm afraid, I'm going to get a reputation Baron Maunchausen will envy.

"We are going to remember this for the rest of our lives, not so much as a tribute to ourselves, but as a tribute to Poland from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and Chicago, the second largest Polish city in the world."

The Boys Were Surprised.

After the modest greetings which the Polish team had received in New York where they were met at the pier by representatives of the Polish consulate general and various Polish organizations, the boxers were not prepared for the wildly enthusiastic reception they received in the Union station yesterday.

When the bodyguard arrived at the car and each boxer found himself gripped firmly on each arm preparatory to the dash through the cheering crowds Jaroslaw Sipinski, the lightweight who is still nursing a stiff neck, began to get anxious.

"I wish I had Nurmi's legs now. I would need them to get away from this crowd," he declared. "Do you suppose we can get through without going to a hospital?"

Feliks Stamm, the trainer, also began to get nervous when Sergt. Bert Cowdrey grabbed his arm. He asked in a whisper, "Who is this man?" When told he was in the grasp of a detective, he remarked: "Yes, I thought I recognized that grip."

Stop At Medinah Club.

Stamm also eyed the groups of pretty Polish girls who managed to surround each of his fighters and immediately declared no dates were to be made until after the fights. He remarked the American climate seemed to agree with the Poles for there were more pretty girls speaking Polish in the station than he had ever seen in one place in Poland.

Bewildered by the greatest welcome they had ever received in their lives the boxers relaxed when they were seated in the open cars which took them from the station to the city hall where, to their amazement, they were ushered into the hall of the city council where Mayor Kelly interrupted the meeting to bid them welcome in the name of Chicago.

From the city hall the boxers went to the special quarters prepared for them at the Medinah Club of Chicago. After a brief inspection of their rooms they paid their respects to the Polish consul, Titus Zbyszewski, who confessed himself just as overwhelmed by the reception as were the boxers.

"Through the organizing genius of THE TRIBUNE today in Chicago became a Polish holiday," he declared. "We never could imagine that a group of Poles would ever get such a tremendous ovation as our champions were accorded today. Everything clicked and I am very proud and happy that my countrymen have been accorded such honors."

Start Sparring Today.

After the visit to the consulate the boxers returned to their rooms and were inoculated, as Walter Majchrzycki said, "with American tempo." Within thirty minutes they had changed clothes and went out for a run in Lake Shore playground. The Poles' program today includes roadwork and gymnastics before breakfast, after which they will start out to see the city. In the afternoon they will have workout against sparring partners.

Coming into Chicago Stanislaw Pilat, heavyweight, inquired if he could have a sparring partner, a question which he has propounded each day since he first heard that he was to be included in the team in Poznan. Pilat is six feet three inches tall and in Poland he has never been able to find a sparring partner who could stand up to him. He says he is more interested in a sparring partner than he is in anything else in America.

ski, Czeslaw Kajnar, Tadeusz Rogalski and Szapsa Rotholz.

In case of rain, the event will be postponed until tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

A special detail of West Parks police under the direction of Capt. Michael Trant will supervise trafic and clear lanes through the crowd.

Program Begins at 8.

At 8 o'clock the program will begin with Polish and American airs by Maxham's band. Then Alexander Sobota, director of the Polish National Alliance, will introduce John J. Olejnickzak, president of the Polish Roman Catholic union, who will be the master of ceremonies. Marie Gruszczynska will sing The Star Spangled Banner.

Then Mayor Edward J. Kelly will deliver an address, after which State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney will take the speaker's stand. He will be followed by Consul General Zbyszewski, Emily Napieralski, president of the Polish Women's alliance, Judge John Prystalski, Anton Czarnecki, collector of United States customs, Judge Peter Schwaba, J. Franciszek Baranowski, president of the Polish Boxing union, Avery Brundage, president of the National Amatur Athletic union, the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, and Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE.

Sing Polish Anthem.

Then the Polish boxers will be presented and the Polish national anthem will be sung, after which the crowd will move to the pavilion for dancing. Through the program will be interspersed selections by a male quartet from the Filarect Singing society.

Kaffner, Williams Meet on Rainbo Mat Tomorrow

DE KALB TEACHERS WIN.

De Kalb, Ill., May 14.—(Special.)—The De Kalb Teachers won a tennis match from Illinois Wesleyan today, 5 to 1.

The Tribune wishes to thank the members of the committee, officials of The Tribune A. A., the Union station police detail, the officers of the city police force who handled all details of yesterday's reception to the Polish amateur boxing champions, and the city officials who greeted the boys in the council chamber.

LEVINSKY STILL MISSING; LASKY FIGHT POSTPONED

Los Angeles, Cal., May 14.—(AP)—Lou Daro, promoter, returned today from a week-end fishing trip to find King Levinsky, his big fistic catch, had slipped out of the net while he was gone.

"The fight will be postponed for a week," said Daro, but there was no indication it would ever be staged, with Levinsky still to be located.

Levinsky Leaves Town.

In the meantime, Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight who was to have met the Kingfish tomorrow night in a 10 round bout, impatiently marked time.

Levinsky with his co-manager and sister, Mrs. Lena Levinsky Levy, departed secretly with the fish peddler's brother, Sam, Saturday morning, but it was not until Saturday afternoon it became known in fistic circles he was gone.

Must Refund Ticket Money.

As a result of Levinsky's disappearance, the Olympic auditorium was faced with the task of returning more than $13,000 received from ticket purchasers. A sellout had been anticipated.

The whole affair was the result of managerial differences between Mrs. Levy and Pete Reilly, co-pilot of Levinsky. It was reported that Mrs. Levy had telephoned a friend here from Tucumcari, N. M., yesterday, saying they were en route to Chicago, but this could not be immediately confirmed.

AMERICA'S CUP SLOOP WILL BE LAUNCHED TODAY

Bristol, R. I., May 14.—(AP)—A few minutes before high water tomorrow [about 7:45 a. m. eastern standard time], the class J sloop Rainbow, owned by the New York syndicate headed by Harold S. Vanderbilt, will be formally launched.

This costly craft is the only new candidate built in this country this year to defend the America's cup against the British owned Endeavour. Efforts will be made to get her rigged in time for a tuning up before the first trials with Weetamoe, Yankee and Vanitie off Newport on June 16.

The first task will be stepping her new 165 foot mast. While riggers make everything snug aloft, the shop gang will work below on cabin fittings.

SERLETIC WINS FROM HAINES IN MIDWAY FIGHT

Joe Serletic defeated Roosevelt Haines, Chicago lightweight, in the windup bout at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, last night. In another five round bout Chuck Reed won from George Trapp. Other results:

Jimmy Christy beat Gene Connolly [4].
Don Buck beat George Schrosbree [4].
Willie Ross beat Augie Mandell [4].
Jackie Collins beat Henry Fuscaldo [4].
Paul Volpe beat Ed Van Herrick [wrestling].

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEN there were only ten automobiles in Cleveland, Alva and Charley Bradley, then prep school students but now owners of the Cleveland Indians, owned one of them. . . . Illustrating the difference in speed law regulations then and now, Alva Bradley writes: "I once was arrested for speeding, and the officer who apprehended me overtook me on an ordinary bicycle. I must have been going almost 20 miles an hour." . . . The Indians, by the way, are going to play an exhibition game at Cornell university some day soon because Alva Bradley and Billy Evans, general manager, used to be prominent in athletics there. . . . Both placed on the varsity nine and Evans was also a member of the football squad until a knee injury forced him to retire. . . .

Major league clubs must reduce their rosters to 23 by midnight tonight. . . . A survey of the American league yesterday showed Boston had 24, Chicago 24 [including Pitcher Durham who has been sick], Cleveland 25 [including First Baseman Boss who is ill], Detroit 24, New York 25, Philadelphia 23, St. Louis 22, and Washington 25 [including Catcher Bolton who is ineligible]. . . . INDIANA BEATS CHICAGO, 3 TO 2; STAYS IN RACE

Indiana university's baseball team remained in the Big Ten race yesterday by defeating Chicago, 3 to 2, at Greenwood field. Whitey Wilshire, Indiana southpaw, stopped the Maroons after entering the game in the sixth inning with the score tied at 2 all.

He held Chicago without a hit and struck out the side in order in the seventh and eighth innings.

SINGH THROWS ZAHARIAS WITH HIS BODY LOCK

Jagot Singh, the mustached Hindu wrestler, threw George Zaharias of Pueblo, Colo., in 26:29 with a body lock in the windup bout of the wrestling show at the Chicago Stadium last night.

Singh came to this country from Punjab, India, several months ago in an attempt to force Jim Londos, recognized as heavyweight champion by the Illinois athletic commission, into a title bout.

Jagot's triumph last night was the most important of his three Chicago appearances. His impressive showing against Zaharias may lead to a Londos bout.

Joe Savoldi, Three Oaks, Mich., was held to a draw by Joe Malcewicz, Syracuse, N. Y., in the semi-final bout, which went 30 minutes. Preliminary results:

Buckets Goldenberg beat Lou Plummer, 16:00, foul.
Hans Kampfer threw Sun Jennings, 21:16.
Sandor Szabo threw Matros Kirilinko, 19:38.

Eunice Dean to Play in Western Tennis Tourney

Eunice Dean, San Antonio, Tex., has entered the U. S. Western tennis tournament to be held at the River Forest Tennis club, June 18 to 24, George Bristol, general chairman, announced yesterday. Miss Dean, who has been spending the winter in California, holds victories over Theodosia Smith, Ruby Bishop, and Grace Wheeler, three of the favorites in the western meet. She is the present holder of the southwest and San Antonio women's titles.

"With Miss Dean from the southwest; Jane Sharp, Theodosia Smith, Ruby Bishop, and Grace Wheeler from the Pacific coast, and one or two of the leading players of the east already entered, local women tennis stars have a tough assignment in front of them to keep the western title at home this year," Bristol said. Catherine Wolfe, Elkhart, Ind., Helen Fulton, Winnetka, and Mary Reed, Lake Forest, rate as the local favorites to repel the invasion. Miss Wolfe, present champion, is confident she can come through with flying colors against the invaders, and Helen Fulton, who has been engaged in a strenuous campaign on the Pacific coast, is expected to be better than last year, when she was runnerup to Miss Wolfe.

Chicago's leading women players, including Virginia Hess, Josephine Skarnavack, Eugenie Sampson, Jackie Ayer, and Helen Bartavus, also are expected to show to good advantage in the tournament.

OFFICIAL URGES USE OF GOOD HUNTING DOGS

Retrievers Are Big Aid to Conservation Work.

BY BOB BECKER.

The first time a state department of conservation has conducted an educational campaign among sportsmen to stress the value of a good hunting dog as an aid to the conservation of bird life has already gotten under way in Ohio. At least, it is the first time such a departmental campaign has been brought to our attention, although individuals and wild life organizations, both in the east and west, have gone on record many times with printed pleas that sportsmen use dogs to get crippled birds, thus avoiding great waste of pheasants and other game.

In fact, this department urged the use of good retrievers to save crippled waterfowl, pheasants and other game several years ago, and last season furnished statistics showing how the average hunter without a dog loses more than 50 per cent of birds shot

Blood Lines Important.

"A hunting dog can mean a lot to conservation by saving crippled birds," says J. W. Stuber, head of the Ohio conservation bureau of education. "Thousands of crippled birds in this and other states would be recovered if sportsmen would use more dogs in the field. We are urging hunters to procure bird dogs for the coming season, and, of course, we strongly urge that they select well bred dogs—because blood lines do tell."

Joe Savoldi, Three Oaks, Mich., was held to a draw by Joe Malcewicz, Syracuse, N. Y., in the semi-final bout, which went 30 minutes. Preliminary results:

Buckets Goldenberg beat Lou Plummer, 16:00, foul.
Hans Kampfer threw Sun Jennings, 21:16.
Sandor Szabo threw Matros Kirilinko, 19:38.

Although it may seem out of season to be talking about hunters getting a dog to help them during the coming fall shooting season, the fact remains that spring is the time to have a dog in training so that he will be of some use when autumn arrives.

When hunting parties will drop as many as 8 pheasants during a morning's shoot, and only recover one bird [an actual case] we may understand why conservation departments feel they'd like to take energetic steps to cut down this costly waste.

A Costly Waste.

Figuring that each winged, but unretrieved, bird represents a cost of $2 to $3 [that's actual cost], hunters who blithely shoot pheasants as they please and recover only a few are wasting much money and sport for the state and other hunters.

There are several breeds of retrievers which are such natural workers that a little training will make them valuable in the field. Of course, you can't take a young dog and teach him perfect field manners, non-slip retrieving or top notch ground covering tactics in just a couple of evenings after dinner. However, it's surprising how quickly a well bred Labrador retriever, English springer spaniel, strong, leggy, cocker spaniel, Irish water spaniel or a Chesapeake Bay retriever catches on to lessons.

Mike, Beau to Work.

The above named dogs can save many winged birds in the fields, even though not perfectly trained. This fall we shall work two of this group of breeds, either together or separately, which will permit us an interesting comparison of workmanship. Mike of Barrington, our Labrador, is due for some heavy work on land and by water, and Beau, snappy, alert, yet easily handled Springer spaniel, is going to be right there with Mike in the bird work.

FAVORITES COME INTO THEIR OWN OUT AT AURORA

Davison Sends 3 Winners to the Post.

BY FRENCH LANE.

After they had been treated rather roughly for a couple of days, the favorite players at the Aurora track blossomed out in all their glory yesterday.

They not only put over the well bred Well Built from Mrs. E. B. Carpenter's barn in the Big Rock claiming purse, but collected on nearly all the other races.

Polyphote, Miss Chilla, Cheers, and Annan were other favorites to deliver. As far as the players are concerned they would like this kind of racing to go on and on. But, of course, it won't. Or at least that's what the statistics show. Haven't you heard that "figures won't lie"?

Davison Saddles Three.

Clarence Davison, an Illinois turf man, might have been responsible for this new outburst of favorites' victories. He saddled three of them. The Davison color bearers to win were Polyphote, Cheers, and Annan.

Well Built, the grand son of Man o' War, didn't have much trouble winning. He let Dispatcher beat him away from the barrier, but by the time the field hit the clubhouse turn he was in front by two lengths. He played with his field from there until the finish and wound up beating Sambo Brown by a length and a half. Dispatcher lasted just long enough to be third.

Well Built came within four-fifths of a second of tieing the track record of 1:45, which was made by Florence Mills in 1928. He paid $4.58 to win, $3.20 to place, and $3.02 to show.

They Are Speedy.

All three of the Davison horses showed fine early speed and led almost from the beginning of their races. E. Arcaro, just back in the saddle after serving a ten day suspension, rode Polyphote and Cheers.

Four new candidates were nominated for the $10,000 added Illinois Derby yesterday. H. C. McConnell nominated Dogmata, Stuyvesant Peabody named Technocracy, and William Schmidt nominated Para Four in the interest of his own Superior Stable and Irish Image for Mrs. William E. Schmidt.

William Hurley, who trains the western division of Col. E. R. Bradley's stable, was granted an Illinois license yesterday. There is only one Bradley eligible for the Illinois Derby —Blue Again—and Hurleys' early application for a license was taken as an indication that Blue Again would be sent to the post in the Aurora fixture.

Jocky Arcaro scored three victories yesterday. Aside from his triumphs on Polyphote in the first and on Cheers in the third, he scored on Dr. Louis Hamman, a 6 to 1 shot, in the last race.

79 Named to Seek American Derby Honors

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable, which seems to be out to set a new record for winning important stakes this year, will depend on Cavalcade to romp home in the American Derby at Washington Park June 2.

This became evident last night when Col. Matt Winn announced the 79 nominations to the $25,000 three year olds test. Mrs. Sloane nominated Cavalcade, the Kentucky Derby winner; Time Clock, which finished first in the Florida Derby, and Anarchy. High Quest, which beat Cavalcade by a nose in the Preakness last Saturday, doesn't appear on the list.

Division's Stars Entered.

All the other leading 3 year olds, however, were named for the mile and a quarter gallop over the Homewood course. Included are a pair of lively colts which compiled good records as 2 year olds, but which haven't started this season. These are First Minstrel, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, and George Widener's Chicstraw.

Greentree tied William Woodward's Belair stud for the lead in number of nominations with four. The others entered by Mrs. Whitney are Rose Cross, Soon Over, and Spy Hill. The Belair horses are Revere, Vicar, Firelock, and Fleam.

Folks who like to bet on Col. E. R. Bradley's horses will get a chance to back Blue Again, Bakers Dozen, and the filly Bazaar, which disappointed the colonel and numerous other bluegrass folk in the Kentucky Derby. Another filly nominated was Mata Hari.

Doesn't Forget This Time.

William Sachsenmaier, who forgot to enter his Plight and Indian Salute in the Kentucky Derby and was reminded of it every time his entry won a stake down in Texas, is not overlooking any American Derby bets. He nominated both horses several weeks ago.

The American Derby nominations follow:

Asculikit	Elylee
Adamite	Speedmore
Gallant Mac	Hopseys Beau
Revere	Kashgar
Vicar	Broadstep
Firelock	Coldwater
Fleam	Law Star
Bazaar	Moon Glory

Doctor Stays with Bellizzi for 24 Hours

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Dominic [Duke] Bellizzi, little jocky under contract to Mrs. Dodge Sloane, who fell off Psychic Bid in the Youthful stakes at Jamaica Saturday, is in a precarious condition in the Mary Immaculate hospital at Jamaica. He suffered internal injuries that necessitated an operation. Dr. R. J. Milleman Jr. remained at Bellizzi's bedside for more than 24 hours. Bellizzi received a blood transfusion last evening.

Mrs. Sloane left orders to spare no expense in trying to save the life of Bellizzi, who has been in her employ for more than two years.

A Peculiar Accident.

The accident that sent Duke to the hospital was a peculiar one. The lad evidently lost his head, for seldom has a jocky done what he did. While Psychic Bid was flying around the turn, three lengths ahead of the field, he went a little wide and in an effort to keep him straight Duke turned loose his right rein, seized his left rein with both hands and began tugging with all the strength he possessed. This threw him off balance and he went down in the path of several horses.

Explains to Doctor.

While conscious in the hospital, Bellizzi told Dr. Milleman that Psychic Bid was running so fast he failed to change his stride while rounding the turn and was bearing out, and that he thought by tugging with both hands on the inside rein he could check the wild rush toward the outer fence.

SENATORS VOTE 530 MILLIONS BUSINESS LOANS

Bar Against Politics Is Put in Bill.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—There was anguished oratory in the senate today as the membership was forced to declare itself against political influence before passing the Glass and Fletcher bills making some 530 millions of federal reserve and RFC funds available for direct loans to industry.

There is to be no running over to see Jesse Jones, head of the RFC, or one of the other directors in order to introduce a favorite constituent and ask "prompt consideration" of his application.

Black's Amendment Adopted.

Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], who learned about political influence as chairman of the special air mail committee, was the man who turned the trick by introducing the following amendment to the RFC loans section of the bill:

"Provided, that it shall be unlawful for any federal, state, county, or municipal official, any member of any national, state, or county committee of any political party, or any other person, except a bona fide and regularly employed officer, agent, or employé of the person or corporation seeking a loan under the provisions of this section, to seek to influence in any way any agent, officer, or employé of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in connection with a loan or any application therefor, under the provision of this section, and if upon the request of the person or corporation seeking a loan such unlawful influence is used, the person or corporation seeking such loan shall be disqualified."

"I want to see something," he said, "to take senators and congressmen out of the class of glorified messenger boys. It's not just a question of introducing some one to an official in a department; it's a question of continuous repeated pressure.

Expects Rush for Loans.

"This is one of the most dangerous bills we've passed. They'll be flocking in here by the thousands for money. I know that one of the easiest ways of staying in congress is to spend all one's time getting favors for constituents. I suppose I'm just old fashioned. But it's my idea senators and congressmen should spend some time in the business for which they were elected; that is, to make laws."

Senator Black pointed to the continued growth of the movement to put the government in business. That provided, he said, a growing opportunity and inducement for members of congress to run about Washington doing errands for their friends, it should be checked.

The senator's amendment and his speech caused consternation on the part of numerous colleagues.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] grew quite red in the face defending a senator's right to get the home town boys in to see the right people. Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] surprisingly—for he's notoriously callous to appeals for favors—sided with the Kentucky senator.

Glass Talks of Contracts.

"The people would be amazed," Senator Black persisted, "if they knew how many contracts for millions of dollars were granted through political pressure. The government is about to go into the business of lending money——"

"About to go?" sniffed Senator Glass. "That's all we've been doing for months."

"I mean to private industry," amended Senator Black. "And the government should operate as a bank does, grant applications on their merits. If a senator were to examine a constituent's business and find out it didn't deserve a loan—well, I don't believe there are two senators here who would tell the RFC not to grant the loan."

"If that's so," barked Senator Glass, "then this body's a disgrace and ought to be abolished."

Ashurst Suggests a Way.

"Just go around telling the government not to make loans to your constituents and they'll abolish you, all right," remarked Senator Henry F. Ashurst.

Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Rep., Neb.] sided with Senator Black.

Senator Alva Adams [Dem., Colo.] grew indignant at the thought that United States senators would be corrupt enough to use improper political influence.

But Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] wasn't impressed.

"When loan seekers bring down a county chairman or national committeeman with them, or call on a senator to introduce them," Senator Byrnes commented, "they don't do it in order to have the merits of their application explained."

After efforts to remove the amendment, adopted by a yea and nay vote, there was a roll call. The motion to

Roosevelt, Aid Criticized for Labor Stand

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—Sharp criticism of President Roosevelt and his secretary of labor, Frances Perkins, today marked the beginning of a determined congressional movement to force action at this session on arbitrary 30 hour work week legislation.

Declaring that the failure of the President and the labor secretary to take a definite stand on the measure left him only one "last resort," Chairman William P. Connery [Dem., Mass.] of the committee on labor, started o ptelition which, if signed by the necessary 145 members, will force the 30 hour week legislation to house vote May 28.

Connery declared Secretary Perkins has "broken faith" with labor through her continued failure to press the matter before the President.

Says Perkins Doesn't Help.

"I have tried every parliamentary maneuver I know," said Connery. "The President turned us over to Miss Perkins and Donald Richberg of the NRA. I have asked Miss Perkins to get the President's reaction. Mr. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and I are in complete agreement on all the items in the bill.

"But Miss Perkins has not seen the President. I asked her to keep faith with us and the working people of the country. Every labor union is in sympathy with this bill. The A. F. of L. says there are 10 million unemployed persons in the country, many of whom would be given work if this measure were passed."

Mr. Connery said he was reasonably confident the 145 members required to make it effective would sign his petition. House leaders, at the same time, were ready to admit a rapidly growing sentiment in favor of the shorter week bill. As an indication of the congressional tendency they pointed out that last Friday the 145th signature was signed on a petition to bring out the railway 30 hour bill. This measure will be voted upon on May 28, barring future unexpected moves by the leadership.

Not Coupled with Rail Bill.

Mr. Connery said he had no intention of coupling the railway bill with his general 30 hour bill. The latter measure, he stated, must either survive or be defeated on its merits alone.

The 30 hour week legislation has the administration in a delicate predicament. Organized labor is pressing for its passage, but Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery chief, opposes it on the ground that hours of work should be and are being regulated properly under NRA codes.

LOW PRICE TIRES ARE RAISED 20%; OTHERS STEADY

The bargain hunting John Public, whose tire replacements are usually made from the lower grade or "third line" group, paid 20 per cent more for his rubber yesterday. At the same time the more affluent car owner continued to get his tires at old prices.

The tire code went into effect yesterday and resulted in an upward price revision of approximately 20 per cent in third line grades. This applied to mail order as well as general tire dealers, although the mail order prices continued about 10 per cent under the general level, the same ratio which has been maintained for some time. First and second line grades remain the same.

The boost is intended by the NRA to aid the small dealer. However, as the small dealer is said to get the bulk of the third grade business he will be faced with greater competition from dealers in first and second line tires because of the narrowed price spread.

WHITNEY NAMED STOCK EXCHANGE HEAD FIFTH TIME

New York, May 14.—Richard Whitney was reelected president of the New York Stock exchange today for his fifth term. There was no opposition. Warren Nash was reelected treasurer and E. H. H. Simmons was reelected as trustee of the Gratuity fund to serve five years.

Although earlier in the year there had been considerable talk in brokerage circles of an opposition slate to the present officers of the exchange, in recent weeks little had been heard of such a move and no opposition candidates were offered at the meeting today.

The following ten members were elected to serve on the governing committee for a term of four years: Edward E. Bartlett Jr., Oliver C. Billings, Arthur F. Broderick, John A. Cissel, Maurice L. Farrell, Laurence M. Marks, Roger D. Mellick, L. Martin Richmond, E. H. H. Simmons, and Herbert G. Wellington.

Argo Citizens Will Stage an Industrial Celebration

By proclamation of their mayor the citizens of Argo, Ill., will observe next Friday as "Corn Products Refining day," a day, says the Illinois Manufacturers' association, "of public rejoicing in appreciation of what the big manufacturing plant is doing for the prosperity and welfare of the community." The company's monthly pay roll is now about 250,000, or about 20 per cent more than a year ago.

HOUSE FLOUTS SENATE VIEWS ON STOCK BILL

Goes to Conference Today; Fight Looms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—The stock exchange regulation bills, differing widely in the matter of administration and marginal provisions, go to conference tomorrow, with every indication of a hard battle before agreement is reached.

SENATOR GOLDSBOROUGH. [(C) Harris & Ewing]

The house today received the senate bill, passed Saturday, and on motion of Chairman Rayburn of the interstate commerce committee, named conferees and instructed them to insist on the bill passed by the house.

Mr. Rayburn, who is spokesman for the house conferees, said house members hoped that an agreement would be reached without undue delay. He predicted that the bill the President signed would provide for the administration of the law by the federal trade commission and not by a special commission of five members, as provided in the senate measure.

Senate Wants Commission Rule.

The senate conferees, however, will have something to say in this matter, and supporters of the Glass proposal for a separate commission are just as hopeful that a federal securities exchange commission, as the special commission would be designated, will be the agency provided in the measure that finally goes to the President.

In the matter of margins Mr. Rayburn said he did not expect much opposition to the provision fixing a definite formula for the raising or lowering of margins. The house bill carries such a formula while the senate bill leaves the margin transactions on stock exchanges to the discretion of the special commission. There is no question that the conferees have a difficult problem on their hands in harmonizing of the marginal provisions.

Securities Act Changes Settled.

A speedy agreement is in sight on the amendments to the securities act that were adopted by the senate. It is understood that these amendments were approved by house leaders before submission to the senate.

"The house will accept the amendments to the securities act, passed by the senate, virtually without change," Mr. Rayburn said. This would seem to foreclose any hope that advocates of further revision had for such action in conference.

The house conferees named today include, besides Mr. Rayburn, Representatives Huddleston of Alabama and Lea of California, Democrats, and Cooper of Ohio and Mapes of Michigan, Republicans. The senate conferees, appointed by Vice President Garner, are Senators Fletcher of Florida, Byrnes of South Carolina and Barkley of Kentucky, Democrats, and Goldsborough of Maryland, and Couzens of Michigan, Republicans. All the conferees voted for the legislation, in one form or the other, except Senator Goldsborough.

Other Major Differences.

Major differences between the house and senate stock market bills are:

Margins—Senate: Complete authority for the federal reserve board and the regulatory commission to determine margin requirements. House: A provision making minimum margins of 45 per cent the standard, but giving the reserve board and the commission power to change them.

Corporation reports—Senate: Specific requirements and in addition broad power for the commission to require any other reports it considers necessary to protect investors. House: Specific requirements without the blanket power.

Amendments to the securities act—Senate: Sharp limitations in some of the liabilities imposed by the securities act of 1933. House: Nothing on this subject.

Commodity Control Next.

While the conferees are busy, the house will take up the commodity exchange control bil land probably pass it next week.

The house committee on agriculture voted this morning to include cotton exchanges in the bill, a move sure to meet strong opposition in the senate committee on agriculture. Senator Smith of South Carolina is said to oppose the inclusion of cotton.

The bill as originally reported by the committee provided for the regulation of exchange markets through the limitation of short selling and speculation and by licensing commission merchants dealing in wheat and other commodities.

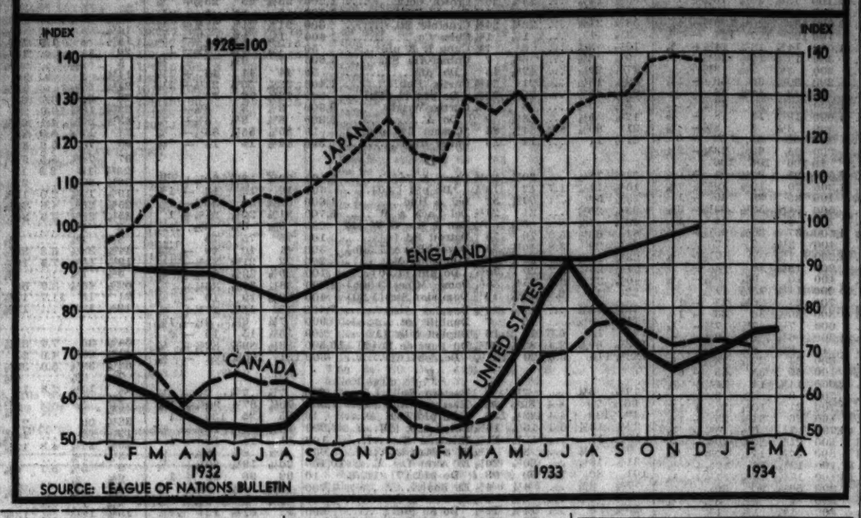
Chairman Jones of the agriculture committee plans to go before the rules committee in the next few days and ask for a rule for the consideration of the bill. The house majority for the bill is said to be as imposing as it was for the stock exchange regulation bill.

New York City Expects U.S. Loans for Building Work

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—The first of the long-awaited loans from the federal government seemed assured today as the board of estimate voted its final approval of New York City projects to cost $33,728,500 and fixed the interest rate at 4 per cent. The city wishes to finish the construction of the Eighth avenue subway, three incinerators, a high school in Queens and the twenty mile water tunnel bringing Croton water to Brooklyn and Queens.

Indexes of Industrial Production in Four Leading Countries



Kuhn, Loeb Co. 'Can't Loan Due to Security Act'

New York, May 14.—(AP)—Hugh Knowlton, partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., told a gathering of public accountants tonight that his firm would do a normal amount of capital issuing business immediately if it were not for the restricting influence of the securities act of 1933.

"Nothing would delight us more than to be able to do a normal amount of issuing business," he said. "We would do it tomorrow if we could honestly advise our corporate clients that they could bring out new capital issues without unreasonable, uncertain and unjust liabilities to themselves, out of all proportion to the benefits to be derived, and if the legal opinion of the country did not advise us that we, in turn, could not prudently assume the risks involved," said Knowlton.

Sees Investment Market Ready.

In regard to the claim that investment bankers and the corporations will bring out new issues as soon as the market is ready, Knowlton asserted that a market is present for good investments. He pointed to the "impressively high prices" at which outstanding issues of high grade bonds are selling. He said he had recently seen "an authoritative and specific" list of funding and refunding requirements, which should be met at this time, totaling $1,200,000,000.

"I know also," he said, "of cases where important financing should be provided at this time for capital improvements, and also in connection with reorganizations whose prompt consummation is vital to the interests of large groups of capital and labor."

Cites Decline in Financing.

"We have seen," he continued, "in spite of an investment demand, in spite of industry's sound and legitimate need of financing, and in spite of the availability of the investment bankers to do their share in bringing the two together, that the quantity of new corporate financing through the private investment markets has nevertheless fallen off to an alarming extent since the enactment of the securities act.

"It is equally significant that the quality of our new financing, from the investment standpoint, has likewise suffered. Two-thirds of the new corporate financing in this country last year took the form of common stock issues, the bulk of which was for the liquor and allied industries, with a large part of the remainder in the stocks of new ventures such as gold mines and other speculative enterprises.

Assails Business Investments.

"The course of government as an investor in business, in competition with the private investment market, is an evil by itself," he said, exempting $6,000,000,000 or $7,000,000,000 of relief and unemployment expenditures. He suggested as a remedy that the government make it possible for private investors to assume what he termed their rightful place as the suppliers of capital funds needed by industry.

"This can be accomplished simply by an adequate amendment of the securities act and a tempering of the stock exchange bill," Knowlton said. "It is a problem which is of the utmost concern to every laboring man in the country, to every white collar worker, to every farmer, to every proprietor."

W. W. Fox Made Officer of Illinois Trade Group

LEADING CAR MAKERS REPORT FOUR MONTH SALE DOUBLE YEAR AGO

Three manufacturers of motor cars in the low priced field, producing 70 to 75 per cent of the outturn for the entire industry, sold 655,586 units in the first four months of this year, compared with 336,987 a year ago.

Chevrolet Motor company reported sales of 281,033, compared with 184,138 a year ago. Ford reported sales of 278,533 units, compared with 107,699. The Plymouth Motor company indicated sales of 96,000 units, compared with 45,150.

With orders continuing to outrun production, the Nash Motor company, according to Dow, Jones & Co., expects in a few days an output of 300 to 350 cars a day, of which more than half will be Lafayettes at the Racine, Wis., plant. On this basis the production for this month will be the largest for any month in several years. Shipments in April were under 2,000 units as the company operated only 11 days of the month.

Registrations of new passenger cars in seventeen states representing 17.97 per cent of the United States totaled 40,666 in April, an increase of 88.57 per cent over sales in the same states in April last year, according to R. L. Polk & Co. Truck registrations in seventeen states were 8,526 units, an increase of 121.57 per cent.

On the basis of these registrations Polk estimated that 225,000 passenger cars were registered in the United States during April. Truck registration for the entire country was set at 37,000 units.

TREASURY SELLS BILLS TO YIELD NEW LOW RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—The treasury tonight announced that it had sold approximately 100 million dollars of new short term discount bills at the lowest interest cost to the government in the history of such securities.

Two series of bills, one maturing in 91 days and the other in 182 days, were offered last Friday. Bids totaling $172,335,000 for the 91 day bills ranged from par to 99.892, the latter price being equivalent to a yield of about 0.07 per cent on an annual bank discount basis. The average price was 99.984, equivalent to about 0.06 per cent. The treasury sold $50,254,000 of this issue.

Bids for the 182 day bills totaled $153,646,000, of which $50,080,000 was accepted. The bids ranged from 99.940, equivalent to about 0.12 per cent, to 99.926, or about 0.15 per cent. The average price was 99.929, equivalent to about 0.14 per cent.

DOLLAR UNEVEN; FRANC RISES AS POUND DECLINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—The dollar was irregular today, sagging somewhat before the gold currencies, but gaining against the British pound. In terms of the French gold franc the dollar closed at 59.27 cents, off 4 points on the day as the franc rose to 6.61 cents.

The pound eased ½ cent to $5.10¾ and the Canadian dollar was down slightly to close a shade above par. The German mark fell 7 points at 39.58 cents, but other leading units were not much changed.

The price of gold in London advanced 1½ pence to 135 shillings 11½ pence a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.76]. French buyers took $1,237,527 of the metal.

The New York Reserve bank reported no imports of gold today.

Illinois Will Levy Tax on Stored Corn

BY PAUL POTTER.

Farmers of the corn belt are being assessed personal property taxes this month on nearly 834 million bushels of corn held in storage. They are even being assessed the taxes on the 30 per cent of this vast grain holdings now "sold" to the government in the form of collateral for federal loans at 45 cents a bushel.

Assessors in downstate Illinois are making their rounds of the farms and sizing up the amount of corn sealed in cribs or wire enclosures and being held for the government's security on its loans of 45 cents a bushel. They are fortified with a recent ruling of Attorney General Otto Kerner on a request of the assessor of Bureau county.

All Corn to Be Assessed.

Kerner ruled that all corn on farms must be assessed, even though it was held as collateral for federal loans on a basis whereby the government takes it on Aug. 1 if the price is below 45 cents, but allows the farmer to sell it and repay his loan if the market is above 45 cents a bushel.

There are 252 million bushels of corn sealed on farms under the government's loan operations, most of it in Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska. On this corn the farmers have been loaned $115,000,000. A considerable part of it is still from the 1932 crop, so the farmer is liable for two years' personal property taxes on it.

Farmers Turn Against AAA.

An increasing resentment of farmers toward the government's corn and hog program is indicated in the latest compilations of farmers' answers to a survey on rural attitude toward the AAA and NRA. The answers given by 4,000 farmers over a wide area to Hoard's Dairyman, Wisconsin dairymen's paper, show that farmers find the 45 cents a bushel lending has reduced hog breeding and the numbers of hogs to consume corn. Asked if the corn-hog plan would help them, 910 farmers answered yes, 1,677 no, and 503 perhaps. Asked if the corn-hog plan had cost them money, 1,342 answered yes, 572 no, and 347 perhaps.

The attitude of the farmers toward the NRA was shown i ntheir answers to the question, "Has the NRA raised prices of things you buy?" There were 3,543 answering yes, 82 answering no, and 64 answering perhaps.

Banks' Gross Deposits Rise; Credit Larger

Gross deposits of federal reserve member banks improved at all points except New York last week, although the government continued to draw down its deposits with the banks indiscriminately.

The weekly report of the federal reserve system covering operations of member banks in 91 leading cities of the country for the week ended May 9 revealed a 12 million dollar increase in gross deposits, Chicago reporting a rise of 21 millions, the interior a gain of 18 millions, and New York a drop of 27 millions. The war loan account had an aggregate recession of 26 millions—13 in New York, 1 at Chicago, and 12 elsewhere.

Total Individual Deposits Off.

Individual deposits rose everywhere except in New York, but the decrease of 85 millions there offset advances of 25 in the interior and 16 here for a net loss of 44 million dollars. Interbank deposits improved 32 millions, with the interior accounting for 5, Chicago 6, and New York 71.

Chicago and New York expanded commercial credit 5 and 6 millions, respectively, while other points contracted their loans 3 millions, resulting in a net advance of 8 millions. Loans on collateral were tightened 23 millions, the interior revealing a drop of 9 millions, Chicago 3 millions and New York 11 millions.

Total loans and investments fell 134 millions, New York accounting for the bulk with an 87 million drop. Interior banks reduced commitments 50 millions, but Chicago expanded this account 3 millions.

Liquidate Government Bonds.

Interior banks also continued the previous week's policy of liquidating holdings of government bonds. This category was cut 38 million dollars. Chicago again expanded its holdings, this time by four millions, while New York reversed its policy of the last several weeks and joined the buying side, accumulating 28 millions.

Prices of securities other than governments were apparently attractive to the two leading centers, as New York reduced its portfolio 109 millions and Chicago one million. Other points bolstered their accounts 97 millions, resulting in a net loss of only 13 millions.

Following are comparisons of the principal resources and liabilities of reporting member banks as at close of business Wednesday:

OUTPUT OF STEEL OFF A FRACTION FROM WEEK AGO

New York, May 14.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute today estimated the current rate of steel operations at 56.6 per cent of capacity, compared with 56.9 per cent last week. Last week's figures marked the highest rate since the institute initiated the weekly figures last October.

U.S. and Canada Newsprint Output Exceeds April, '33

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, May 14. — United States and Canadian mills in April produced 300,159 tons of newsprint against 222,266 tons in April, last year, an increase of 77,893 tons, or 35 per cent, according to the newsprint service bureau.

U. S. OPENS CASE TO BAR CUTTEN IN GRAIN MARTS

Juggling to Conceal Trades Charged.

An attempt to show that Arthur W. Cutten, one of the nation's leading grain traders, controled two accounts with the Uhlmann Grain company and that the accounts were juggled in such a way that neither would at any one time show a market position in excess of 500,000 bushels, was made yesterday as the government opened its action to disbar Mr. Cutten from future trading on grain exchanges.

GEORGE D. EGAN.

The hearing is being held before Referee C. R. Brooks in the customs courtroom in the new Appraisers Stores building. Mr. Cutten was not present as the hearing was opened in the morning, being represented by Orville J. Taylor and James J. Magner of Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden, his attorneys. Leo F. Tierney of Washington is attorney for the grain futures administration.

Charges Failure to Report.

The government's charges, which were instituted by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace under the provisions of the grain futures act of 1922, alleged that Cutten failed to report his open commitments on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Mr. Tierney said the government's evidence will show that during 1930 and 1931 the defendant conspired and colluded with certain grain firms to conceal his position in an attempt to manipulate the price of grain, that in 1930 Mr. Cutten made no reports as to his market position, and that in 1931 his reports were mainly gestures and some of these were false.

Mr. Taylor read a motion to quash the entire action on the grounds that the defendant's right under the United States constitution were being infringed upon. The contending attorneys agreed that it would not be necessary for the referee to decide on the motion, the matter being left to the grain futures commission, which will be given the evidence after it has been taken here.

Special Accounts Questioned.

George D. Egan, office manager of the Uhlmann Grain company, and Richard F. Uhlmann, secretary, were on the stand yesterday. Tierney sought to get Egan to show that two of the firm's accounts, one known as 57A and the other as 57A Special, were controled by Cutten. Under cross-examination he admitted that there were discrepancies in some of the figures shown under sales and purchases, which he attributed to clerical errors.

During the proceeding Weymouth Kirkland of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, representing the Uhlmann company and other concerns whose books have been subpenaed, sought to question Egan, but his request was rejected by the referee on the ground that the grain company was not a party to the action and had no right to intervene.

Uhlmann testified over Tierney's objection that Cutten was an upright citizen, with a reputation for truthfulness and honesty.

In setting out the government's case in the morning Tierney asserted that the government evidence will show that Cutten was a vast short

Why Should Your Debtors Use Your Capital?

Millions of dollars that ought to be working for manufacturers and jobbers are working for their debtors instead. If you expect to make profits in 1934 you must turn your capital over as rapidly as your line of business will permit. This certainly means you have to "hustle up" your slow paying accounts.

An American Credit Policy not only protects you against failures, bankruptcies, receiverships, but also covers delinquent accounts. All covered accounts filed within 60 days after becoming due are payable as losses under the terms of the policy. So your capital is not frozen in long past due accounts.

Americanize Your Credits

The American Credit Indemnity Company saves its policy holders over $5,000,000 a year in collections, alone. In many cases the amounts so recovered, pay the annual premium.

For forty-one years we have written Credit Insurance exclusively. Each policy is planned to meet the exact needs of the applicant. Settlements are promptly made. We are not in default on a single established claim.

STOCKS RECOVER AFTER DECLINE TO YEAR'S LOWS

Selling Wave Is Offset in Late Trading.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—After another gale of selling had blown market values to new lows for the year, stocks met a measure of support in the late dealings today. Hoisting the market abruptly from its lows, the sudden rally at the close cut losses sharply all around and in many cases converted recessions into small gains on the day.

The reversal of the trend left the price list in a highly irregular condition at the final bell. Nat looses however, were somewhat in the majority, but in most cases they were small, rarely exceeding one point among the active issues. Gains, too, were limited to fractions, with a few moderate exceptions. Losses at the worst, for a period around noon, ranged from 1 to 8 points.

Selling Is Well Distributed.

Selling, when in progress, was well distributed over the list. On the other hand, the recovery indicated favoritism toward railroad issues and industrials of the pivotal investment type, including some of the chemical and alcohol stocks.

The rally brought a sharp expansion in volume and the ticker, which earlier had fallen behind on the downside, trailed floor transactions on the upside. The turnover approximated 1,673,000 shares.

The midday selling offensive against stocks was ascribable to a number of factors. Foremost was the street's reaction to developments in Washington on the market regulation legislation now in conference between the senate and house. Brokers and holders of equities apparently found little cause for apprehension in the market bill as passed by the senate Saturday.

See Business Tapering Off.

Moreover, selling was accelerated by realization of the fact that general business is receding from the advanced position reached early in the spring, although in most lines it is still better than a year ago.

As news from Washington sifted over the tickers around noon, the market came in for rough handling and selling for a time assumed liquidation proportions. Prices dropped from 1 to 8 points in short order, the more speculative issues suffering the sharpest losses. Allied Chemical retreated most, but recouped about half of the drop before the close.

Saturday's dip had brought an increase in margin calls this morning and renewal of the selling further harassed margin traders.

No active stocks were spared the heavy selling that blew the market to new lows. More than 100 stocks, or 15 per cent of the issues traded in during the day, broke through previous bottom levels for the year. The subsequent rally was explained largely on technical grounds.

American Telephone, which had been pounded heavily earlier and had lost more than a point, rebounded for a net gain of 2 points. This brought short covering and renewed strength in other utilities. Steel dropped below 40 for the first time this year.

DECLINE SHOWN IN PASSENGERS ON N. Y. CENTRAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—Largely because of a drop of 5,585,049 in commutation passengers, the number of passengers carried by the New York Central railroad declined from 50,781,188 in 1932 to 45,018,512 in 1933. Freight revenue increased from $198,328,131 to $194,286,543, and passenger revenue decreased from $60,151,921 to $53,231,807.

The company had $1,502,005 in banks closed at the time of the holiday last year, but since that time $665,428 of the funds were released.

As previously reported, the company suffered a net loss of $5,412,513 in 1933 against $18,326,550 in 1932. Profit and loss surplus decreased from $238,624,521 to $225,981,639 in 1933, a $2,087,824 charge being made for property retired. The investment in owned equipment decreased $19,037,109 to $228,994,804 in 1933.

Operating revenues were $283,341,102, a decrease of $10,295,037, and net railway operating income totaled $32,269,162, an increase of $12,456,175. Total assets were $1,825,793, an increase of $426,063. Operating expenses decreased $19,253,325, effected mainly through a reduction of expenses in maintenance of way and structures and equipment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—A reaction in United States government issues for the first time in three weeks was the feature of trading in fixed obligations today. Other groups also sold lower.

The slight decline in United States government obligations came in a dull market and without any particular provocation other than the general bearishness recently prevailing in the securities markets. The losses in this group ranged up to 9-32 of a point. First Liberty convertible 4¼s, 1932-'47, were up 1-32 of a point.

Prime Issues Hold Up.

Among the corporate issues secondary loans were again under pressure but prime issues generally held aloof from the downward movement. Low prices for the day were recorded in early transactions. There was a fairly brisk late rally, coincident with a moderate recovery in stocks.

The trading volume was not particularly large, transfers totaling $15,068,000, par value, as compared with approximately $13,000,000 on the last full season.

List of Strong Bonds.

Gains were recorded in Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, Chesapeake corporation 5s, St. Paul issues, Chicago and Northwestern 4½s, Erie issues International Telephone debenture 5s, Philadelphia and Reading convertible 6s, Postal Telegraph 5s, and Standard Oil of New York 4½s.

Foreign government bonds moved in a narrow range throughout the day and closed unchanged in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE's average.

BUTTER, CHEESE, POULTRY STOCKS SHOW INCREASE

Cold storage tocks of butter as reported by the United States bureau of economics increased during the last month. Supplies of dressed poultry and cheese also increased. Comparisons, with the last three ciphers omitted, follow:

Walworth Co.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Walworth company. Am particularly interested in their debentures due next year.—F. J. J.

Answer: The beginning of Walworth company dates back to 1842. The present title was adopted on Oct. 8, 1925. The company manufactures valves, metal fittings, pipe and pipe wrenches, and related specialty products. Its most important customers are industrial plants, oil and power industries, railroads, and the building trade.

Heavy losses in the last three years resulted in a drain on cash and the company was unable to pay the interest due April 1, 1933, on its two bond issues.

An optimistic note was struck by Howard Coonley, president, in his report to stockholders on March 14. He said that orders and sales in the first two months of this year were well above last year and were sufficient to yield a profit after all charges. A press dispatch dated April 16, 1934, said that operations have continued profitable. Some business is being obtained from the public works program, but demand from that source has not been as important as the increase in business from general industry.

Loss after all charges in 1933 was $866,000; against loss of $1,307,000 in 1932 and loss of $2,063,000 in 1931. Net profit in 1930 was $148,000, against $2,011,000 in 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets, including cash of $561,000, totaled $5,263,000, and current liabilities, including $609,000 notes payable, were $1,790,000. In April, 1934, the company sold its interest in its English subsidiary on a reported basis of book value. The investment was carried on the company's books at $241,000.

The $1,673,000 debenture 6½s, due 1935, are junior to $7,141,000 first mortgage 6s, due 1945. Both issues are quite speculative.

General Electric.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly inform me when the last dividend payment was made on common stock of General Electric? What should a stockholder do if he did not receive it?—I. J.

Answer: The last dividend on stock of General Electric company was 15 cents a share, paid April 25 to stock of record March 16. If you were a holder of record on March 16 but failed to receive the dividend we suggest you write to the company. The main office of the company is in Schenectady, N. Y.

Wayne Pump.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me your rating of Wayne Pump 6s, due 1948?—Mrs. B. H. A.

Answer: These unsecured debentures are more a speculation than an investment.

HOG PRICES RISE DESPITE LACK OF FEDERAL BUYING

Cattle Decline Again as Demand Shrinks.

Hog prices made a mild rally yesterday in the absence of buying by the federal surplus relief corporation. It was the first time in six weeks that the government remained off the Monday market. For a time other buyers were reluctant to start trading before the attitude of federal buyers was determined. Later, however, when it was learned there would be no government buying, a fairly active session developed for anything of good to choice quality weighing above 200 pounds.

Plain light kinds which have been selling relatively high for the account of the relief corporation, considering their quality, found an irregular outlet in the commercial channels, and some of these closed lower. Prices were mostly steady to 10 cents higher than on Saturday, but showed declines of 5 to 15 cents compared with last Friday.

Friday High Mark Equaled.

However, small lots of hogs at the close of yesterday sold up to $3.80, equaling the highest mark made in Friday's session. The practical top for the day at $3.75 compared with $3.60 Saturday and with $3.80 Friday. Prices averaged $3.55, against $3.50 on Saturday and $3.65 Friday.

A recovery in the wholesale pork trade stimulated buying by the smaller interests which have been light purchasers of hogs for weeks, although the volume handled by them was much below normal.

The extension of the old contracts on which four packers were buying hogs for the government ended last week, but new contracts are to be issued.

Further substantial declines were registered in cattle yesterday. Demand was lacking and offerings of most classes shared in the reduction, the top grades of weighty beeves showing the first weakness in many weeks. In fact, nothing in the run yesterday sold above $9, and some of the $8.50 to $9 cattle were regarded as 35 to 50 cents under the closing quotations of last week.

Other Bearish Factors.

Beef prices are 50 cents to $1 lower than a week ago and hides are at the lowest levels in more than a month. Jewish holidays next week also exerted a bearish influence on the trade for most classes of cattle. Top steers at $9 averaged 1,452 pounds, but only a small proportion of the receipts was eligible to more than $8. The bulk of the crops of steers cashed within a range of $5 to $7.50.

Lamb prices declined 10 to 25 cents on light receipts. City butchers bought the best wooled lambs up to $9.25, while top shorn lambs sold at $8.25. No strictly fancy springers arrived, but the trade was carrying a nominal quotation of $10.50 for the best. All springers are being subjected to closer sorting, and all buck lambs are rejected from the ewes and wethers and discounted $1.

WEAKNESS IN GRAIN, HOGS DEPRESSES LARD PRICES

Scattered selling of lard with poor support, due to the weakness in grains and hogs, was sufficient to satisfy all buying orders and carry prices to lower levels yesterday. Net losses on lard futures were 7½ to 12½ cents, distant futures being the weakest.

Cash lard was 7½ cents lower at $6.05 for regular, while loose and leaf were steady at $5.62½. No interest was taken in bellies for future delivery, and cash offerings were picked up at the recent figures, $7.87½. Liverpool lard was irregular, 3d higher to 3d lower. Prices:

Miscellaneous.

I AM READY TO INTERVIEW 2 OR 3 men who would be willing to learn a new business which will pay a steady income approximating $200 a month. Men selected should have had from 8 to 10 years or more business exp. For the right man I will finance the business, which is outstanding in electric, unit operations, and is backed by abundant capital.

The first year your earnings should not be under $2,500 and likely closer to $3,000. The 2d and 3d year much larger. You receive an exceptionally attractive commission and yet do not invest any money yourself or assume any obligation of overhead. The men considered will be residents of the North Side and suburbs adjacent, and those interested will come prepared to spend 2 or 3 hours with me, and I will go into this matter in detail. Come to rear office, 1st floor, 6675 N. W. highway, Edison Park, at 2 p. m., sharp, Tues., May 15. If we come to an agreement, I will have you established in this business before the end of this week. It is permanent and expanding rapidly.
